$3,505,777 Seen Low Bid For City Freeway Project

An apparent low bid of $3,505,777 was filed with the State Highway Department at Columbus Tuesday for construction of the four-lane California Hollow-West End Freeway, on which work is expected to begin early in 1961.

The low bid, nearly $200,000 under the official estimate, was filed jointly by Baker & Hickey of Columbus and Chapin & Chapin, Inc., of Norwalk. The Highway Department had estimated the project would cost $3,701,200.

However, the overall cost of the work will total approximately $6 million, as more than $2 million will be spent in acquiring rights-of-way. Engineering and other details will account for the balance.

When Council and the administration discussed the project with Highway Department officials less than a month ago, they were told construction probably would begin in February.

At the time, local officials learned the project will be built without any additional outlay of funds for the city's share, a saving of over $500,000 to the municipality.

A series of concessions by the Highway Department, in which it assumed parts of the work that originally were the city's responsibility, plus a $100,000 grant from county commissioners, helped reduce the local participation to furnishing detailed construction plans — which already has been done.

The project will extend from the north city limits in California Hollow to W. 3rd and Monroe Sts. Its planning dates back to November 1955.

The road will enter West End via the approximate course of Carpenters Run, parts of which will be relocated. It will cross the four-lane section of W. 8th St. with an overhead ramp and a series of interchanges. Looping around the City Hospital site, east of Westgate School, it will go under the Ohio end of the Newell Bridge.

To connect present Route 30 with the freeway, W. 3rd St. will be given a new blacktop surface from Market St. to Monroe St. But no additional work is planned on W. 3rd, at least at present.

That's because it has not been determined exactly what course the second stage of the freeway will take as it moves east toward the Chester Bridge.

At the north city limits, the freeway will connect with the first stage of the Lake Erie-Ohio River Highway, which will link East Liverpool and Ashtabula.

Statement Tells Intent To Kill Capps

Recording Made At Arrest Of Salem Man Played For Jury

LISBON — "I intended to kill him if he came into the house," Frank Fish said of the tense seconds just before he shot his son-in-law Aug. 3, according to a statement read this morning in the third day of his second degree murder trial.

The heavy set millworker and farmer sat impassive as Sheriff Russell VanFossan read the statement taken from Fish the evening following the shotgun slaying of Wyman Capps at Fish's Egypt Rd. farm home near Salem.

In the statement — also taken on a recorder and replayed Tuesday afternoon — Fish told of Capps' return from Salem drunk, and his determination not to let Capps, 37, enter the house "like that."

He said Capps had "too much of a record" to permit him in the house with the family.

Testimony this morning brought out that Capps, a native of Alabama, had a Federal Bureau of Identification record which included his escape from a prison farm in Alabama July 1 where he was serving a term for grand larceny involving the theft of an automobile.

Atty. John E. Bauknecht, defense counsel, asked VanFossan if Capps did not also have a record of being charged with assault to murder in 1956, but Prosecutor G. William Brokaw objected, and Judge Raymond S. Buzzard sustained the objection.

Later Sheriff VanFossan said a charge of "A. and M." was listed on the FBI report for 1956, but although he said he felt the A. was for assault, he didn't know for what the M. stood.

Brokaw asked the sheriff if there was any disposition of the case, and he replied there was not.

Fish, 56, faces life imprisonment on the murder charge which, however, could have manslaughter as an inclusive charge depending upon the evidence.

Fish, a native of Tennessee who came from the Cincinnati area to Salem about 30 years ago, is slated to take the stand Thursday after the defenses presents depositions from Alabama residents and other witnesses — including police officers who were telephoned from the Fish home prior to the shooting.

The prosecution is expected to complete its case today.

Mrs. Lessie Thomas, 1218 Erie St., original member of the jury seated Monday, was excused today because of the death of her father. Frank Eells of Negley, alternate, replaced her.

Highlight of yesterday's testimony was the playing of a recording of a statement made by Fish at the County Jail the night of the shooting.

On three 15-minute belts, Fish answered questions from Sheriff Russell VanFossan and Prosecutor Brokaw, relating the events of the rainy August day and telling how he warned his son-in-law not to

$24,000 Set As Damages In 2 Blazes

4 Families With 15 Persons Flee; One Fireman Is Injured

Two homes were destroyed and another extensively damaged in two separate fires which caused over $24,000 loss in Wellsville Tuesday night.

Four families were driven into the bitter cold by the blazes. One fireman was injured slightly. The damage far exceeded the entire fire loss in Wellsville during 1959 and represented one of the worst blazes the town has seen in many years.

The fires were at widely separated points. Firemen received the first call at 7:20 p.m. and didn't return to the station until 5:30 a.m. today.

The first was at the home of Thomas Buckel, 202 18th St. His son, William Buckel and his family, also reside in the house, which was damaged extensively.

After battling the blaze at the Buckel home for about two hours, Chief Robert Lewis sent one of the trucks back to the station to remain on standby in case of another fire.

The truck arrived at 8:45 p.m. and immediately the alarm sounded for a fire at the home of Perry Daniels, 341 Broadway. Firemen fought the blaze at the Daniels home for about two hours and returned to the station, believing it was out.

At 10:30, another call was sounded for a blaze at the home of Mrs. Mame L. Stevenson, 343 Broadway, next-door neighbor of Daniels.

Firemen said the Daniels home and the Stevenson were destroyed.

Lewis said the fire at the Buckel home was caused either by a defective chimney or an overheated stove.

He said the loss to the home was $4,000 while about $2,000 damage resulted to the contents. The losses are covered by insurance.

An estimated $5,000 damage resulted to the Daniels home and $2,500 to the contents. The blaze was caused by an overheated furnace which was installed too close to the floor joists.

Only part of the loss of the contents of the Daniels home was covered by insurance.

Damage to the Stevenson home was set at $8,000 and the loss of

Kennedy Picks McNamara As Secretary Of Defense

WASHINGTON (AP) — President-elect John F. Kennedy has reached the halfway point in filling his Cabinet — five down and five to go — and the odds seem fairly good that he plans to add another either today or Thursday.

His fifth selection, announced late Tuesday, was that of Robert S. McNamara to be his secretary of Defense. McNamara, 44, is president of the Ford Motor Co.

Kennedy is announcing no timetable for his choices. All he would tell reporters, camping outside his Georgetown doorstep in bitter cold Tuesday night, was that he expects to complete his Cabinet within the next few days.

Nor was there any clue in the schedule he announced for today as to which post he will fill next. His first appointment was with Gov. Luther H. Hodges of North Carolina, already named to be secretary of Commerce.

Among those expected to see Kennedy are Reps. James W. Trimble of Arkansas, Frank M. Clark of Pennsylvania, Lester R. Johnson of Wisconsin, Albert Thomas of Texas, Victor L. Anfuso of New York, Edith Green of Oreron, Michael J. Kirwan of Ohio and Francis E. Walter of Pennsylvania.

But Kennedy doesn't disclose all his callers in advance. Reporters noticed he left a big two-hour gap in his schedule just after noon, a fine spot for an announcement if he has one ready.

Kennedy still must pick secretaries of Agriculture, Treasury and Labor; plus a postmaster

Crash Blamed On 'Shortcut' Via Driveway

When a 20-year-old driver took a shortcut through the driveway of an Oakland dairy store Tuesday afternoon, it resulted in a crash that caused extensive damage to two autos and a traffic citation which cost him $31 today in Municipal Court.

Thomas E. Willey, 2003 Pennsylvania Ave. Ext., pleaded guilty to a reckless driving charge before Judge Samuel M. Chertoff as an aftermath of a collision at 4:49 p.m. on Oakland Ave. near Pennsylvania Ave. that involved his 1956 sedan and a 1959 auto operated by William Richards, 28, of 241 W. Center Ln.

Willey told police he was driving west in heavy traffic on Pennsylvania Ave. when he decided to take a shortcut through the dairy store's driveway onto Oakland Ave. to reach a less congested secondary street.

As he pulled out the other side of the driveway onto Oakland Ave. he hit Richards' northbound auto, police said. There was extensive damage to the left front, grill, fender and bumper of Willey's car and the right front fender and headlight of the Richards auto, police said.

Judge Chertoff cautioned Willey against such maneuvers in slippery weather.

"You took a shortcut and the next thing you knew you were involved in an accident," he said.

James W. Davis of 6th Ave., LaCroft, was fined $15 and costs when he pleaded guilty to a reckless driving charge filed by the State Highway Patrol as an after-

Technical Difficulties

U.S. Forced To Delay Shot Intended For Moon Orbit

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —Technical trouble today forced at least a one-day postponement of an attempt to launch an American space craft toward an intended orbit about the moon.

The 388-pound space craft is intended to become the first lunar satellite. Its load of electronic equipment is designed to make the most extensive study yet attempted of the moon's environment.

The countdown on the 98-foot Atlas-Able booster rocket progressed to within seven minutes of the scheduled lift-off time today when the attempt was called off.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration reported only that technical difficulties had prevented the launch. It did not reveal the nature of the trouble.

Scientists had only a 21-minute span—from 2:58 a.m. to 3:19 a.m. EST—in which to fire the rocket to put it on the proper course to the moon, 240,000 miles away. When it became apparent the trouble could not be corrected in time, the shot was postponed.

Today was the second day of a five-day period in which the moon is in a favorable position for the launching. If the trouble is minor, another launch effort may be made Thursday. If the Atlas-Able does not get off the ground by Saturday, the shot will be put off until the next ideal period, 28 days from now.

The space craft carries instruments to measure such space phenomena as radiation, magnetic fields and micrometeorites. This data could help prepare for manned flight to the moon.

Annual USPA Meeting To Close With Election

Election of officers this afternoon will conclude the two-day 82nd annual meeting of the U.S. Potters Association at the Hilton Hotel in Pittsburgh.

The opening day's session Tuesday was devoted principally to committee reports. The annual banquet was held last night, with an address by Phillip Lovejoy of New York City, former international secretary of Rotary Clubs.

More than 100 are attending the meeting of the manufacturers' organization, most of them from East Liverpool district dinnerware plants.

John A. Melvin Seeks New Term On Council

John A. Melvin, now serving his first term as councilman-at-large, announced today he will seek renomination on the Democratic ticket at the May 2 primaries.

Chairman of the Council finance committee, he is married and resides at 1200 Jennings Ave. He is a former co-owner of the J. K. Drug Corp., which operates the Rand Drugstore. During World War II, he served with a coast artillery unit.

Melvin is a member of the Elks and Moose Lodges and the East Liverpool Democratic Club. A native of East Liverpool, he is 44.

Suppertime Blackout In Ohio

Electric Failure Plunges 24 Counties Into Darkness

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—At least a million people were plunged into darkness at suppertime Tuesday night as an electric power failure hit 24 Ohio counties.

People were trapped in stopped elevators, candles were sold like hotcakes, a pilot couldn't find his airport, Christmas shoppers had to grope their way in pitch-black department stores and some people even feared enemy sabotage or an attack.

But despite the unlighted streets, stores and houses, no accidents or fatalities, shopliftings or robberies were reported.

The cause of it all, a spokesman for the Dayton Power & Light Co. said, was a combination of two things: A broken wire in a critical 69,000-volt power line plus a ruptured boiler tube in a Dayton generating station.

The power failed at approximately 5:50 p.m. By 7:03 there was enough power to supply downtown Dayton, but it wasn't before 9 p.m. when general service was restored, and even then just 90 per cent of the area was back to normal.

The blacked-out area covered 6,041 square miles with 260,000 electricity customers. Fifteen counties were completely blacked out. They were Montgomery, Preble, Greene, Clinton, Fayette, Van Wert, Darke, Miami, Champaign, Union, Logan, Shelby, Mercer, Auglaize and Hardin.

Another nine counties were blacked out in spots.

In the downtown Dayton area, the lights came back on once for eight minutes when its electrical system was tied in with Cincinnati's, but the hookup drained too much and circuit breakers were again throw out, plunging the city back into darkness.

The electric company spokesman said the line break occurred just northeast of Dayton. When the line went out, the spokesman said, it overloaded the circuit, causing a condition known as "system instability." This shut down the entire system including the interconnection with the Cincinnati Gas & Electric Co.

The spokesman explained that the boiler tube damage, which had occurred Monday night, had taken one of Dayton Power & Light's

Flash In Sky Startles Many In Ohio Valley

A brilliant flash in the sky apparently over the Pittsburgh vicinity startled many persons in the Ohio Valley shortly after midnight. It was believed (A), a meteorite, (B), a rocket blowup, (C), a jet night fighter practice or (D), snoopers from Mars.

It was bright blue and raced across the heavens in a flash about 12:17 a.m. A similar phenomenon was reported in the Zanesville vicinity. There was no immediate explanation from Air Force or other military services. Amateur astronomers doubted it was a meteorite.

J. W. Rowley of Calcutta said he saw the light while driving on Route 7 at Middleton.

Rowley said he was en route home from work at Columbiana when the entire sky was lighted up by the blue-colored light which looked something like a gigantic electrical flash.

Rowley said the light appeared to come out of the west and fade toward the east. He said he rolled down the window of his car but could not hear any noise. The entire sky was lighted up "like daytime," he said.

Installation Completed For 100 'Gift' Meters

The Dual Parking Meter Co. of Pittsburgh has completed installation of 100 parking meters which it donated to the city as replacements for 100 others that had been in service since 1947, Safety - Service Director Lee Copenhaver announced today.

The new manual-type meters were installed on sections of Broadway and St. Clair Ave., replacing "automatic" type meters which the city purchased from the same concern 13 years ago. Donation of the meters was promised to Mayor Bert H. Goodballet several months ago by the firm.

"The administration wishes to thank the Dual company publicly for its action in replacing the meters at no cost to the city," Copenhaver said.

Stuttler Case Review Slated

Supreme Bench To Consider Reversal

Prosecutor G. William Brokaw has won State Supreme Court consent to review the reversal of the conviction of Louis Stuttler for the burglary of the Burbick Hardware in 1954.

The high court announced at Columbus today it has placed under review the 7th District Appeals Court ruling that threw out the former city policeman's conviction in 1958.

Prosecutor Brokaw argued for a review in an appearance before the high court Friday.

The appeals court reversed Stuttler's 1-15-year sentence and ordered his discharge for lack of evidence that the burglary occurred at night while the store was closed.

The court said breaking and entering by day is a different offense from night season burglary. The appeals court issued the reversal in March. After the defense claimed the burglary had not occurred at night as specified in the indictment.

He was convicted by Common Pleas Court jury in December 1958.

$3,505,777 Seen Low Bid For City Freeway Project

An apparent low bid of $3,505,777 was filed with the State Highway Department at Columbus Tuesday for construction of the four-lane California Hollow-West End Freeway, on which work is expected to begin early in 1961.

The low bid, nearly $200,000 under the official estimate, was filed jointly by Baker & Hickey of Columbus and Chapin & Chapin, Inc., of Norwalk. The Highway Department had estimated the project would cost $3,701,200.

However, the overall cost of the work will total approximately $6 million, as more than $2 million will be spent in acquiring rights-of-way. Engineering and other details will account for the balance.

The project will extend from the north city limits in California Hollow to W. 3rd and Monroe Sts. Its planning dates back to November 1955.

The road will enter West End via the approximate course of Carpenters Run, parts of which will be relocated. It will cross the four-lane section of W. 8th St. with an overhead ramp and a series of interchanges. Looping around the City Hospital site, east of Westgate School, it will go under the Ohio end of the Newell Bridge.

To connect present Route 30 with the freeway, W. 3rd St. will be given a new blacktop surface from Market St. to Monroe St. But no additional work is planned on W. 3rd, at least at present.

That's because it has not been determined exactly what course the second stage of the freeway will take as it moves east toward the Chester Bridge.

At the north city limits, the freeway will connect with the first stage of the Lake Erie-Ohio River Highway, which will link East Liverpool and Ashtabula.

Electric Failure Plunges 24 Counties Into Darkness

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—At least a million people were plunged into darkness at suppertime Tuesday night as an electric power failure hit 24 Ohio counties.

People were trapped in stopped elevators, candles were sold like hotcakes, a pilot couldn't find his airport, Christmas shoppers had to grope their way in pitch-black department stores and some people even feared enemy sabotage or an attack.

But despite the unlighted streets, stores and houses, no accidents or fatalities, shopliftings or robberies were reported.

The cause of it all, a spokesman for the Dayton Power & Light Co. said, was a combination of two things: A broken wire in a critical 69,000-volt power line plus a ruptured boiler tube in a Dayton generating station.

The power failed at approximately 5:50 p.m. By 7:03 there was enough power to supply downtown Dayton, but it wasn't before 9 p.m. when general service was restored, and even then just 90 per cent of the area was back to normal.

The blacked-out area covered 6,041 square miles with 260,000 electricity customers. Fifteen counties were completely blacked out. They were Montgomery, Preble, Greene, Clinton, Fayette, Van Wert, Darke, Miami, Champaign, Union, Logan, Shelby, Mercer, Auglaize and Hardin.

Another nine counties were blacked out in spots.

In the downtown Dayton area, the lights came back on once for eight minutes when its electrical system was tied in with Cincinnati's, but the hookup drained too much and circuit breakers were again throw out, plunging the city back into darkness.

The electric company spokesman said the line break occurred just northeast of Dayton. When the line went out, the spokesman said, it overloaded the circuit, causing a condition known as "system instability." This shut down the entire system including the interconnection with the Cincinnati Gas & Electric Co.

The spokesman explained that the boiler tube damage, which had occurred Monday night, had taken one of Dayton Power & Light's

Flash In Sky Startles Many In Ohio Valley

A brilliant flash in the sky apparently over the Pittsburgh vicinity startled many persons in the Ohio Valley shortly after midnight. It was believed (A), a meteorite, (B), a rocket blowup, (C), a jet night fighter practice or (D), snoopers from Mars.

It was bright blue and raced across the heavens in a flash about 12:17 a.m. A similar phenomenon was reported in the Zanesville vicinity. There was no immediate explanation from Air Force or other military services. Amateur astronomers doubted it was a meteorite.

J. W. Rowley of Calcutta said he saw the light while driving on Route 7 at Middleton.

Rowley said he was en route home from work at Columbiana when the entire sky was lighted up by the blue-colored light which looked something like a gigantic electrical flash.

Rowley said the light appeared to come out of the west and fade toward the east. He said he rolled down the window of his car but could not hear any noise. The entire sky was lighted up "like daytime," he said.

Installation Completed For 100 'Gift' Meters

The Dual Parking Meter Co. of Pittsburgh has completed installation of 100 parking meters which it donated to the city as replacements for 100 others that had been in service since 1947, Safety - Service Director Lee Copenhaver announced today.

The new manual-type meters were installed on sections of Broadway and St. Clair Ave., replacing "automatic" type meters which the city purchased from the same concern 13 years ago. Donation of the meters was promised to Mayor Bert H. Goodballet several months ago by the firm.

"The administration wishes to thank the Dual company publicly for its action in replacing the meters at no cost to the city," Copenhaver said.

Stuttler Case Review Slated

Supreme Bench To Consider Reversal

Prosecutor G. William Brokaw has won State Supreme Court consent to review the reversal of the conviction of Louis Stuttler for the burglary of the Burbick Hardware in 1954.

The high court announced at Columbus today it has placed under review the 7th District Appeals Court ruling that threw out the former city policeman's conviction in 1958.

Prosecutor Brokaw argued for a review in an appearance before the high court Friday.

The appeals court reversed Stuttler's 1-15-year sentence and ordered his discharge for lack of evidence that the burglary occurred at night while the store was closed.

The court said breaking and entering by day is a different offense from night season burglary. The appeals court issued the reversal in March. After the defense claimed the burglary had not occurred at night as specified in the indictment.

He was convicted by Common Pleas Court jury in December 1958.

To Get Rid Of Ford Shares

McNamara Stands To Lose $3 Million In Job Change

DETROIT (AP)—Why would a man be willing to lose some $3 million in exchange for $25,000 a year and the title of secretary of defense?

Because, says Robert Strange McNamara, "Personal considerations must be subordinated to the responsibility to serve the president of the United States and the public on request."

McNamara announced Tuesday that he was going to leave his job as president of the Ford Motor Co.—a post he has held for slightly more than a month — to join President-elect John F. Kennedy's Cabinet as defense secretary.

McNamara, 44, said he planned to get rid of his 24,705 shares of Ford stock and the options he holds on 30,000 other shares.

"I will forego profit of about $3 million over the next three to four years," he said.

All this for $25,000 a year and the tremendous responsibilities of a job offered by a Democratic president-elect to a man who describes himself as a Republican, who votes as a political independent, and who refuses to say whether he voted for Kennedy because "my vote is my own affair."

McNamara, an Air Force veteran, appeared on the automotive scene in 1946 with the postwar reorganization of Ford. He and nine other experts who pioneered the complex job of setting up statistical controls for the Air Force took themselves to Ford as a package and asked for a chance to put their talents to work for the giant auto company.

Henry Ford II, company president then, took the 10 on, and in a short time they had undertaken such a sweeping shake-up in company policy that they became known as "the whiz kids."

McNamara, a native of San Francisco, studied at the University of California. He looks and dresses like the school teacher he once was—rimless glasses; hair parted in the middle; conservative suits.

He; his wife, Margaret, a son, Robert Craig, 10; and a daughter, Kathleen, 16, live at nearby Ann Arbor. Another daughter, Margaret Elizabeth, 19, attends Stanford University.

Broiled tomatoes are delicious when they have a topping of bread crumbs mixed with butter; they're extra-delicious when you add a little grated cheddar, Parmesan or Romano cheese to the crumb combination.

TOYS GALORE—AND MORE NEEDED. City firemen on the crew in charge of Asst. Chief Alfred Van Dyne have been working to repair toys so that Christmas won't be just another day for some children. The toys are being distributed by the city relief department. Mrs. Alice Bair said the department is receiving more requests than usual, apparently because of unemployment in the district. More toys are needed, but they should be usable, Mrs. Bair stressed. Many of the articles cannot be repaired and must be discarded. The toys will be accepted until Dec. 24. Fireman Edwin Greenwood checks on a tricycle on his list as Fireman Richard Plumley wields a paint brush and Fireman Austin Conley makes a minor repair. Standing in the rear are Fireman James Walker and Asst. Chief Van Dyne.

Milk Price Given

CLEVELAND (AP)—A November price of $4.65 a hundredweight for 3.5 per cent butterfat content milk was announced Tuesday for the Northeastern Ohio federal milk market by W. W. Hurwitz, market administrator. This is up 13 cents from October and compares with $4.48 a year ago. The 13-cent increase means about one-fourth cent a quart in added cost for dairies delivering to consumers' homes.

Extra flavor results when you cook small white onions in beef stock before adding them to a cream sauce.

Washington Should Speak First

For as long as most of us can remember, the foreign policy of the United States has been like a prizefighter's counterpunching.

Washington has waited for its adversary to commit himself, then responded to his moves. This government has not initiated action, although it has talked one of the greatest crusades in history.

Right now, while the incoming Kennedy administration is putting together its new State Department leadership, is the time for the rest of us to decide what we would like to see changed.

The sovereign people in a representative democracy have a peculiar responsibility in foreign policy. They literally make and break policy by their favor and disfavor in elections.

THE 1960 national election was, in part, a referendum on the Eisenhower administration's foreign policy, which had left much dissatisfaction in the minds of the American people. While those who favored the administration argued that the administration had done the best it could under the circumstances—and perhaps a little better than it could have been expected to do—those who criticized it felt the circumstances, themselves, could have been changed for the better.

This is a challenge to the incoming Kennedy administration—to change the circumstances.

It can do this by trying to take the initiative in controlling the circumstances of international affairs.

A concrete example: Instead of waiting for Premier Khrushchev to precipitate a Berlin crisis by setting a deadline, Washington could have taken the initiative and set a deadline for the Soviet Union.

THE DIFFICULTY is that the United States must work with its allies, who have their own ideas. Much of what it would like to do must be watered down, trimmed and adjusted to the ideas of other governments.

It sometimes has been forced to counterpunch in negotiations with its allies, too, by letting them make commitments, then reacting to their initiative. It did this in the instance of the attack against Egypt by Great Britain, France and Israel. They made the initial move. The United States reacted.

JOHN F. KENNEDY will be his own secretary of state, in the constitutional sense that he will retain in his own hands the primary responsibility for foreign affairs. His secretary of state, Dean Rusk, will be the executive head of the State Department, not the originator of foreign policy, as the late John Foster Dulles sometimes was in the Eisenhower administration.

Mr. Dulles always was respectful of presidential authority and went out of his way to explain that he was effectuating presidential decisions. But in fact he was his own fountainhead of ideas. And in the course of the years, he was forced more often than not to concentrate on counter-punching, due to the Soviet Union's success in holding the initiative.

Perhaps a representative democracy never can hold the initiative. Many Americans have wondered about this; they do not want to believe their country bears a handicap that never can be removed, but they cannot be sure.

They are putting their hope in a new administration, in a new concept, in a new team of foreign policy handlers. They would like to see the United States draw some deadlines, to test the counter-punching of the Soviet Union for a change.

When Emergency Is Only Normal

There will be from now until late Spring a series of weather emergencies in the eastern part of the United States.

Further west, the same kind of weather that constitutes an emergency when it happens in the East is normal from December to May. The same hazards exist, the same inconvenience, the same suffering and pretty much the same mishaps, but westeners are used to winter.

Most of them have learned from experience what not to do and what to do when weather is severe. Those who survive are unlikely to do the things that cause trouble in the East when it blows and snows.

A small child froze to death on an apartment house roof in New York City when it took off its clothes and went exploring, then was unable to reopen the trap door to return to the family apartment. It may be doubted that any North Dakota child would go exploring au naturel on a rooftop in wintertime. It would know better from birth.

It's interesting to wonder what constitutes an emergency in the affairs of men. Is a hurricane in Florida an emergency, when hurricanes occur there year in and year out? Is France having an emergency in Algeria over a problem that has existed for generations?

Is the absence of a boom an emergency in the United States, where even Big Brotherites have to admit that fluctuations in business are unavoidable?

There's an emergency in the U.S. gold reserve, but when did it begin and when will it be declared ended? The candidates reminded everybody in the 1960 campaign that this was a turning point in human history—an emergency in popular decision-making. But was not that emergency fabricated out of political expediency, to add a sense of urgency to a national election?

It is to be noted with awe that temperatures are low and snow levels are high in some parts of the nation. But it is to be remembered with respect that even bad weather in the East isn't as bad as normalcy in the Dakotas, Nebraska, Minnesota, Montana, Wyoming and Idaho.

Emergencies are relative, and the worst of them is in the minds of the human beings who are involved in them. It would be better, all things considered, if the prerogative of proclaiming emergencies were confined to governors and presidents, who would use it sparingly, lest they give their constituents undue cause for alarm.

Something We Could Do Without

From now until the end of this year and into the first few weeks of 1961, soothsayers will be telling us what to expect in business.

There is a ready market for this sort of thing.

The "organization man" is a pushover for scientific palmistry.

He is like the racing fan who is sure he can beat the percentages if he pays close attention to all handicappers, touts and tipsters. He would take their word for it if a horse had only three legs.

"Those fellows must know something," he tells himself. "Just look at all the people who pay attention to them."

Actually, this is a case of believing that people who are reputed to be smart must know something because they are reputed to be smart. This is a great fallacy.

People reputed to be smart, as well as some who actually are smart, have no stronger claim to wisdom than people reputed to be a little thick in the head—also people who actually are thick in the head.

Some of the smartest people you ever saw were saying a year ago this would be a record year, especially for steel. One roundup of a couple hundred eggheaded economists seemed to prove that business would skyrocket in 1960, going into a high orbit in the first half and staying there in the second half.

One famous business magazine made such a blooper on its gross national product estimate for 1960 that it could claim it was misquoted. That was the way it went a year ago. It was fashionable to be bullish.

This year, it is fashionable to be bearish, or wolfish, at the least. Forecasts, diagnoses, prognoses and analyses will be showered down like confetti on a Broadway triumphal procession, mostly wolfish.

It cannot be disregarded; there is too much of it.

But it should not be swallowed. That much confetti isn't good for anyone.

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

The Department of Alcoholic Studies, thrown out by Yale, was started by Prof. Yandell Henderson 40 years ago. Well, there was a lot more alcohol in need of study in the 20s and it was harder to find people sober enough to do the studying.

Prohibition was in force and anybody who studied the liquor situation was apt to wind up in a cement box. Some people studied it by rapping on a basement door, giving the pass word and getting the okay sign through a peep-hole. But Yale went at it properly and with bulldog spirit. It was not inclined to reflect its attitude purely through the Whiffenpoof Song.

Dr. Seldon S. Bacon, head of the Center for Alcoholics Studies or dean of drinking research, is greatly amazed at the abolition of laboratory and staff. (It's enough to drive a man to drink.)

Yale says the center is not appropriate to educational pursuits. If it took 40 years to discover this it would seem to be an epic in collegiate slow motion. Unless the college decided that, in a day when the fireside cocktail party is routine, with mother taking rye on the rocks and grandma raising a ruckus if her martini is not 60 per cent gin, the place for alcoholic studies is in the home, not the university.

Why study the situation in a costly laboratory longer than 40 years when it's possible to get the same results at a house party in 60 minutes?

It's Case Of 'Just Keep Swimming'!

Nixon Has Grim Duty To Face

By Francis P. Douglas

Never before has a presidential candidate had to preside at the rites that clinch for his rival the prize for which both competed. In January this rather grim duty will fall to the lot of Vice President Nixon.

There will be a joint session of the Senate and the House in the House chamber. Nixon will preside. Tellers will be appointed. The electoral votes will be counted.

The tellers will make a list of the votes cast by the electors in the various states. The announcement of the results will mean the formal election of Sen. John F. Kennedy, the Democratic candidate, as president.

Formerly it was the custom for the vice president—or, if there was no vice president, for the president pro tempore of the Senate—to declare who was elected to the presidency and the vice presidency.

Nowadays the declaration by the vice president is assumed to be made with the acceptance of the tellers' report and its publication.

Four years ago, after the popular vote had been cast to re-elect Eisenhower and Nixon, the two houses of Congress met in joint session on Jan. 7, 1957. Nixon presided. Sens. Theodore F. Green D R. I. and William E. Jenner R Ind., were named the Senate's tellers. For the House the tellers were Reps. Omar Burleson D Tex. and Karl M. Le Compte R Iowa.

They counted the votes in the presence of both houses of Congress and then reported these results: For president, 457 electoral votes for Eisenhower, 73 for Adlai Stevenson. For vice president, 457 for Nixon, 73 for Estes Kefauver.

The tellers also reported Alabama had cast one vote for Walter B. Jones of Alabama for president and one vote for Herman Talmadge of Georgia for vice president.

THE TELLERS' report then contained this paragraph:

"The announcement of the state of the vote by the president of the Senate shall be deemed sufficient declaration of persons elected president and vice president of the United States, each for the term beginning on the 20th day of January, 1957, and shall be entered, together with a list of the votes, on the journals of the Senate and the House of Representatives."

Thereupon Vice President Nixon said:

"Gentlemen, the purpose for which the joint session of the two houses of Congress has been called, pursuant to Senate concurrent Resolution 1, having been accomplished, the chair declares the joint session dissolved."

Two days later Sen. Green presented to the Senate the same report the tellers had made to the joint session. The vice president gave the automatic response: "Without objection, the report will be received and printed in the Record."

The clinching paragraph in the tellers' report concerning the announcement of the vote being a "sufficient declaration" of the election is according to formula backed by precedent. It was also used Jan. 6, 1953, when Gen. Eisenhower and Nixon were declared elected over Stevenson and Sen. John Sparkman of Alabama.

There have been two occasions when vice presidents, presiding at the counting of the electoral ballots, have announced their own elections to the presidency.

Such was the happy duty of Democrat Martin Van Buren 123 years ago. Van Buren was vice president in Andrew Jackson's second term. Jackson was so determined that Van Buren should succeed him that he decreed there should be one of those then newfangled party conventions to launch Van Buren's candidacy for the presidency with proper fanfare. Nowadays, it would be called a propaganda gambit.

THE CONVENTION was duly held—almost a year and a half in advance of Election Day. Van Buren was duly nominated.

Van Buren, also, was duly elected over four Whig opponents. The Whigs formed no coherent party then and its candidates were persons designed to give anti-Jackson voters someone to vote for. The Whigs hoped to be able to throw the election into the House confounding Van Buren and thus to benefit from the resulting confusion.

But confusion came only after the election. It concerned the electoral vote of Michigan. That state was not admitted to the Union until Jan. 26, 1837. But Michigan's people had voted and its electoral votes had been cast before then. The question was, should Michigan's electroal votes be counted?

There was considerable discussion in Congress. Finally it was realized that the question was merely academic. With or without Michigan's votes, Van Buren would be elected anyway. So the resolution providing for the joint session of Congress to count the ballots contained an alternative clause, which was used.

After the tellers—one from the Senate and two from the House as was the custom then—had counted the votes and reported, Van Buren, presiding as president of the Senate, said:

"It therefore appears that were the votes of Michigan to be counted the result would be for Martin Van Buren, for president of the United States, 170 votes, if the votes of Michigan be not counted, Martin Van Buren then has 167 votes.

"In either event Martin Van Buren of New York is elected president of the United States and I therefore declare that Martin Van Buren, having received a majority of the whole number of electoral votes, is duly elected president of the United States for four years, commencing the fourth day of March, 1837."

IN THE CHOICE of the third president, a question about a state's electors might have upset the election but the question never became an issue. John Adams had the pleasure of declaring himself elected president.

Those were the days when electors voted for two persons for president. The one with the most votes, if a majority, became president; the one with the second number of votes became vice president. Some contended—although privately—that the choice of electors by the Vermont legislature was invalid.

On the assumption that the votes of the four Vermont electors were valid, Adams had 71—two more than half the votes. Jefferson had 68. Vermont's electors had cast four votes for Adams and four for Thomas Pinckney of South Carolina.

Rule out the Vermont votes and Adams would have 67, while Jefferson's 68 would be one more than half and Jefferson would be president but no one challenged Vermont's vote.

When the time came to count the electoral votes Vice President Adams, presiding, opened and read the certificates. When the tellers had tabulated the votes and reported the results, Adams announced them, pointing out that 70 constituted a majority so that the person with 71 votes would be elected president.

THEREUPON, Adams sat down. This was tantamount to a statement that if any man could show just cause why Adams could not lawfully be declared president, let him now speak or else thereafter hold his peace. No one spoke.

Adams then arose and declared, "John Adams is elected president of the United States for four years. . .and Thomas Jefferson is elected vice president."

Four years later Jefferson just missed the opportunity of declaring himself elected president. He had to announce a tie vote for himself and Aaron Burr. That meant the House had to make the choice. It took six days and 36 ballots to accomplish this. The result of the 36th ballot—and the election of Jefferson—was announced by the speaker.

Through The Years

THIRTY YEARS AGO — The Anna H. G. Brown memorial school at the McCullough Children's Home was dedicated.

Guy Tonti, Elizabeth Coffin and Clara Bream were elected senior cheerleaders for the basketball season at Midland's Lincoln High School.

TWENTY YEARS AGO — Hoping to brighten the community's Christmas, member of the Newell Junior Women's Club undertook four Yule projects.

The Chamber of Commerce received the portraits of four more East Liverpool pioneer residents to be added to the permanent collection at Carnegie Public Library.

George Kidder, a member of the East Liverpool police force for nearly 13 years, died of a heart attack at his home on 608 Jefferson St.

TEN YEARS AGO — The Police Department was asked to remind businessmen that a city ordinance required them to keep sidewalks free of snow.

Public Notice

Nearly every one who can read can tell you what a newspaper is.

In America it is either a daily or a weekly. In either case it is a part of the American way of living. Reading it is a well-established habit and despite the growth of radio and TV, it is still almost universally depended upon for general and special information of interest to the public.

But there are newspapers and newspapers. Sometimes it takes the courts to decide exactly what is a newspaper. And over the years the courts have not always agreed.

Even the U.S. postal regulations have a good deal to say about the matter. This is because newspapers admitted to the mails as second class matter carry a certain priority. But they must meet all the qualifications the regulations laid down.

The most common requirements under both state laws and postal regulations are these: The primary purpose of such publication is to inform the public, and it must have a paid following of readers.

The former means that the emphasis in contents must be on news and editorial matter rather than on advertising. The latter calls for an established community-wide following of readers who pay regularly, and voluntarily, for the publication.

This is why many of the laws governing public notice, or legal advertising, require it to be published only in bona fide newspapers.

This is basically in the public interest to insure the widest possible publicity for any given notice.

Rusk's Viewpoint

By David Lawrence

He Opposes Presidential 'Summit' Role

Dean Rusk, who has been selected to be secretary of state, doesn't believe in summit conferences for the president of the United States. He doesn't think the chief executive should spend his time in personal negotiation abroad or anywhere else. Mr. Rusk in a lecture early this year, which was published in Foreign Affairs, said:

David Lawrence

"If he (Mr. Khrushchev) insists upon having a foreign minister to whom he does not wish to give his confidence, is he to impose the same ignominious status upon the secretary of state of the United States?

"Can we not insist that it is up to each nation to determine for itself who its highest ranking negotiator is to be? Or cannot Mr. Khrushchev find even one high-ranking colleague whom he can trust to represent him loyally and effectively?"

Mr. Rusk says, moreover, that a president cannot really take the time to prepare beforehand for a summit conference and that: "The experienced diplomat will usually counsel against the direct confrontation of those with final authority." He adds:

"Negotiation ad referendum (by referring matters as they arise to a superior officer) offers greater opportunity for feeling out the situation, exploring opposing points of view, trying out alternative approaches without commitment, testing general propositions by meticulous attention to detail.

"The process needs time, patience and precision, three resources which are not found in abundance at the highest political level.

"The direct confrontation of the chiefs of government of the great powers involves an extra tension because the court of last resort is in session. The costs of error or misunderstanding are multiplied by the seriousness of the issues and the power of those present."

THE FOREGOING views were set forth before the breakup of the summit conference at Paris last May. The ideas are not new. They were expressed in these dispatches again and again since 1955, when the first summit conference at Geneva was being played up as the best way to deal with the Communist regime in Moscow.

The arguments in opposition were lost in a wave of comments from the leading Democrats on Capitol Hill, as well as some Republicans, who insisted that negotiation was imperative and that anyone who refused to meet with the top officials of other governments was politically on dangerous ground, for it presumably meant he was opposed to making peace.

Mr. Eisenhower followed the trend of public opinion as he said repeatedly that he would go anywhere in the world to advance the cause of peace.

The fallacy was that the device really helped build up the prestige of Nikita Khrushchev and didn't help to bring peace. The Soviet Premier was merely afforded an opportunity for propaganda and theatrics.

Repeatedly it was asserted in government circles here that there would be no summit conferences until adequate preparation had been made.

This was the viewpoint of John Foster Dulles but the critics shouted him down and forced the present administration to attend summit conferences even when there was no proof in advance that anything would be agreed upon at such meetings.

THE WRITINGS of Dean Rusk may or may not represent the views of Mr. Kennedy but there is reason to believe that they are acceptable in the main and that the President-elect, too, would rather not undertake personal negotiation.

He would probably visit with the heads of other states, especially on occasions of a ceremonial nature when agreements already reached are ratified.

Dean Rusk served as an assistant secretary of state during the Truman administration. He has been out of the Department of State for eight years. He is not familiar with the details of the confidential negotiations that our government has had with other governments throughout the world. The same is true of the men now chosen to be his immediate subordinates — Chester Bowles as under secretary of State and Adlai Stevenson as ambassador to the United Nations.

It will take many months for the background to be learned and for all the information which the CIA has collected to be absorbed.

One would think that somehow the American system of government would before this have been modernized to permit an experienced official to be under-secretary of state, so that he could make it his career and be able in a nonpartisan way to serve any administration that comes into power. In other Democratic countries they have such permanent under secretaries and it makes the transition less risky.

DEAN RUSK wrote in that same article, several months ago:

"A presidential system cannot easily adjust to an interregnum; a nation moving with such great mass and velocity needs the engineer at the throttle."

The quotation was in reference to the need for a president to stay on the job instead of traveling constantly to foregin countries but the advice applies equally to a system of government which gives a new secretary of state a little more than 30 days to learn the inside story of what's really been going on in the cold war.

Easing The Gold Plight

By David Barnett

The incoming Kennedy administration is studying possible means of using more of the $2½ billion in U.S.-owned foreign currencies —so-called restricted accounts—to help stem the drain of U.S. gold.

A top aide to President-elect John Kennedy conceded that the use of the currencies was one of the avenues being explored in the search for a policy to meet the country's continuing balance of payments deficit.

An official of the treasury Department said the current administration had been over the same ground but had found little hope of success without basic and perhaps unwise changes in U.S. foreign policy. About $250 million a year in these foreign currencies are now being used, he said.

About 80 per cent of the foreign currencies come from the sale abroad of surplus agricultural products under what is known as public law 480.

SMALLER AMOUNTS come from operations of the Mutual Security Program, interest and principal from foreign loans, settlements of lend-lease debts and proceeds from the sale abroad of government property. The Budget Bureau estimates that only $58 million will be collected from foreign loans this year but the figure will go up substantially in a few years.

The bulk of these funds are restricted in that, under bilateral agreements with the foreign countries, the currencies may not be converted into dollars nor to other "hard" currencies.

A typical Public Law 480 agreement, the treasury official pointed out, provides for a three-way split of the local currencies deposited for U.S. commodities. The largest part must be plowed back into the economy of the country in the form of loans and grants.

A small part may be used to promote private U.S. investment in the country. A tiny part, ranging from 2 to 5 per cent, is available for the use of the U.S. government.

Unfortunately, the surplus currencies, which cannot be converted, exist in countries where they would be of only minor value in the overall trade picture: India, Israel, Pakistan, Poland, United Arab Republic, Yugoslavia and Burma.

SOME OF THE PROPOSALS for use of the currencies are:

1. An arrangement whereby American tourists abroad would exchange dollars for local currencies at the American Embassy.

2. Provide for the payment for U.S. imports by currencies from the "restricted" accounts with the importer, in effect, buying the currency from the embassy.

3. Provide a similar arrangement for the payment of other business obligations by U.S. Firms in local currency obtained from the embassy.

To arrange for such things would require not only changes in American law but, more importantly, changes in the bilateral agreements.

And, the Treasury Department official said, it was unlikely that would go along with such changes.

He pointed out that many countries required their exporters to earn "hard currency" and thus would object to payment in the local currency.

The sale of U.S. surplus commodities under PL 480 is designed to be a mutual aid program. Such sales would drop precipitously if payment were required in convertible currency that could be moved out of the country.

The men who pilot tourists over the fast rapids of the jungle rivers of Surinam are said to be the world's most expert canoists.

Washington Should Speak First

For as long as most of us can remember, the foreign policy of the United States has been like a prizefighter's counterpunching.

Washington has waited for its adversary to commit himself, then responded to his moves. This government has not initiated action, although it has talked one of the greatest crusades in history.

Right now, while the incoming Kennedy administration is putting together its new State Department leadership, is the time for the rest of us to decide what we would like to see changed.

The sovereign people in a representative democracy have a peculiar responsibility in foreign policy. They literally make and break policy by their favor and disfavor in elections.

THE 1960 national election was, in part, a referendum on the Eisenhower administration's foreign policy, which had left much dissatisfaction in the minds of the American people. While those who favored the administration argued that the administration had done the best it could under the circumstances—and perhaps a little better than it could have been expected to do—those who criticized it felt the circumstances, themselves, could have been changed for the better.

This is a challenge to the incoming Kennedy administration—to change the circumstances.

It can do this by trying to take the initiative in controlling the circumstances of international affairs.

A concrete example: Instead of waiting for Premier Khrushchev to precipitate a Berlin crisis by setting a deadline, Washington could have taken the initiative and set a deadline for the Soviet Union.

THE DIFFICULTY is that the United States must work with its allies, who have their own ideas. Much of what it would like to do must be watered down, trimmed and adjusted to the ideas of other governments.

It sometimes has been forced to counterpunch in negotiations with its allies, too, by letting them make commitments, then reacting to their initiative. It did this in the instance of the attack against Egypt by Great Britain, France and Israel. They made the initial move. The United States reacted.

JOHN F. KENNEDY will be his own secretary of state, in the constitutional sense that he will retain in his own hands the primary responsibility for foreign affairs. His secretary of state, Dean Rusk, will be the executive head of the State Department, not the originator of foreign policy, as the late John Foster Dulles sometimes was in the Eisenhower administration.

Mr. Dulles always was respectful of presidential authority and went out of his way to explain that he was effectuating presidential decisions. But in fact he was his own fountainhead of ideas. And in the course of the years, he was forced more often than not to concentrate on counter-punching, due to the Soviet Union's success in holding the initiative.

Perhaps a representative democracy never can hold the initiative. Many Americans have wondered about this; they do not want to believe their country bears a handicap that never can be removed, but they cannot be sure.

They are putting their hope in a new administration, in a new concept, in a new team of foreign policy handlers. They would like to see the United States draw some deadlines, to test the counter-punching of the Soviet Union for a change.

The tellers also reported Alabama had cast one vote for Walter B. Jones of Alabama for president and one vote for Herman Talmadge of Georgia for vice president.

THE TELLERS' report then contained this paragraph:

"The announcement of the state of the vote by the president of the Senate shall be deemed sufficient declaration of persons elected president and vice president of the United States, each for the term beginning on the 20th day of January, 1957, and shall be entered, together with a list of the votes, on the journals of the Senate and the House of Representatives."

Thereupon Vice President Nixon said:

"Gentlemen, the purpose for which the joint session of the two houses of Congress has been called, pursuant to Senate concurrent Resolution 1, having been accomplished, the chair declares the joint session dissolved."

Two days later Sen. Green presented to the Senate the same report the tellers had made to the joint session. The vice president gave the automatic response: "Without objection, the report will be received and printed in the Record."

The clinching paragraph in the tellers' report concerning the announcement of the vote being a "sufficient declaration" of the election is according to formula backed by precedent. It was also used Jan. 6, 1953, when Gen. Eisenhower and Nixon were declared elected over Stevenson and Sen. John Sparkman of Alabama.

There have been two occasions when vice presidents, presiding at the counting of the electoral ballots, have announced their own elections to the presidency.

Such was the happy duty of Democrat Martin Van Buren 123 years ago. Van Buren was vice president in Andrew Jackson's second term. Jackson was so determined that Van Buren should succeed him that he decreed there should be one of those then newfangled party conventions to launch Van Buren's candidacy for the presidency with proper fanfare. Nowadays, it would be called a propaganda gambit.

THE CONVENTION was duly held—almost a year and a half in advance of Election Day. Van Buren was duly nominated.

Van Buren, also, was duly elected over four Whig opponents. The Whigs formed no coherent party then and its candidates were persons designed to give anti-Jackson voters someone to vote for. The Whigs hoped to be able to throw the election into the House confounding Van Buren and thus to benefit from the resulting confusion.

But confusion came only after the election. It concerned the electoral vote of Michigan. That state was not admitted to the Union until Jan. 26, 1837. But Michigan's people had voted and its electoral votes had been cast before then. The question was, should Michigan's electroal votes be counted?

There was considerable discussion in Congress. Finally it was realized that the question was merely academic. With or without Michigan's votes, Van Buren would be elected anyway. So the resolution providing for the joint session of Congress to count the ballots contained an alternative clause, which was used.

After the tellers—one from the Senate and two from the House as was the custom then—had counted the votes and reported, Van Buren, presiding as president of the Senate, said:

"It therefore appears that were the votes of Michigan to be counted the result would be for Martin Van Buren, for president of the United States, 170 votes, if the votes of Michigan be not counted, Martin Van Buren then has 167 votes.

"In either event Martin Van Buren of New York is elected president of the United States and I therefore declare that Martin Van Buren, having received a majority of the whole number of electoral votes, is duly elected president of the United States for four years, commencing the fourth day of March, 1837."

IN THE CHOICE of the third president, a question about a state's electors might have upset the election but the question never became an issue. John Adams had the pleasure of declaring himself elected president.

Those were the days when electors voted for two persons for president. The one with the most votes, if a majority, became president; the one with the second number of votes became vice president. Some contended—although privately—that the choice of electors by the Vermont legislature was invalid.

On the assumption that the votes of the four Vermont electors were valid, Adams had 71—two more than half the votes. Jefferson had 68. Vermont's electors had cast four votes for Adams and four for Thomas Pinckney of South Carolina.

Rule out the Vermont votes and Adams would have 67, while Jefferson's 68 would be one more than half and Jefferson would be president but no one challenged Vermont's vote.

When the time came to count the electoral votes Vice President Adams, presiding, opened and read the certificates. When the tellers had tabulated the votes and reported the results, Adams announced them, pointing out that 70 constituted a majority so that the person with 71 votes would be elected president.

THEREUPON, Adams sat down. This was tantamount to a statement that if any man could show just cause why Adams could not lawfully be declared president, let him now speak or else thereafter hold his peace. No one spoke.

Adams then arose and declared, "John Adams is elected president of the United States for four years. . .and Thomas Jefferson is elected vice president."

Four years later Jefferson just missed the opportunity of declaring himself elected president. He had to announce a tie vote for himself and Aaron Burr. That meant the House had to make the choice. It took six days and 36 ballots to accomplish this. The result of the 36th ballot—and the election of Jefferson—was announced by the speaker.

Through The Years

THIRTY YEARS AGO — The Anna H. G. Brown memorial school at the McCullough Children's Home was dedicated.

Guy Tonti, Elizabeth Coffin and Clara Bream were elected senior cheerleaders for the basketball season at Midland's Lincoln High School.

TWENTY YEARS AGO — Hoping to brighten the community's Christmas, member of the Newell Junior Women's Club undertook four Yule projects.

The Chamber of Commerce received the portraits of four more East Liverpool pioneer residents to be added to the permanent collection at Carnegie Public Library.

George Kidder, a member of the East Liverpool police force for nearly 13 years, died of a heart attack at his home on 608 Jefferson St.

TEN YEARS AGO — The Police Department was asked to remind businessmen that a city ordinance required them to keep sidewalks free of snow.

Public Notice

Nearly every one who can read can tell you what a newspaper is.

In America it is either a daily or a weekly. In either case it is a part of the American way of living. Reading it is a well-established habit and despite the growth of radio and TV, it is still almost universally depended upon for general and special information of interest to the public.

But there are newspapers and newspapers. Sometimes it takes the courts to decide exactly what is a newspaper. And over the years the courts have not always agreed.

Even the U.S. postal regulations have a good deal to say about the matter. This is because newspapers admitted to the mails as second class matter carry a certain priority. But they must meet all the qualifications the regulations laid down.

The most common requirements under both state laws and postal regulations are these: The primary purpose of such publication is to inform the public, and it must have a paid following of readers.

The former means that the emphasis in contents must be on news and editorial matter rather than on advertising. The latter calls for an established community-wide following of readers who pay regularly, and voluntarily, for the publication.

This is why many of the laws governing public notice, or legal advertising, require it to be published only in bona fide newspapers.

This is basically in the public interest to insure the widest possible publicity for any given notice.

Rusk's Viewpoint

By David Lawrence

He Opposes Presidential 'Summit' Role

Dean Rusk, who has been selected to be secretary of state, doesn't believe in summit conferences for the president of the United States. He doesn't think the chief executive should spend his time in personal negotiation abroad or anywhere else. Mr. Rusk in a lecture early this year, which was published in Foreign Affairs, said:

David Lawrence

"If he (Mr. Khrushchev) insists upon having a foreign minister to whom he does not wish to give his confidence, is he to impose the same ignominious status upon the secretary of state of the United States?

"Can we not insist that it is up to each nation to determine for itself who its highest ranking negotiator is to be? Or cannot Mr. Khrushchev find even one high-ranking colleague whom he can trust to represent him loyally and effectively?"

Mr. Rusk says, moreover, that a president cannot really take the time to prepare beforehand for a summit conference and that: "The experienced diplomat will usually counsel against the direct confrontation of those with final authority." He adds:

"Negotiation ad referendum (by referring matters as they arise to a superior officer) offers greater opportunity for feeling out the situation, exploring opposing points of view, trying out alternative approaches without commitment, testing general propositions by meticulous attention to detail.

"The process needs time, patience and precision, three resources which are not found in abundance at the highest political level.

"The direct confrontation of the chiefs of government of the great powers involves an extra tension because the court of last resort is in session. The costs of error or misunderstanding are multiplied by the seriousness of the issues and the power of those present."

THE FOREGOING views were set forth before the breakup of the summit conference at Paris last May. The ideas are not new. They were expressed in these dispatches again and again since 1955, when the first summit conference at Geneva was being played up as the best way to deal with the Communist regime in Moscow.

The arguments in opposition were lost in a wave of comments from the leading Democrats on Capitol Hill, as well as some Republicans, who insisted that negotiation was imperative and that anyone who refused to meet with the top officials of other governments was politically on dangerous ground, for it presumably meant he was opposed to making peace.

Mr. Eisenhower followed the trend of public opinion as he said repeatedly that he would go anywhere in the world to advance the cause of peace.

The fallacy was that the device really helped build up the prestige of Nikita Khrushchev and didn't help to bring peace. The Soviet Premier was merely afforded an opportunity for propaganda and theatrics.

Repeatedly it was asserted in government circles here that there would be no summit conferences until adequate preparation had been made.

This was the viewpoint of John Foster Dulles but the critics shouted him down and forced the present administration to attend summit conferences even when there was no proof in advance that anything would be agreed upon at such meetings.

THE WRITINGS of Dean Rusk may or may not represent the views of Mr. Kennedy but there is reason to believe that they are acceptable in the main and that the President-elect, too, would rather not undertake personal negotiation.

He would probably visit with the heads of other states, especially on occasions of a ceremonial nature when agreements already reached are ratified.

Dean Rusk served as an assistant secretary of state during the Truman administration. He has been out of the Department of State for eight years. He is not familiar with the details of the confidential negotiations that our government has had with other governments throughout the world. The same is true of the men now chosen to be his immediate subordinates — Chester Bowles as under secretary of State and Adlai Stevenson as ambassador to the United Nations.

It will take many months for the background to be learned and for all the information which the CIA has collected to be absorbed.

One would think that somehow the American system of government would before this have been modernized to permit an experienced official to be under-secretary of state, so that he could make it his career and be able in a nonpartisan way to serve any administration that comes into power. In other Democratic countries they have such permanent under secretaries and it makes the transition less risky.

DEAN RUSK wrote in that same article several months ago:

"A presidential system cannot easily adjust to an interregnum; a nation moving with such great mass and velocity needs the engineer at the throttle."

The quotation was in reference to the need for a president to stay on the job instead of traveling constantly to foregin countries but the advice applies equally to a system of government which gives a new secretary of state a little more than 30 days to learn the inside story of what's really been going on in the cold war.

Easing The Gold Plight

By David Barnett

The incoming Kennedy administration is studying possible means of using more of the $2½ billion in U.S.-owned foreign currencies—so-called restricted accounts—to help stem the drain of U.S. gold.

A top aide to President-elect John Kennedy conceded that the use of the currencies was one of the avenues being explored in the search for a policy to meet the country's continuing balance of payments deficit.

An official of the treasury Department said the current administration had been over the same ground but had found little hope of success without basic and perhaps unwise changes in U.S. foreign policy. About $250 million a year in these foreign currencies are now being used, he said.

About 80 per cent of the foreign currencies come from the sale abroad of surplus agricultural products under what is known as public law 480.

SMALLER AMOUNTS come from operations of the Mutual Security Program, interest and principal from foreign loans, settlements of lend-lease debts and proceeds from the sale abroad of government property. The Budget Bureau estimates that only $58 million will be collected from foreign loans this year but the figure will go up substantially in a few years.

The bulk of these funds are restricted in that, under bilateral agreements with the foreign countries, the currencies may not be converted into dollars nor to other "hard" currencies.

A typical Public Law 480 agreement, the treasury official pointed out, provides for a three-way split of the local currencies deposited for U.S. commodities. The largest part must be plowed back into the economy of the country in the form of loans and grants.

A small part may be used to promote private U.S. investment in the country. A tiny part, ranging from 2 to 5 per cent, is available for the use of the U.S. government.

Unfortunately, the surplus currencies, which cannot be converted, exist in countries where they would be of only minor value in the overall trade picture: India, Israel, Pakistan, Poland, United Arab Republic, Yugoslavia and Burma.

SOME OF THE PROPOSALS for use of the currencies are:

1. An arrangement whereby American tourists abroad would exchange dollars for local currencies at the American Embassy.

2. Provide for the payment for U.S. imports by currencies from the "restricted" accounts with the importer, in effect, buying the currency from the embassy.

3. Provide a similar arrangement for the payment of other business obligations by U.S. Firms in local currency obtained from the embassy.

To arrange for such things would require not only changes in American law but, more importantly, changes in the bilateral agreements.

And, the Treasury Department official said, it was unlikely that would go along with such changes.

He pointed out that many countries required their exporters to earn "hard currency" and thus would object to payment in the local currency.

The sale of U.S. surplus commodities under PL 480 is designed to be a mutual aid program. Such sales would drop precipitously if payment were required in convertible currency that could be moved out of the country.

The men who pilot tourists over the fast rapids of the jungle rivers of Surinam are said to be the world's most expert canoists.

For Limited, Non-Nuclear War

Kennedy Due To Build Up U.S., Allies Fight Power

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Kennedy administration taking office next month appears certain to put heavy new emphasis on building up the capacity of the United States and its Allies to fight limited, non-nuclear war.

Both President-elect John F. Kennedy and his prospective secretary of State, Dean Rusk, are on record in favor of strengthening this capability.

The task will fall primarily into the hands of Kennedy's newly designated secretary of Defense, Robert S. McNamara. The president-elect announced here Tuesday that he had chosen the Ford Motor Co. president for this position. The announcement followed by a day his designation of Rusk for the State Department job.

McNamara's views on specific defense policy problems, and strategic needs remain to be developed. But assuming that policy making will follow the National Security Council procedure developed during the past decade, the basic decision will be made by Kennedy primarily on the advice of his secretaries of Defense and State.

The issue of capability to wage limited war had developed sharply in recent years as critics of the Eisenhower administration and the massive retaliation policy enunciated by the late Secretary of State John Foster Dulles argued that the United States was relying far too much on the power of nuclear bombs and missiles for its defense.

The views expounded by Kennedy and Rusk are in line with the contention that excessive reliance on the enormous destructive power of nuclear weapons might make the United States and its Allies unwilling in some new crisis to use force at all in defense of the free world. Such unwillingness, according to this argument, would permit Soviet or Red Chinese or Communist satellite forces to chip away at free world territory by a series of small military steps.

Voting Begins For Chamber Trustee Posts

Ballots went into the mail today for the annual election of 7 members to the 21-man Board of Trus-

The way was cleared for the balloting after the board, at its December meeting Tuesday afternoon, approved a slate of 14 presented by a nominating committee. Mailed to all Chamber members, the ballots are to be returned by Dec. 23.

The nominating committee was comprised of Dr. J. A. Fraser, chairman, Atty. Francis H. Lang, Charles Taylor, Wendell H. Vodrey, Bert Wakefield and J. Norman Nicely.

After the deadline for return of the ballots, a tellers' committee will meet to tabulate the result. It will report at a special meeting of the board set tentatively for Dec. 29.

The new members of the board will take office at the first 1961 meeting Jan. 10. At the same time the board will reorganize and elect officers for the new year. The incumbent president is T. Fred Edwards, commercial manager of the East Liverpool exchange of the Ohio Bell Telephone Co.

At the meeting yesterday, Don Eckert, chairman of the East Liverpool Merchants Association, presented a report on the work of a merchants' committee planning improvement of the downtown area, concentrating on better street lighting, store modernization and additional off-street parking.

William D. Ogilvie, the Chamber's representative on the Columbiana County Forests and Parks Council, reported to the board on a recent meeting at Lisbon. Ogilvie is secretary-treasurer of the council, designed to encourage interest in forest and park areas.

The board approved membership applications from the Central Neon Sign Co. and Fluno, Steele and Associates, an insurance firm.

Plucky Boy, 6, Dies Of Cancer

SAVANNAH, Ga. (AP) — The plucky boy with cancer whose wish for fresh watermelons touched thousands of hearts, is dead.

Little Danny McDougald, 6, of Bluffton, S. C., took a turn for the worse at home Tuesday and was taken to Savannah's Memorial Hospital, where he died about an hour after arrival.

Danny had been in and out of hospitals since September when doctors discovered he had cancer of the lymph glands.

Early this month the youngster told his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel McDougald, that he would like to have some watermelon.

His request reached as far as Miami, Fla., where Mayor Robert King ordered a watermelon flown from Honduras.

5 On City Boards Near End Of Term

The terms of 5 members of 3 unsalaried municipal boards and commissions are scheduled to expire at midnight Dec. 31. The posts are subject to appointment by Mayor Bert H. Goodballet.

The expiring terms are held by: The Rev. M. Rudolph Miller, Miss Sara Heddleston and Fred McGillivray, all members of the Board of Trustees of the Carnegie Public Library.

DR. J. KEITH Rugh on the Board of Health.

W. Leland Thompson on the Board of Thompson Park Commissioners.

No terms will expire at the end of 1960 on a fourth agency — the Municipal Civil Service Commission. Another went out of business in mid-1960 because of retirement of the last of the bonds issued 40 years ago to finance construction of the city water works plant. It was the Sinking Fund Commission, whose duties in connection with bond retirement were turned over to City Treasurer Bert A. Dawson.

Expiration dates on the city boards are staggered so that a few run out at the end of each year. For instance, 7 ran out at the end of 1957, 3 expired at the close of 1958 and 4 terms ended with the last day of 1959.

HOLD-OVER members of the Library Board are Atty. Robert A. Kapp, Wilford Padgett and James J. McGowan, whose terms run through 1961.

Continuing as members of the Health Board will be: Mrs. Ila Finney Johnston, whose term runs through 1961; Dr. C. M. Mayberry, 1962, Emil R. Liebschner Jr., 1963, and C. Frank Dales, 1964. Howard Claypool is clerk, elected by the board.

Hold-over members of the Park Board are Probate Judge Louis Tobin, 1961; Atty. William H. Vodrey, 1962, and Louis Yanni, 1963.

The Civil Service Commission is comprised of Donal I. Burcham, 1961; Atty. Ben H. Berman, 1963, and Clarence E. Reagle, 1965. P. K. Calhoon is secretary, elected by the commission.

The last change in the board's personnel came at the end of 1960, when the term of Alvin T. Babb expired and he was replaced by Reagle.

At the time it wound up its activities, the Sinking Fund Commission was comprised of William J. Bamer, William B. Cooper, Gordon E. Starkey and C. Walter Ashbaugh.

STATE LAW provided that the commission would expire automatically when the last of the water works bond issue was retired.

There are no expiring terms on the Board of Public Utilities, the unsalaried agency which administers the water system.

The term of W. O. Schneider, chairman, runs until July 1, 1964. F. J. Cloran will serve until July 1, 1962, and the term of James Mullen runs to July 1, 1966. Mullen was named last year by Mayor Goodballet after the term of Robert P. Guyton expired.

28 Are Missing As Ships Crash

ISTANBUL, Turkey (AP)—Two tankers collided and exploded into flames with a shattering roar today in the Bosporus. Twenty-eight crewmen were unaccounted for.

Many sailors saved their lives by jumping from the flaming hulks and swimming ashore. Fifty-eight men, some badly burned, were rescued. Captains of both ships were missing.

The ships were a Greek tanker, the 20,000-ton World Harmony, and a Yugoslav tanker, the 25,000-ton Peter Zoranich.

An empty passenger ship docked nearby, the 9,345-ton Turkish Tarsus, was set afire by the explosion. House windows more than two miles away rattled when the ships went up in flames.

Damage to the nation's forest by insects and disease is nine times the toll of another enemy—forest fire.

Statement's Recording In Slaying Heard

come to the house in his intoxicated state.

Fish told of picking peppers and beets and going to Canfield to sell them after taking Capps and his daughter to Salem where she visited the dentist.

In his flat Tennessee twang, Fish related how later in the day Capps came back from Salem with two companions in a car, then left, and returned later in a taxi, carrying beer and a bottle of whisky.

Fish said he warned Capps not to come to the house, "Don't come down here like that," vowing to others in the house that the younger man "ain't coming in here in this family" intoxicated.

"You'd better stop, you'd better get back on the road," Fish said he told Capps, "but he kept coming, and he was comin' with one hand on his right hip and the other fist closed tight. Then he says, "I'll just kill you.'"

"And when he said that," Fish told VanFossan, "what happened, I done something I had no business to do — I fired the gun." Then Fish said he put the weapon back in its corner in the house, "and I set down in the chair and I set there until someone came, the sheriff, I was setting there when the sheriff come."

Brokaw asked Fish in the statement if he held a grudge against Capps for a previous failure to support his wife, and Fish said, "No, I just wanted him to do what was right by her; I liked him personally, but with his background, you just couldn't trust him."

Fish said the day of the shooting was the first Capps had been drunk around the home. Fish declared he didn't drink himself, and didn't allow it around his home.

He said a non-support action had been filed in Judge Luther Donbar's court at Salem about a year ago against Capp, and at that time he found a loaded .22-caliber gun in Capps' room at the home.

Fish declared Capps had a reputation for "tearing up people's homes, and I didn't want any of that at my house. I felt I was going to have to stop him."

Brokaw asked him if Capps had threatened him, and Fish said he had as he approached the house on the day of the slaying. "You were afraid he would damage your house?" "Yes," Fish said, "or butcher me."

Among prosecution witnesses yesterday were County Coroner William Kolozsi who said Capps died of shock due to loss of blood from the shotgun blast which tore a "gaping" hole in the chest. "Death was within seconds," the pathologist said.

Under cross-examination by Atty. Bauknecht, Dr. Kolozsi said blood tests for alcohol were inconclusive because formaldehyde from the embalming process had entered the blood, rendering the tests useless.

Earlier, James Griffin of the Stark Memorial Funeral Home told of taking Capps' body from the Fisher yard to Salem City Hospital where he attempted to get a physician to pronounce Capps dead.

Unable to obtain a doctor, he took the body to the funeral home where Dr. R. J. Starbuck later came to pronounce the death, after which the embalming process was started.

Bauknecht asked Griffin if he had obtained permission to move the body from the yard, and Griffin said he had not, stating if there was any chance of saving a life, a person was generally taken to a hospital without permission. He said there was no outward evidence of life, but he was not qualified to judge.

Bauknecht then asked Griffin if he had consulted with the coroner or the sheriff's department about starting the embalming process without making any tests of the blood or stomach contents as customary in cases of violent death. Griffin replied he felt that Dr. Starbuck's pronouncing death was authority enough to begin the embalming.

Dr. Kolozsi said he was on vacation from Salem City Hospital, and was en route to Guilford Lake when the shooting occurred. He first learned of the incident on his arrival at the lake where a message awaited him. He said he returned to Salem immediately.

When he arrived at the funeral home, the embalming process was about a third of the way through, but the doctor said he decided to obtain a blood test on the chance it would indicate an alcohol content. He said he obtained a stomach sample, and although no analysis was taken, the contents smelled strongly of alcohol.

Bauknecht asked the doctor why the funeral home had made no attempt to withold action on the embalming process, and Dr. Kolozsi replied, "This puzzles me," explaining he has in the past had close co-operation with the sheriff's office, Highway Patrol and undertakers concerning what to do in any case which might involve the coroner.

Also testifying yesterday was Miss Betty Davis, Salineville teacher, who took stenographic notes of Fish's oral statement.

math of a collision on County Rd. 430. The patrol alleged that Davis failed to yield the right-of-way when making "an illegal left turn."

Judge Chertoff ordered a continuance until Jan. 16 in the case of Roy Ward of East Palestine R. D. 2. charged with reckless driving as the result of a two-car crash Sept. 27 on Dresden Ave.

Davis appeared for the trial still on crutches as the result of an injury to his left leg suffered in a mishap. However, Patrolman William A. Devon, the arresting officer, did not appear. Ward pleaded "no contest."

The judge said he arranged the hearing for mid-January in hopes Ward's convalescence will be completed in the meantime.

The judge decreed a suspended fine of $15 and costs for Willie Cook, 21, of 805 High St., cited Dec. 8 for improper auto registration. At arraignment Dec. 9, Cook told the judge non-delivery of a title to a newly-purchased auto made it impossible to transfer the plates from one car to another.

His case was continued until today. Cook appeared in court with the title to his new car and a certificate showing transfer of the registration. The judge suspended the fine on payment of the $6 costs.

Fires

the contents was estimated at $3,000.

Firemen were hampered in fighting the blazes by the extreme cold and heavy winds.

Lewis said the nozzles on the hoses kept freezing and that ice coated the equipment, the ground and the men. Trying to climb ladders and work on the roofs was extremely dangerous, he said.

The fire at the home of Mrs. Stevenson was either caused by the extreme heat from the blaze at the Daniels home or by an electrical short.

Lewis said the two homes are built tight against one another. He said the entrance wires to the Stevenson home are along the side of the house next to the Daniels house and that the wires became coated with ice. It is possible that a short developed and started the fire in the attic, he said.

Chester Beatty, a Wellsville volunteer, was cut on the wrist by glass while at the Daniels home. He was treated by a local physician.

Lewis summoned the Liverpool Township West volunteer fire department at LaCroft to remain on standby when the second alarm came in. He said they then gave aid in fighting the fires when called back the second time to Broadway.

Lewis commended the West department highly for its help. He also commended his firemen for the job they did under the extreme conditions.

Lewis said he received much assistance from members of the police department. Some of the officers fought the blaze while others assisted by running a shuttle service to the station for extra equipment and taking firemen home to change into dry clothing.

The two-story frame home owned by Buckel contains about 10 rooms. Practically the entire upstairs section was gutted and most of the roof was burned off.

The roofs of the two homes on Broadway were entirely burned off, mainly because of the heavy winds, the chief said.

The blaze at the Daniels home spread up through the partitions from the cellar to the attic. All the rooms in the two-story frame home were extensively damaged.

The family was in the process of remodeling the home and were working last night. They discovered the blaze and called the firemen.

The entire upstairs of the Stevenson home and one side of the first floor were burned out. Very little furniture was saved from any of the homes.

No damage resulted to any of the neighboring homes.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniels and Mrs. Stevenson were chased into the cold as were Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Buckel and Mr. and Mrs. William Buckel and their 8 children. They range in ages from 3 to 17.

Twenty-three Wellsville volunteers responded to the call while the Liverpool Township department sent a truck and 15 men.

Firemen laid 1,500 feet of 2½-inch hose, 500 feet of 1½-inch hose and booster lines on Broadway while they utilized between 800 and 1,000 feet of hose fighting the 18th St. blaze.

Most of the firemen quit at 3:30 a.m. but a few remained on standby duty and cleaned up the hoses and debris.

Ike Enters Hospital For 2nd Phase Checkup

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower is in Walter Reed Army Hospital, completing the second phase of his annual medical checkup.

Eisenhower entered the hospital Tuesday night after a White House reception for Chief Justice Earl Warren and the eight associate justices of the Supreme Court, Atty. Gen. William P. Rogers and other top judicial and legal officers of the government.

Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said the President feels fine but wanted to finish his physical examination. The first phase of the checkup was Sept. 15 and 16. Eisenhower is expected to stay in the presidential suite at Walter Reed until sometime Thursday.

Statement's Recording In Slaying Heard

come to the house in his intoxicated state.

Fish told of picking peppers and beets and going to Canfield to sell them after taking Capps and his daughter to Salem where she visited the dentist.

In his flat Tennessee twang, Fish related how later in the day Capps came back from Salem with two companions in a car, then left, and returned later in a taxi, carrying beer and a bottle of whisky.

Fish said he warned Capps not to come to the house, "Don't come down here like that," vowing to others in the house that the younger man "ain't coming in here in this family" intoxicated.

"You'd better stop, you'd better get back on the road," Fish said he told Capps, "but he kept coming, and he was comin' with one hand on his right hip and the other fist closed tight. Then he says, "I'll just kill you.'"

"And when he said that," Fish told VanFossan, "what happened, I done something I had no business to do — I fired the gun." Then Fish said he put the weapon back in its corner in the house, "and I set down in the chair and I set there until someone came, the sheriff, I was setting there when the sheriff come."

Brokaw asked Fish in the statement if he held a grudge against Capps for a previous failure to support his wife, and Fish said, "No, I just wanted him to do what was right by her; I liked him personally, but with his background, you just couldn't trust him."

Fish said the day of the shooting was the first Capps had been drunk around the home. Fish declared he didn't drink himself, and didn't allow it around his home.

He said a non-support action had been filed in Judge Luther Donbar's court at Salem about a year ago against Capp, and at that time he found a loaded .22-caliber gun in Capps' room at the home.

Fish declared Capps had a reputation for "tearing up people's homes, and I didn't want any of that at my house. I felt I was going to have to stop him."

Brokaw asked him if Capps had threatened him, and Fish said he had as he approached the house on the day of the slaying. "You were afraid he would damage your house?" "Yes," Fish said, "or butcher me."

Among prosecution witnesses yesterday were County Coroner William Kolozsi who said Capps died of shock due to loss of blood from the shotgun blast which tore a "gaping" hole in the chest. "Death was within seconds," the pathologist said.

Under cross-examination by Atty. Bauknecht, Dr. Kolozsi said blood tests for alcohol were inconclusive because formaldehyde from the embalming process had entered the blood, rendering the tests useless.

Earlier, James Griffin of the Stark Memorial Funeral Home told of taking Capps' body from the Fisher yard to Salem City Hospital where he attempted to get a physician to pronounce Capps dead.

Unable to obtain a doctor, he took the body to the funeral home where Dr. R. J. Starbuck later came to pronounce the death, after which the embalming process was started.

Bauknecht asked Griffin if he had obtained permission to move the body from the yard, and Griffin said he had not, stating if there was any chance of saving a life, a person was generally taken to a hospital without permission. He said there was no outward evidence of life, but he was not qualified to judge.

Bauknecht then asked Griffin if he had consulted with the coroner or the sheriff's department about starting the embalming process without making any tests of the blood or stomach contents as customary in cases of violent death. Griffin replied he felt that Dr. Starbuck's pronouncing death was authority enough to begin the embalming.

Dr. Kolozsi said he was on vacation from Salem City Hospital, and was en route to Guilford Lake when the shooting occurred. He first learned of the incident on his arrival at the lake where a message awaited him. He said he returned to Salem immediately.

When he arrived at the funeral home, the embalming process was about a third of the way through, but the doctor said he decided to obtain a blood test on the chance it would indicate an alcohol content. He said he obtained a stomach sample, and although no analysis was taken, the contents smelled strongly of alcohol.

Bauknecht asked the doctor why the funeral home had made no attempt to withold action on the embalming process, and Dr. Kolozsi replied, "This puzzles me," explaining he has in the past had close co-operation with the sheriff's office, Highway Patrol and undertakers concerning what to do in any case which might involve the coroner.

Also testifying yesterday was Miss Betty Davis, Salineville teacher, who took stenographic notes of Fish's oral statement.

Ike Enters Hospital For 2nd Phase Checkup

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower is in Walter Reed Army Hospital, completing the second phase of his annual medical checkup.

Eisenhower entered the hospital Tuesday night after a White House reception for Chief Justice Earl Warren and the eight associate justices of the Supreme Court, Atty. Gen. William P. Rogers and other top judicial and legal officers of the government.

Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said the President feels fine but wanted to finish his physical examination. The first phase of the checkup was Sept. 15 and 16. Eisenhower is expected to stay in the presidential suite at Walter Reed until sometime Thursday.

Pennsylvania Mother, 6 Children Die In Fire

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP)—Fire swept through a rural home at nearby Wertzville early today killing a mother and six of her nine children.

The father and two other children were injured and taken to Harrisburg Hospital. Another child was staying with neighbors.

Only about 30 women out of 100 go to the grocery store equipped with a shopping list.

Fires

the contents was estimated at $3,000.

Firemen were hampered in fighting the blazes by the extreme cold and heavy winds.

Lewis said the nozzles on the hoses kept freezing and that ice coated the equipment, the ground and the men. Trying to climb ladders and work on the roofs was extremely dangerous, he said.

The fire at the home of Mrs. Stevenson was either caused by the extreme heat from the blaze at the Daniels home or by an electrical short.

Lewis said the two homes are built tight against one another. He said the entrance wires to the Stevenson home are along the side of the house next to the Daniels house and that the wires became coated with ice. It is possible that a short developed and started the fire in the attic, he said.

Chester Beatty, a Wellsville volunteer, was cut on the wrist by glass while at the Daniels home. He was treated by a local physician.

Lewis summoned the Liverpool Township West volunteer fire department at LaCroft to remain on standby when the second alarm came in. He said they then gave aid in fighting the fires when called back the second time to Broadway.

Lewis commended the West department highly for its help. He also commended his firemen for the job they did under the extreme conditions.

Lewis said he received much assistance from members of the police department. Some of the officers fought the blaze while others assisted by running a shuttle service to the station for extra equipment and taking firemen home to change into dry clothing.

The two-story frame home owned by Buckel contains about 10 rooms. Practically the entire upstairs section was gutted and most of the roof was burned off.

The roofs of the two homes on Broadway were entirely burned off, mainly because of the heavy winds, the chief said.

The blaze at the Daniels home spread up through the partitions from the cellar to the attic. All the rooms in the two-story frame home were extensively damaged.

The family was in the process of remodeling the home and were working last night. They discovered the blaze and called the firemen.

The entire upstairs of the Stevenson home and one side of the first floor were burned out. Very little furniture was saved from any of the homes.

No damage resulted to any of the neighboring homes.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniels and Mrs. Stevenson were chased into the cold as were Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Buckel and Mr. and Mrs. William Buckel and their 8 children. They range in ages from 3 to 17.

Twenty-three Wellsville volunteers responded to the call while the Liverpool Township department sent a truck and 15 men.

Firemen laid 1,500 feet of 2½-inch hose, 500 feet of 1½-inch hose and booster lines on Broadway while they utilized between 800 and 1,000 feet of hose fighting the 18th St. blaze.

Most of the firemen quit at 3:30 a.m. but a few remained on standby duty and cleaned up the hoses and debris.

Judge Chertoff ordered a continuance until Jan. 16 in the case of Roy Ward of East Palestine R. D. 2. charged with reckless driving as the result of a two-car crash Sept. 27 on Dresden Ave.

Davis appeared for the trial still on crutches as the result of an injury to his left leg suffered in a mishap. However, Patrolman William A. Devon, the arresting officer, did not appear. Ward pleaded "no contest."

The judge said he arranged the hearing for mid-January in hopes Ward's convalescence will be completed in the meantime.

The judge decreed a suspended fine of $15 and costs for Willie Cook, 21, of 805 High St., cited Dec. 8 for improper auto registration. At arraignment Dec. 9, Cook told the judge non-delivery of a title to a newly-purchased auto made it impossible to transfer the plates from one car to another.

His case was continued until today. Cook appeared in court with the title to his new car and a certificate showing transfer of the registration. The judge suspended the fine on payment of the $6 costs.

Falls are the leading cause of accidental deaths among persons 65 and over.

largest generating units out of service. "Thus the service could not carry the additional load when the wire broke," he said.

The spokesman added he was sure the cold weather had something to do with the power line breaking.

After the failure occurred, the company sent 70 specialists to various generators to manually operate switches to restore service. Additional power was obtained from Cincinnati Gas & Electric and from the Hutchings Power Station near Miamisburg.

A similar power failure occurred Nov. 1, 1949, covering practically the same area. That time a failure at the Hutchings station wiped out power from 1½ to 3 hours.

Officials said people took the incident pretty well in stride. Even in large Christmas-season packed department stores, no panic was noted among the milling throngs when they were thrown into darkness suddenly.

The situation, of course, did create numerous problems.

For instance, Mrs. E. Frutic of Detroit, Mich., was caught in Dayton's Biltmore Hotel lobby when the power failed. She had to catch a plane and her luggage was still in her 10th floor room. The elevators were out of service, so she climbed the 10 floors with a bell captain lighting the way by flashlight. He sorted her bags and they walked back down the 10 flights of stairs. She caught a cab for the airport.

There were many reports of stuck elevators. At the Miami Hotel, one victim was Evy Fay Bunch. She was trapped for 25 minutes before she was rescued with the help of a ladder. Her reaction? "I was scared."

In one downtown Dayton department store, business went on almost as usual. An auxiliary power plant started within seconds after the failure, although the auxiliary power did not operate elevators, escalators or electric cash registers.

But most stores weren't so fortunate. Proprietors locked their doors after escorting customers to the exits.

Electrically operated city railway buses were at a complete standstill, even after Dayton's power was restored. Taxicab companies reported business booming downtown, but they could take no residential calls because their radios were knocked out.

Dayton radio station WHIO was back on the air eight minutes after the failure and WING returned within a half hour. Both stations used auxiliary transmitters. WHIO - TV broadcast the audio portion of its programs but did not resume its picture until 7:36.

A mechanic at Dayton's Cox Municipal Airport touched off some anxiety over the whereabouts of a private pilot. The mechanic said he heard a pilot's voice over the radio say: "Hey, what happened? All the lights went out. I've only got 15 minutes of fuel left." The tower advised him of nearby airports, and other planes aloft in the area offered advice. The last contact came when the pilot said: "I see a white light flashing, now a green one (sign of an airport)."

"Buster," a commercial pilot told him, "you had better head for that light and good luck."

Several Dayton industrial plants, including Frigidaire, Delco and Inland Manufacturing Co., sent their workers home when the power failure knocked out lights and machinery.

At Wilmington, which was completely blacked out, one reaction of citizens was that you never know how noisy a city is until the noise stops. There was little noise but the quiet talk of volunteers aiding traffic and a few cars.

Power was suddenly restored nearly two hours later, at 7:38 p.m. Then chimes, Christmas music on radios and other things regularly heard in the city blared back to life.

McNamara

general and an attorney general.

Apparently it took considerable persuading on Kennedy's part to get McNamara to give up his $400,000-a-year job as Ford president, a post he was named to only a month ago, and take the $25,000-a-year Cabinet spot.

Among the personal considerations McNamara had to give up because Ford does a lot of business with the Defense Department; the 24,250 shares of Ford stock he owns, plus an option on 30,000 additional shares.

And what will this cost him?

"More than I like to say," McNamara said. "I will forego profits of approximately three million dollars during the next three to four years."

McNamara told reporters he's a registered Republican who votes independently. Asked if he had voted for Kennedy, he said: "I think my vote is my own affair."

McNamara, a native of California, attended Harvard at the same time Kennedy did. But the two never met until last Thursday.

So McNamara now joins a Cabinet list that reads like this: Secretary of State—Dean Rusk, head of the Rockefeller Foundation but who was in the State Department under president Truman; Commerce — Hodges; Health, Education and Welfare—Gov. Abraham Ribicoff of Connecticut; Interior —Rep. Stewart L. Udall of Arizona.

Carrots and peas may be trite served as a hot vegetable but they are interesting when slivered cooked snap beans are added and they're dressed with mayonnaise for a salad.

Flash

Mr. and Mrs. Keith Goodwin of Maple Ln., Calcutta, witnessed the flash but reported hearing two loud explosions.

They described it as resembling a "flash of electricity or lightning, bluish, and lasting several seconds."

The loud booms followed in about 10 minutes. The flash occurred as they were viewing Jack Paar's television program. A friend called and said she was awakened by the noise of the explosions.

Others who saw the flash included Patrolmen Paul E. Carter and R. E. Higgins, who were riding together in a cruiser, and Judge Samuel M. Chertoff, who observed it out a window of his home.

Patrolman Carter said he and Officer Higgins had halted their cruiser for the traffic light at W. 8th and Jefferson Sts. when they saw the vivid flash in the sky.

"It lit up the whole sky like a gigantic flash bulb," officer Carter said. The officers heard no noise.

Judge Chertoff said he also observed the brilliant flash in the sky. He said he thought he heard a distant rumble of explosions a few moments later.

Dannie Saxton, 326 Main St., Wellsville, who runs a garage, was in his wrecker on the Lisbon Rd., Route 45, near Glasgow when he saw the flash.

He described it was a "terrible blue" and bright and like the flash from a welding unit."

His daughter-in-law, Mrs. Shirley Saxton, of the Old Salineville Rd. was near Highlandtown and saw it too.

Nick Palcic, chief deputy in the Hancock County sheriff's office, observed the big flash in Weirton and said it illuminated the sky with a bluish color.

Palcic said he had received dozens of reports that residents in the valley had heard rumblings and explosions following the flash. Some reported their houses were shaken by the explosions. However, "hilltop" residents never heard the noises, Palcic said.

SOLOTHURN, Switzerland (AP) —American actor-director Gregory Ratoff, 63, died in the Solothurn Citizens' Clinic early today of blood cancer.

Ratoff, who wrote many of the original scripts of stage plays and films he directed, was born on April 20, 1897, in Petrograd, now Leningrad, in Russia, where he began his stage career after finishing commercial college. He went to New York in 1932 to appear on Broadway.

Ratoff had been living in Milan,, Italy, with his wife, Maria Kostes, a well known singer. He was stricken last fall and came to Switzerland for treatment by Prof. Sven Moeschlin, one of Switzerlans leading blood disease specialists, who diagnosed his illness as leukemia.

2 Are Injured In Series Of Road Mishaps

An Indianapolis trucker and a Salem man were injured in two of three traffic mishaps in northern Columbiana County Tuesday night and today, the State Highway Patrol at Lisbon reported.

Frank Salonko, 40, of Indianapolis was taken to Salem City Hospital early this morning after his tractor-trailer rig overturned on Route 14 about 2 miles west of Unity at 12:10 a.m.

Officers said Salonko, who received bruises of the shoulder, forehead and ankle, lost control on a curve and the rig left the roadway and upset.

Dorsey Brink, 35, of Salem was taken to the hospital with fractured right ribs and chest bruises suffered at 11:30 p.m. when his station wagon slid through an intersection and hit guardrails near Guilford Lake.

The patrol said the mishap occurred on County Rd. 410 three miles north of Route 172. He was charged with failure to halt for a stop sign.

Gary Lee Syx, 18, of Alliance R. D. 5 was cited after a two-car collision on Route 62 west of Salem about 7 p.m. Syx made a left turn into a private drive as another car, operated by Thomas Kerts, 19, of Homeworth, attempted to pass.

Syx was cited for failure to signal a turn.

Selections were sung by the Colonials and the Welcomaires, quartets. The chorus, directed by Glenn A. Woods and William E. Brooks, sang Christmas carols.

Dale Keddie, program chairman, escorted Santa Claus and presented gifts of candy and popcorn balls. Refreshments were served by Gerald Jividen, William Gibbs and Lee Persohn, social commitee members.

Police said Shanks broke a window in the front of a small grocery store owned by Robert Freeman on Wood St. about two weeks ago.

Shanks, who was accompanied by two others not charged, reached in and took some cigarettes.

He was arrested Monday night following an investigation, police said.

Several Dayton industrial plants, including Frigidaire, Delco and Inland Manufacturing Co., sent their workers home when the power failure knocked out lights and machinery.

At Wilmington, which was completely blacked out, one reaction of citizens was that you never know how noisy a city is until the noise stops. There was little noise but the quiet talk of volunteers aiding traffic and a few cars.

Power was suddenly restored nearly two hours later, at 7:38 p.m. Then chimes, Christmas music on radios and other things regularly heard in the city blared back to life.

general and an attorney general.

Apparently it took considerable persuading on Kennedy's part to get McNamara to give up his $400,000-a-year job as Ford president, a post he was named to only a month ago, and take the $25,000-a-year Cabinet spot.

Among the personal considerations McNamara had to give up because Ford does a lot of business with the Defense Department; the 24,250 shares of Ford stock he owns, plus an option on 30,000 additional shares.

And what will this cost him?

"More than I like to say," McNamara said. "I will forego profits of approximately three million dollars during the next three to four years."

McNamara told reporters he's a registered Republican who votes independently. Asked if he had voted for Kennedy, he said: "I think my vote is my own affair."

McNamara, a native of California, attended Harvard at the same time Kennedy did. But the two never met until last Thursday.

So McNamara now joins a Cabinet list that reads like this: Secretary of State—Dean Rusk, head of the Rockefeller Foundation but who was in the State Department under president Truman; Commerce — Hodges; Health, Education and Welfare—Gov. Abraham Ribicoff of Connecticut; Interior —Rep. Stewart L. Udall of Arizona.

Carrots and peas may be trite served as a hot vegetable but they are interesting when slivered cooked snap beans are added and they're dressed with mayonnaise for a salad.

Flash

Mr. and Mrs. Keith Goodwin of Maple Ln., Calcutta, witnessed the flash but reported hearing two loud explosions.

They described it as resembling a "flash of electricity or lightning, bluish, and lasting several seconds."

The loud booms followed in about 10 minutes. The flash occurred as they were viewing Jack Paar's television program. A friend called and said she was awakened by the noise of the explosions.

Others who saw the flash included Patrolmen Paul E. Carter and R. E. Higgins, who were riding together in a cruiser, and Judge Samuel M. Chertoff, who observed it out a window of his home.

Patrolman Carter said he and Officer Higgins had halted their cruiser for the traffic light at W. 8th and Jefferson Sts. when they saw the vivid flash in the sky.

"It lit up the whole sky like a gigantic flash bulb," officer Carter said. The officers heard no noise.

Judge Chertoff said he also observed the brilliant flash in the sky. He said he thought he heard a distant rumble of explosions a few moments later.

Dannie Saxton, 326 Main St., Wellsville, who runs a garage, was in his wrecker on the Lisbon Rd., Route 45, near Glasgow when he saw the flash.

He described it was a "terrible blue" and bright and like the flash from a welding unit."

His daughter-in-law, Mrs. Shirley Saxton, of the Old Salineville Rd. was near Highlandtown and saw it too.

Nick Palcic, chief deputy in the Hancock County sheriff's office, observed the big flash in Weirton and said it illuminated the sky with a bluish color.

Palcic said he had received dozens of reports that residents in the valley had heard rumblings and explosions following the flash. Some reported their houses were shaken by the explosions. However, "hilltop" residents never heard the noises, Palcic said.

2 Are Injured In Series Of Road Mishaps

An Indianapolis trucker and a Salem man were injured in two of three traffic mishaps in northern Columbiana County Tuesday night and today, the State Highway Patrol at Lisbon reported.

Frank Salonko, 40, of Indianapolis was taken to Salem City Hospital early this morning after his tractor-trailer rig overturned on Route 14 about 2 miles west of Unity at 12:10 a.m.

Officers said Salonko, who received bruises of the shoulder, forehead and ankle, lost control on a curve and the rig left the roadway and upset.

Dorsey Brink, 35, of Salem was taken to the hospital with fractured right ribs and chest bruises suffered at 11:30 p.m. when his station wagon slid through an intersection and hit guardrails near Guilford Lake.

The patrol said the mishap occurred on County Rd. 410 three miles north of Route 172. He was charged with failure to halt for a stop sign.

Gary Lee Syx, 18, of Alliance R. D. 5 was cited after a two-car collision on Route 62 west of Salem about 7 p.m. Syx made a left turn into a private drive as another car, operated by Thomas Kerts, 19, of Homeworth, attempted to pass.

Syx was cited for failure to signal a turn.

Police said Shanks broke a window in the front of a small grocery store owned by Robert Freeman on Wood St. about two weeks ago.

Shanks, who was accompanied by two others not charged, reached in and took some cigarettes.

Disabled Aid Setup Outlined

LISBON — Aid for the permanently and totally disabled program is the newest of the public assistance programs administered by the Columbiana County Welfare Department, according to Robert ByCroft, director.

There is a minimum age of 18 years and a maximum of 65 in this program. A person must have lived in Ohio for a year, be in need and with a major permanent physical or mental impairment so that he is unable to engage substantially in a useful occupation. Social and medical information must be submitted to the State Welfare Department for a decision on each application made, Bycroft said.

During 1959, this program increased by 28 per cent and for 1960 by about the same percentage.

The county, state and federal governments participate in financing aid for disabled grants as well as administrative and medical costs. The cost of medical needs for these recipients is enormous and increasing rapidly, he said.

For 1960, funds were such that 95 per cent of an individual budget, as set up under state regulations, could be met, Bycroft said.

Due Examination

CLEVELAND (AP)—A Juvenile Court psychiatrist today was scheduled to examine Mrs. Lillian Fratantonio, 29, who was convicted Dec. 6 of giving overdoses of barbiturates to her "sleeping beauty" daughters, Bernadette, 3, and Venita, 6. The testing is part of a probation report being prepared for Judge Albert Woldman who will sentence Mrs. Fratantonio. Maximum sentence for the ill-treatment charge on which a jury convicted her is a year in jail and a fine of $500.

SANTA and the BOY FISH by Lucrece Hudgins Beale

Down, down, down they plummeted, faster and faster.

Michael and Costenbricker have flown from Santa Land in the old man's parasol to find the black pearl at the bottom of the sea. Their strange aircraft is buffeted by a storm. When finally the weather clears, Michael finds that his diving mask, flippers and lung have been lost overboard!

CHAPTER NINE

It was true. The precious gift from Santa had hurtled out of the parasol along with the pillows and comforter and bananas. There was nothing to do except go back into the storm cloud and come to earth where they could search for the missing mask and lung and flippers.

Costenbricker turned the parasol about and guided it back into the gales they had just escaped. Again the angry winds lifted the parasol and flipped it over and over and hurled it across the clouds like a car on a roller coaster.

The few remaining magic words Costenbricker could remember now flew from his head and he could say nothing that would make the rollicking parasol do his bidding.

They were swept finally to what was surely the very top of the sky when suddenly the polka dot silk turned inside out and the parasol shot toward the ground with Michael and Costenbricker hanging to the handle.

DOWN, DOWN, down they plummeed, faster and faster. It seemed that they would certainly smash into the ground. But as they fell through the clouds the storm grew less fierce until finally it was over. The polka dot silk opened up again and parachuted gently to earth.

They were on an island in a blue green sea. The air was warm and soft breezes blew. The sun danced on the surface of the water as if there had never been a storm in the world.

Costenbricker collapsed on the ground. "Never will I leave the earth again!" he cried. "I'm too old for that kind of thing!"

But Michael was already on his feet and running toward the beach. While the parasol was drifting near to the earth he had seen — though he could hardly believe it — his lung floating on the sea!

There was a small boat pulled up on the beach. Michael dragged it to the water and rowed out to retrieve his lung. The face mask was fastened to the lung and only the flippers were missing.

Costenbricker called from shore and waved his feet frantically over his head. But when Michael rowed to the beach he saw it wasn't Costenbricker's feet but his own flippers dangling from the old man's hands.

"I found them not five yards from where we landed! And guess what, my boy?" Costenbricker threw down the flippers and dragged the crumpled map from his pocket. "We've reached our destination! This is the spot — the very island we were headed for. How is that for luck?"

MICHAEL wondered if it really were luck or if Santa Claus, far away in Santa Land, was not helping them in some mysterious way. Why else would they have been caught in the storm that caused them to land in just the right spot? And why else would there have been a row boat sitting so conveniently on the beach?

Costenbricker, forgetting his vow never to leave land again, scrambled into the boat and ordered Michael to put to sea. Happily Michael bent to the oars and rowed with all his might. The sea was dotted with islands, large and small, and it was somewhere among them, said Costenbricker, that the sunken ship lay.

"We'll have to hunt a bit before we find her," he said. "But she's in these waters for sure."

"May I go down now?" asked Michael impatiently. "Not yet," said Costenbricker, scanning the water. Every few minutes Michael would ask again, "Now?" But Costenbricker kept shaking his head, "Wait."

On and on they rowed in widening circles until the old man, peering over the side of the boat, finally exclaimed, "Now!"

Quickly Michael fitted the flippers on his feet. He fastened the lung to his shoulders and connected it to the diving mask on his face. Then, with a wave of his hand, he slipped over the side and into the sea.

$16.4 Billion To Be Spent By U.S. Schools This Year

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's public elementary and secondary schools will spend an estimated total of $16,476,135,000 this school year—more than $91 for every man, woman and child in the United States.

Reporting this today, the National Education Association said it represents an increase of $1.2 billion, or eight per cent, over last year, and 153 per cent over the $6.5 billion dollars of just 10 years ago.

The total includes almost $13 billion in current expenses, slightly over $3 billion in capital outlay for new buildings etc., and almost half a billion in interest charges.

The NEA also reported current enrollment in the public schools has reached 37,244,284, including 25,265,620 pupils in elementary school and 11,978,664 in secondary school, a one-year over-all increase of 1,206,347.

Elementary school enrollment this year is 3 per cent higher than last year and 33 per cent higher than 10 years ago. Secondary enrollment is up 4.2 per cent over last year and a whopping 76.6 per cent higher than the 1950-51 figure.

The figures were reported by the NEA's research division in a 32-page booklet, "Estimates of School Statistics, 1960-61." Other highlights from the report:

There are 1,408,962 classroom teachers; their average annual salary is $5,125 compared with $4,495 the previous year; one out of every 15 is an "emergency" teacher who lacks full credentials; and during the present school year 126,665 teachers will leave the public schools.

Total revenue receipts of the schools—excluding nearly $3 billion from the sale of bonds—will be $14,778,972,000. Of the total, 56.3 per cent will come from local sources, 40.1 per cent from state sources, and 3.6 per cent from the federal government.

The number of school districts has been cut to a modern low of 37,153, less than half the number in existence 11 years ago.

Sam M. Lambert, director of the NEA's research division, said total expenditures will increase by at least $1 billion per year during the 60s.

C. E. Motts Of Homeworth Heads Dairymen's Council

LISBON — C. E. Motts of Homeworth was elected chairman of the Columbiana County Dairymen's Council Monday evening in County Extension Service office.

He succeeds Willis J. Zimmerman of Salem, who was named vice chairman. Don Myers was elected secretary-treasurer.

The executive committee consists of Donald Rupert of New Waterford, Galen Groenisen of Salem, Glen Buzzard of Wellsville and Leonard Lowmiller of Minerva.

Robert Barnett of Beloit continues as a director of the Ohio Dairymen's Association.

Lewis Black of New Waterford was named a representative on the County Extension Advisory Committee and Zimmerman will be a representative to the County Agricultural Council.

Dr. Robert Kilgore of Canton, veterinarian, reported on the progress of disease control in the county. The tuberculosis program provides for testing a third of the county herds each year. Last winter, the first one third was started with Knox, Wayne and Hanover Township herds being tested, Dr. Kilgore said. West, Franklin and Washington Township herds are being completed this winter with Dr. Robert Armstrong of Lisbonville working in West and Dr. Kilgore and Technician George W. VanFossan working in Franklin and Washington.

The second third of the county is now being started on the tuberculin test with Dr. John Liggett of Salem assigned to Butler, Perry and Salem Townships, to be tested in that order. Dr. Tom Liggett of Lisbon will test Center and Madison and Yellow Creek Townships, possibly later in the winter or spring.

Dr. Kilgore said all cattle over 6 months of age is being tested on the area TB check. The test must be completed for recertification of the county by July 1962. In accordance with a new ruling, whole herds are being retested where suspects are found. Formerly only the suspects were retested. Few reactors are being found in the county, according to the veterinarians, Dr. Kilgore said.

NORTHERN OHIO — Temperatures will average 7-10 degrees below normal. Normal high 36, low 22. Turning cold again late Thursday or Friday for remainder of period. Precipitation will average one-half inch in snow flurries late Thursday or Friday, and snow again at end of period.

Only injury was a sprained ankle suffered by 8-year-old Ronnie Bennett in a leap from a 10-foot-high porch.

Big Sales, New Smokers

Christmas Holds Out Two Hopes For Cigar Industry

By SAM DAWSON

1. Gift sales should push the year's total consumption well above the 6.9 million smoked last year.

2. And the gift box may convert some recipients into regular cigar purchasers once the box is emptied.

U.S. cigar makers, of course, have the same dream when they think about the population explosion: More proud dads handing out cigars, more cronies subjected to the urge to buy some themselves.

Cigarmen could use some encouragement today. Sales rise slowly year by year. But of late there's been the hulaballoo in the Cuban tobacco market with its effects on the local production and consumption still not fully assessed.

And then there's the tax in a number of states that adds to prices and tends to act as a brake on sales.

The Cigar Institute of America says that nevertheless the industry has made a big comeback in the last 10 years, after going into a decline in the 1940s. It thinks new packaging ideas have helped, along with a drive to interest younger men, once all but lost to the industry.

The Cigar Manufacturers Association of America, Inc., reports not only more cigars smoked in each of the last four years, but the gain has been greater than the growth in the number of males 21 and over. So per capita consumption, put at 119 in 1956, is now estimated at 138 in 1960.

In the good old days of 1920 there were 31,556,000 males 21 and over, smoking 8,502,008 cigars, for 269 per capita. Cigarmen would like to see today's 52 million men old enough to vote blowing smoke rings from a lot more than the 7,160,000 cigars estimated to be sold this year.

Gains since the 1940s when consumption sank as low as 4.7 million cigars are hailed by the institute as springing largely from two things:

1. Production and packaging changes. Attractive boxes have helped and so has the idea of multiple-unit packaging. Cigars are now put up in packs of 3, 5 and 10 cigars, so that the consumer can buy as many as his pocket change allows, instead of the single one he used to buy.

2 Stylizing. This has been aimed largely at the men in the 20 to 30 age bracket. Manufacturers have been putting out smaller or slimmer cigars, so that the novice won't feel as if the big cigar is smoking him instead of the other way around.

Cigarmen tend to blame the war for the loss of the trade in the younger age brackets. Cigar smoking waned under war conditions. And it been a fight to get younger men to look on the cigar as anything but an older man's smoke.

Canton Man Was Convicted

High Court Will Consider New Trial In Race Killing

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Supreme Court will consider a new trial for a Canton man convicted in the drag race killing of three motorists.

The high court today agreed to review the state's appeal from appellate court reversal of the second-degree murder conviction of Ellis Patterson Jr., because his jury was not instructed that first or second degree manslaughter verdicts could have been returned.

Patterson and James Bradley Jr., also of Canton, were indicted jointly after the death of three passengers in a car rammed as the pair drag-raced Sept. 12, 1959 on 8th Street, N W in that city.

The victims were Mrs. Nancy Serena, her son, Ricky, and Rocco Serena, father of William Serena, who was driving the third car. Another motorist was forced off the residential street by the side-by-side racers before the fatal crash.

After Bradley obtained a separate trial, a common pleas court jury convicted Patterson on three counts of second-degree murder and he drew a life sentence. But an appellate court reversed and ordered a new trial.

Bradley was tried before a different judge who accepted his plea of guilty to second-degree manslaughter and sentenced him to three consecutive 1-20 year terms.

Both Bradley and Patterson are in Ohio Penitentiary here.

The Supreme Court also agreed to review Franklin County decisions upholding the city of Columbus' right to collect a one per cent municipal income tax from nonresident employes of Ohio State University working on the campus.

Duncan McConnell and other university employes living outside the city claimed Columbus exceeded its municipal powers in levying the tax on them. But lower courts held that home-rule powers permit Ohio cities to tax non-residents who work within their boundaries.

Attorneys claimed the university property in question was annexed to the city before it was occupied by the university, which is state-operated.

The court let stand an appellate court decision holding that Ohio's mortmain statute applies to a Youngstown case involving the will of James A. Ewing, attorney who died Dec. 24, 1953 leaving an estate now worth over $400,000.

The statute says charitable bequests in an estate left to a child are invalid unless the will is executed within a year before the testatr's death. Ewing's will was executed April 3, 1953.

The will left $10,000 and personal effects to his only daughter, Mrs. Maryjayne Ewing Roenick, of Toledo, and the rest to her son, James, 16, when he becomes 40, subject to some $35,000 in charitable bequests.

Mrs. Roenick, wife of Lester E. Roenick, brought suit for construction of the will. Mahoning County Common Pleas Court said the estate passed to the heirs. But an appellate court held that the will, naming the grandson principal beneficiary, was valid but that the charitable bequests were not under the mortmain law. Mrs. Roenick appealed the decision to the high court.

In other actions, the Supreme Court:

Dismissed the state's appeal from an order by Scioto County courts to pay Virginia Supply Co. Inc., Portsmouth, 6 per cent interest on compensation allowed for land taken for U.S. 52 improvements from the date the settlement was journalized until the date of payment. The amount for compensation and interest totaled $16,000.

Let stand the refusal of Crawford County courts to award Chester E. Hupp damages for injuries received when a scaffold fell while he was working on a church in St. Bernard's parish at New Washington. Hupp sued Weithman Brothers, Inc., which sub-contracted for some of the improvements to McKinley Roofing Co., for which Hupp worked. Testimony showed that Hupp mounted a ladder resting atop the scaffold without fastening the platform to the building.

Red Berlin Youth Units Plan 'Hunt-Spy' Game

BERLIN (AP) — Communist youth groups in East Berlin will hold a big game of "hunt-the-spy" Sunday as part of their semi-military training.

702 Seek Relief

CLEVELAND (AP) — There have been 702 applications for relief in the first 11 days of December, against 540 in a similar period last month, John J. Schaffer, Cuyahoga County welfare director, reported today. He told his advisory committee he expected the increase to continue throughout the month.

For Control Of Capital

Pro And Anti-Communists Fight Seesaw Laos Battle

WASHINGTON (AP)—A seesaw battle has been raging between pro- and anti-Communist Laotian forces for control of the Asian country's capital, Vientiane. The latest report received here said the pro-Communists had recaptured the city.

The sporadic fighting, punctuated by light rifle and mortar fire, began at noon Tuesday, when the pro-Western forces of Gen. Phoumi Nosavan began pushing the pro-Communists under Capt. Kong Le out of the city.

By nightfall Tuesday Phoumi's forces seemed to be in control. But a dispatch today said Kong Le's troops had rallied Tuesday night and by dawn were again in control of the embattled capital of the strife-torn land.

The dispatches were the pooled reports of a handful of Western correspondents in Vientiane. Normal communications had broken down, and the telegraph offiee had been shelled. Perhaps for this reason, the correspondents asked the U. S. Embassy in Vientiane to transmit their combined dispatches. They were distributed in Washington to the news agencies represented by the correspondents through the Voice of America, an arm of the State Department.

Although control of the capital tipped back and forth from one side to the other in less than 24 hours, the dispatches said the fighting generally was light. Only a few buildings were damaged by shellfire, and apparently no foreigners were killed or wounded.

Prince Souvanna Phouma set up a neutralist regime. At one point he authorized Soviet planes to fly in gasoline and food to Vientiane.

But Souvanna Phouma fled to neighboring Cambodia last Friday. Various factions tried to take charge. Kong Le's strength was beefed up by artillery and ammunition flown in by the Russians from Hanoi, the dispatches said. A pro-Communist group called the Pathet Lao was directed to join Kong Le's forces.

King Savang Vatthana issued a royal decree ordering the leftist government to dissolve. A government under Prince Boun Oum was announced by Gen. Phoumi Nosavan's forces from their stronghold in Savannakhet.

When Souvanna Phoumi fled Friday, he handed the government over to a military committee.

But on Sunday a leftist politician named Quinim Pholsena announced he was in charge. Pholsena fled the capital when Gen. Phoumi's anti-Communist troops moved into the city Tuesday, and his present whereabouts are unknown.

ZONGULDAK, Turkey (AP) — Twelve miners were dead and 55 trapped far below ground Tuesday by a gas explosion in a coal mine near this Black Sea coast city.

John C. Thomas, Famed Baritone, Dies Of Cancer

APPLE VALLEY, Calif. (AP)—Death caused by cancer has silenced the deep, rich voice of baritone John Charles Thomas, 68, one of America's most beloved singers.

The barrel-chested star of opera, concert stage and radio died at his home Tuesday. Ill for months with intestinal cancer, the singer had spent his last days in a coma.

Although still widely sought for concert appearances, Thomas retired from the circuit in 1953. Since 1954 he and his wife, Dorothy, had lived in this desert community northeast of Los Angeles.

His big, booming voice became familiar to millions between 1942 and 1947 when he sang regularly over the National Broadcasting Co. radio network.

Canton Man Was Convicted

High Court Will Consider New Trial In Race Killing

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Supreme Court will consider a new trial for a Canton man convicted in the drag race killing of three motorists.

The high court today agreed to review the state's appeal from appellate court reversal of the second-degree murder conviction of Ellis Patterson Jr., because his jury was not instructed that first or second degree manslaughter verdicts could have been returned.

Patterson and James Bradley Jr., also of Canton, were indicted jointly after the death of three passengers in a car rammed as the pair drag-raced Sept. 12, 1959 on 8th Street, N W in that city.

The victims were Mrs. Nancy Serena, her son, Ricky, and Rocco Serena, father of William Serena, who was driving the third car. Another motorist was forced off the residential street by the side-by-side racers before the fatal crash.

After Bradley obtained a separate trial, a common pleas court jury convicted Patterson on three counts of second-degree murder and he drew a life sentence. But an appellate court reversed and ordered a new trial.

Bradley was tried before a different judge who accepted his plea of guilty to second-degree manslaughter and sentenced him to three consecutive 1-20 year terms.

Both Bradley and Patterson are in Ohio Penitentiary here.

The Supreme Court also agreed to review Franklin County decisions upholding the city of Columbus' right to collect a one per cent municipal income tax from non-resident employes of Ohio State University working on the campus.

Duncan McConnell and other university employes living outside the city claimed Columbus exceeded its municipal powers in levying the tax on them. But lower courts held that home-rule powers permit Ohio cities to tax non-residents who work within their boundaries.

Attorneys claimed the university property in question was annexed to the city before it was occupied by the university, which is state-operated.

The court let stand an appellate court decision holding that Ohio's mortmain statute applies to a Youngstown case involving the will of James A. Ewing, attorney who died Dec. 24, 1953 leaving an estate now worth over $400,000.

The statute says charitable bequests in an estate left to a child are invalid unless the will is executed within a year before the testatr's death. Ewing's will was executed April 3, 1953.

The will left $10,000 and personal effects to his only daughter, Mrs. Maryjayne Ewing Roenick, of Toledo, and the rest to her son, James, 16, when he becomes 40, subject to some $35,000 in charitable bequests.

Mrs. Roenick, wife of Lester E. Roenick, brought suit for construction of the will. Mahoning County Common Pleas Court said the estate passed to the heirs. But an appellate court held that the will, naming the grandson principal beneficiary, was valid but that the charitable bequests were not under the mortmain law. Mrs. Roenick appealed the decision to the high court.

In other actions, the Supreme Court:

Dismissed the state's appeal from an order by Scioto County courts to pay Virginia Supply Co. Inc., Portsmouth, 6 per cent interest on compensation allowed for land taken for U.S. 52 improvements from the date the settlement was journalized until the date of payment. The amount for compensation and interest totaled $16,000.

Let stand the refusal of Crawford County courts to award Chester E. Hupp damages for injuries received when a scaffold fell while he was working on a church in St. Bernard's parish at New Washington. Hupp sued Weithman Brothers, Inc., which sub-contracted for some of the improvements to McKinley Roofing Co., for which Hupp worked. Testimony showed that Hupp mounted a ladder resting atop the scaffold without fastening the platform to the building.

Red Berlin Youth Units Plan 'Hunt-Spy' Game

BERLIN (AP) — Communist youth groups in East Berlin will hold a big game of "hunt-the-spy" Sunday as part of their semi-military training.

702 Seek Relief

CLEVELAND (AP) — There have been 702 applications for relief in the first 11 days of December, against 540 in a similar period last month, John J. Schaffer, Cuyahoga County welfare director, reported today. He told his advisory committee he expected the increase to continue throughout the month.

For Control Of Capital

Pro And Anti-Communists Fight Seesaw Laos Battle

WASHINGTON (AP)—A seesaw battle has been raging between pro- and anti-Communist Laotian forces for control of the Asian country's capital, Vientiane. The latest report received here said the pro-Communists had recaptured the city.

The sporadic fighting, punctuated by light rifle and mortar fire, began at noon Tuesday, when the pro-Western forces of Gen. Phoumi Nosavan began pushing the pro-Communists under Capt. Kong Le out of the city.

By nightfall Tuesday Phoumi's forces seemed to be in control. But a dispatch today said Kong Le's troops had rallied Tuesday night and by dawn were again in control of the embattled capital of the strife-torn land.

The dispatches were the pooled reports of a handful of Western correspondents in Vientiane. Normal communications had broken down, and the telegraph office had been shelled. Perhaps for this reason, the correspondents asked the U. S. Embassy in Vientiane to transmit their combined dispatches. They were distributed in Washington to the news agencies represented by the correspondents through the Voice of America, an arm of the State Department.

Although control of the capital tipped back and forth from one side to the other in less than 24 hours, the dispatches said the fighting generally was light. Only a few buildings were damaged by shellfire, and apparently no foreigners were killed or wounded.

Prince Souvanna Phouma set up a neutralist regime. At one point he authorized Soviet planes to fly in gasoline and food to Vientiane.

But Souvanna Phouma fled to neighboring Cambodia last Friday. Various factions tried to take charge. Kong Le's strength was beefed up by artillery and ammunition flown in by the Russians from Hanoi, the dispatches said. A pro-Communist group called the Pathet Lao was directed to join Kong Le's forces.

King Savang Vatthana issued a royal decree ordering the leftist government to dissolve. A government under Prince Boun Oum was announced by Gen. Phoumi Nosavan's forces from their stronghold in Savannakhet.

When Souvanna Phoumi fled Friday, he handed the government over to a military committee.

But on Sunday a leftist politician named Quinim Pholsena announced he was in charge. Pholsena fled the capital when Gen. Phoumi's anti-Communist troops moved into the city Tuesday, and his present whereabouts are unknown.

30 Traffic Deaths Seen In Ohio Over Christmas Period

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Department of Highway Safety is predicting that 30 persons will die in Ohio traffic during the 78-hour Christmas weekend.

But Highway Safety Director J. Grant Keys says the number of traffic accidents which occur would be a better yardstick than just fatalities in comparing the holiday situation in Ohio with that in other states.

"Every accident is a potential fatality," Keys said. "It's only chance, luck, or what-have-you that decrees otherwise. One accident that takes several lives can make it appear that a state is having a terrible holiday experience, while actually it may be 'way below other comparable states in total number of traffic accidents."

Keys said the department's chief statistician, Harold R. Kaiser, arrived at the estimate of 30, but that Kaiser pointed out 28 persons died in the worst 78-hour (non-Christmas) period of last December, compared with 25 during the 78-hour 1959 Christmas holiday period itself.

The quest for a substitute for wooden railroad crossties remains unsolved. Some 2,500 patents have been granted in the search for a replacement, but the wooden tie is still predominant.

2 Die, 4 Hurt In Canton Fire

CANTON, Ohio (AP)—Two men died and four persons were hospitalized for burns and smoke inhalation in an apartment house blaze that firemen worked five hours to bring under control early today.

Nearly 50 residents of the 37-unit, three-story frame apartment at 400 Brown Ave., about a half-mile northwest of Public Square, fled into the near-zero night temperatures. A few elderly residents were brought down ladders by firemen.

The dead were identified by police and the building owner, Marvin Siber, as Earl Stephens, 71, and Herbert Jackson Harris, 49. Detectives said Stephens had left the building, but went back inside with a fire extingusher. His body was found near the rear fire escape on the second floor, and the body of Harris, who occupied a third-floor room, was found nearby.

Admitted to Aultman Hospital for burns and smoke inhalation were Willis Hatfield, 40; his wife, Edna, 29; Enos McIntyre, 85; and Mirth Gaskell, 75. Firemen carried the latter two down ladders after they had been overcome by smoke.

New Warning System Eyed For Institutions

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A new type of warning system is being considered for the Lebanon and Marion correctional institutions, Correction Commissioner Maury C. Koblentz says. He said it works this way:

A wire goes around the prison's fence. Anything weighing more than 50 pounds (to prevent false alarms from small game) will set off an alarm if it comes within four feet of the fence.

The fence is marked off in 300-foot sections. When the alarm goes off in the guard towers and at a central control point, guards know within 300 feet where the trouble is.

Koblentz said the system was developed by a Fort Lauderdale, Fla., firm. He declined to say how much it might cost until the study is complete, but said the correction division will ask for funds to install the system at Lebanon and Marion if it appears to be satisfactory.

Racial Progress In Detroit Seen Uneven Since '43

DETROIT, Mich. (AP)—Detroit has come a long way since its violent race riot of 1943, but racial progress in the Motor City has been uneven since then, Walter P. Reuther, United Auto Workers president, said today.

Reuther, in testimony for delivery today, told the opening session of a two-day public hearing by the U. S. Commission on Civil Rights that "there has been continued resistance to an open housing market in Detroit and its suburbs, and segregated housing has bred segregated classrooms."

Gov. G. Mennen Williams, Michigan's outgoing Democratic governor after an unprecedented tenure of six terms, said, in prepared remarks, that "the world image of the United States . . . has been tarnished by the denial of the human rights of our citizens."

Reuther and Williams, the first Michigan governor to have a Negro Cabinet member and to appoint a Negro judge, were among the first of an estimated total of 20 to 30 witnesses called to testify.

The six-member commission said it would deal with public education today and with housing Thursday.

Ex-Congressman Clevenger Taken

TIFFIN, Ohio (AP) — Cliff Clevenger, Fifth Ohio District congressman from 1939 until 1958, died Tuesday at his home here. He was 75.

A Republican, Clevenger did not seek re-election in 1958. He moved here from Bryan after ending his 20-year tenure in Congress.

A native of Lone Pine, Neb., Clevenger came to Ohio in 1912 and opened a department store in Bowling Green. He moved to Bryan in 1928 to manage the F.W. Uhlman stores there.

In his first campaign for Congress Clevenger exhibited a nurse's uniform made of foreign material in support of his arguments against reciprocal trade treaties and other tariff policies.

He is survived by his wife, the former Georgeanna Tipler, and a son, John G.

Funeral arrangements were being made today.

Firm Faces Suit

CINCINNATI (AP) — A Cincinnati architects firm, Potter, Tyler, Martin and Roth, faces a suit for $188,000 damages in Common Pleas Court involving a six-story nurses' residence and school building in Covington, Ky. The Franciscan Sisters of the Poor filed the suit Tuesday contending there was negligence in drawing the plans and in supervision. The suit said the west brick wall collapsed from the third floor down last June 27.

Kennedy Will Find Byrd Opposing Any Tax Slash

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP)—President-elect John F. Kennedy is going to find Sen. Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., standing uncompromisingly against any shot-in-the-arm tax cut to counter the economic downturn.

Byrd, who heads the Senate Finance Committee which would have to pass on any such reduction, said he believes any action to cut taxes which would result in a budget deficit "would be the worst thing we could do."

The Virginia senator said in an interview he bases this opinion on his study in Europe this fall of the drain on the American gold supply. This problem has perplexed the retiring Eisenhower administration and promises to become one of Kennedy's major headaches when he takes office in January.

"If we go into any deficit financing, it is going to undermine further the already weakened confidence abroad in the dollar," Byrd said. "It would be almost certain to result in a further flight of gold.

"Piling up deficits is no longer merely a matter of adding to our national debt. If we don't protect the position of the dollar in world exchange, we will be courting disaster."

Byrd, who has denounced the platform on which Kennedy was elected and who did not support the Democratic nominee, indicated he believes the gold threat will act as a brake on any large spending increases the president-elect might be tempted to submit to Congress.

If he accepts the weight of opinion among his advisers, Kennedy is not likely to propose any public works spending program to meet a recession. Most of these advisers think such programs operate too slowly to help in a temporary recession.

Kennedy said during the presidential campaign that a temporary reduction in some taxes would be considered if the business recession he contended was under way then should deepen this winter.

Subsequently several economists told a Senate-House committee designated by the president-elect to survy economic conditions that taxes ought to be cut if unemployment goes beyond six million. Unemployment hit 4,031,000 in November, or 6.3 per cent of the labor force.

Ohio Couple's Claim Upheld In Tax Case

WASHINGTON (AP) — A U.S. Tax Court judge has upheld a claim by a Newark, Ohio, couple that they were entitled to deduct contributions to a trust on their income tax returns.

The ruling, by Judge Ernest H. Van Fossan, fully supported the pair—Emerson R. Miller and his wife, Mary—and turned down the Internal Revenue Service.

IRS had claimed the Millers owed about $15,831 for 1955 and 1956.

The dispute centered around contributions to a trust known as the William E. Miller and Annie S. Miller Memorial Foundation. Emerson Miller was trustee of this foundation.

IRS had declined to grant the foundation tax-exempt status and claimed it was not managed for charitable purposes.

Miller said it was. He said a contribution of $10,000 was made last March to a scholarship fund of Denison University at Granville, Ohio.

The judge said IRS also had tried to impeach Miller's truthfulness by offering records of what the judge described as "records of convictions of Miller for filing false and fraudulent tax returns with the State of Ohio . . ."

"We have thoroughly considered the testimony and exhibits, but we fail to find any support for (the IRS) conclusion that this trust was conducted for other than charitable purposes," the judge wrote.

An Eisenhower Card? Better Read Fine Print

Many East Liverpool residents were amazed Tuesday when they received beautifully - printed Christmas cards carrying the name "Dwight D. Eisenhower" in bold, black type.

After the first shock wore off, a glance inside gave the explanation, printed in the tiniest of type:

"Actually it's from me, but I thought you might want to hang it on your tree and impress your friends."

The cards were mailed as a joke by Ralph A. Finley of Pond St., secretary of the Smith & Phillips Co.

Europe's Royalty Attends King's Pre-Wedding Ball

By EDDY GILMORE

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — Europe's royalty, flashing jewelry worth millions and attended by a small army of servants, turned back history Tuesday night at bachelor King Baudouin's gala pre-wedding ball.

Seldom since bygone days when royalty was supreme have so many titles and so much jewelry been gathered in one place.

Five kings, four queens, 46 princes and princesses, 25 counts and countesses and dozens of lesser titled blueboods watched as the happy Belgian king danced across the palace ballroom with his fiancee, Dona Fabiola de Mora Y Aragon, whom he marries Thursday.

Beautifully gowned women among the 1,200 guests seemed to vie with one another as to who could put on the most diamonds, emeralds and pearls.

One royal security officer, wearing evening dress and mingling with the guests, said he never had seen so many costly gems in years of guarding royal heirlooms.

A state banquet for 230 special guests also featured reminders of the past. One course was young wild boar smothered in chestnut sauce, the ancient dish of kings.

Ex-King Leopold gave his parental blessing in a toast: "By her tender presence at your side," he told his son, "Fabiola will be your most precious support."

Another guest was Christian A. Herter, U. S. secretary of State — President Eisenhower's representative at the ball.

After the civil ceremony in the palace, King Baudouin and his bride will go to the seven-centuries-old Collegiate Church of Saints Michel and Gudule. It will be the first time the wedding of a reigning Belgian king has been celebrated in the church.

Motorist Fined

LISBON — Earl Hartley, 44, of R.D. 3 was fined $5 and costs Tuesday by County Judge James L. MacDonald for passing on a curve. Sharetts K. Chambers, 32, of Beaver forfeited $20 on similar charge. Both were cited by the State Highway Patrol.

11 Homeless In Fire

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP)—Eleven persons. including eight children, have been left homeless by a fire that destroyed their two-story log-and-frame home. Mr. and Mrs. James Clark and their five children. and Mrs. Ada Doyle and her three youngsters were taken in by friends and neighbors Tuesday after the blaze.

Liver and kidney are excellent sources of iron; a lack of this important mineral causes anemia. It's a good idea to plan to serve liver or kidney to your family at least once a week.

Jimmy Durante's 'Noivous Wretch' As Wedding Nears

Durante noivous? Whoops, nervous. Sure. He's getting married today.

The sandpaper-voiced comedian will be wed to Margie Little, 40, a red-haired former show girl from Plainfield, N. J., at the Actor's chapel this afternoon, with the Rev. Thomas de Luca of Troy, N. Y., officiating. The chapel is formally named St. Malachy's Roman Catholic Church, in the theater district.

The wedding was planned to be quiet, but Durante says he has his doubts, what with all the advance publicity.

"Everybody wants to get inta da act," he commented, using a line not entirely new to his repertoire.

Durante and Margie started going together in 1944, the year after the death of his first wife, Jeanne Olson. The engagement was announced in 1956. At that time Durante said they would be married "next year."

School Levy Defeated

CONNEAUT, Ohio (AP) — A special election Tuesday brought a 1,314 to 836 defeat for a three-mill tax levy intended to provide $73,500 a year for city school operating funds, including increases for teachers. The same levy lost by two votes in the Nov. 8 election when more than twice as many ballots were cast. City teachers have a salary scale of $4,000 a year for beginners to $5,880.

Final Day For Stock Exchange

B&O Shareholders Hold Key In C&O Control Bid

CLEVELAND (AP)—What several thousand Baltimore and Ohio Railroad shareholders do or don't do today may determine whether the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway succeeds in gaining control of B&O.

This is the final day for the C&O exchange offer for B&O stock. The New York Central System has made a rival offer for B&O shares, and that offer also expires today.

C&O president Walter Tuohy said Tuesday acquisition of large blocks of B&O have pushed to more than 45 per cent the number of B&O shares tendered or committed to C&O. Tuohy made the statement in New York, where he went for a personal effort to induce holders of large blocks of B&O stock to accept the C&O offer.

The New York Central has not said how much of the outstanding 2,547,000 B&O common shares have been tendered to NYC.

Tuohy said 235,395 shares were received by the exchange agent Tuesday and there were commitments in addition for more than 55,000 shares.

The original C&O offer was contingent on acquisition of 80 per cent of B&O stock, but Tuohy has said if a majority of B&O stock is tendered he will recommend approval of the exchange by the C&O board.

He said he hoped to announce by Friday that C&O has 51 per cent or more of outstanding B&O stock.

In addition to what had been committed by Tuesday night, it would take another 150,000 or so shares to reach that goal, a C&O spokesman said. Because shares may be mailed in until midnight tonight, it will be a few days before the final count is made.

The C&O's offer is one common share of C&O for each share of B&O preferred, and one share of C&O common for each 1¾ shares of B&O common. There are nearly 600,000 shares of B&O preferred outstanding.

If 51 per cent of the B&O stock should be tendered, that does not mean C&O automatically gets control of B&O. First the C&O board must approve the exchange. Then B&O shareowners will get 30 days to reconsider in view of the fact that 80 per cent control probably will not be achieved.

There are tax considerations involved. If C&O acquired 80 per cent of B&O, the B&O shareowners exchanging their stock would be exempt from any capital gains taxes on the transaction, a C&O spokesman noted.

Then, C&O may take another 30 days, if it desires, to reconsider after seeing what B&O stockholders, if any, withdraw.

If the C&O still has 51 per cent of the B&O stock, it presumably would ask the Interstate Commerce Commission to approve the exchange of stock.

ICC consideration of C&O's application for control of B&O could take months and undoubtedly would be opposed by the NYC.

NYC and B&O have agreed to make studies concerning a possible merger. The NYC also has proposed a three-way merger of C&O, B&O and NYC, but C&O has opposed this.

Man Gives Up In Theft Of Air Force Property

CINCINNATI (AP) — William Edward Crefap, Cincinnati, sought in the theft of an Air Forec intrared device, has surrendered to a U.S. marshal. Crefap, 21, waived a hearing Tuesday before a U.S. commissioner on a charge of stealing Air Force property and was held in $5,000 bond.

The device, made to detect missiles by their heat output, was stolen from an engineer's car Oct. 26. Part of it was found by skin divers in the Ohio River.

The Cornell University Laboratory of Ornithology has more than 4,000 tape recordings of the calls of more than 600 species of birds.

Teenage Girl Seen Boss In Holdup Of Cincinnati Cafe

CINCINNATI (AP)—A girl with dirty blonde hair, apparently only a teen-ager, bossed two older male companions Tuesday night in a shot-marked holdup of an East End cafe, police reported.

Officers said the three escaped with $101 from Daly's Cafe after one of the bandits fired a 12-gauge shotgun into the cafe floor as a warning.

The blast slightly wounded a customer, Mrs. Edith Bader, 43, in the leg.

Officers quoted James Land, 66, the bartender, as saying the girl came in followed by the two others, including the husky shotgun carrier who shouted "I'll kill you, I'll kill you," to the bartender.

The girl shut him up, Land said, saying, "No, we'll have no killing."

Land said the husky one took his wallet containing $25, and the wallet of a customer, Collier Spencer, 53, holding $6, while the girl took $70 from the cash register.

Total Of Polio Cases In Ohio For '60 Reaches 104

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio's total of reported polio cases this year has reached 104, and a prediction made by state Health Department officials in November has come true.

Officials—who had been hopeful until that time—predicted at the end of last month that the polio toll would not be held to less than 100. If this had come about, it would have been the first time since 1938. Now, officials say the total probably will go higher, although it still is less than half of last year's toll.

Fifty-six men are 1960 victims, compared with 48 women, and there have been five deaths. James J. Papai of the department's communicable diseases division said 82 of the 104 cases involve paralysis.

Papai said 24 of the victims in cases involving paralysis had three or more polio shots.

Final Day For Stock Exchange

B&O Shareholders Hold Key In C&O Control Bid

CLEVELAND (AP)—What several thousand Baltimore and Ohio Railroad shareholders do or don't do today may determine whether the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway succeeds in gaining control of B&O.

This is the final day for the C&O exchange offer for B&O stock. The New York Central System has made a rival offer for B&O shares, and that offer also expires today.

C&O president Walter Tuohy said Tuesday acquisition of large blocks of B&O have pushed to more than 45 per cent the number of B&O shares tendered or committed to C&O. Tuohy made the statement in New York, where he went for a personal effort to induce holders of large blocks of B&O stock to accept the C&O offer.

The New York Central has not said how much of the outstanding 2,547,000 B&O common shares have been tendered to NYC.

Tuohy said 235,395 shares were received by the exchange agent Tuesday and there were commitments in addition for more than 55,000 shares.

The original C&O offer was contingent on acquisition of 80 per cent of B&O stock, but Tuohy has said if a majority of B&O stock is tendered he will recommend approval of the exchange by the C&O board.

He said he hoped to announce by Friday that C&O has 51 per cent or more of outstanding B&O stock.

In addition to what had been committed by Tuesday night, it would take another 150,000 or so shares to reach that goal, a C&O spokesman said. Because shares may be mailed in until midnight tonight, it will be a few days before the final count is made.

The C&O's offer is one common share of C&O for each share of B&O preferred, and one share of C&O common for each 1¾ shares of B&O common. There are nearly 600,000 shares of B&O preferred outstanding.

If 51 per cent of the B&O stock should be tendered, that does not mean C&O automatically gets control of B&O. First the C&O board must approve the exchange. Then B&O shareowners will get 30 days to reconsider in view of the fact that 80 per cent control probably will not be achieved.

There are tax considerations involved. If C&O acquired 80 per cent of B&O, the B&O shareowners exchanging their stock would be exempt from any capital gains taxes on the transaction, a C&O spokesman noted.

Then, C&O may take another 30 days, if it desires, to reconsider after seeing what B&O stockholders, if any, withdraw.

If the C&O still has 51 per cent of the B&O stock, it presumably would ask the Interstate Commerce Commission to approve the exchange of stock.

ICC consideration of C&O's application for control of B&O could take months and undoubtedly would be opposed by the NYC.

NYC and B&O have agreed to make studies concerning a possible merger. The NYC also has proposed a three-way merger of C&O, B&O and NYC, but C&O has opposed this.

Man Gives Up In Theft Of Air Force Property

CINCINNATI (AP) — William Edward Crefap, Cincinnati, sought in the theft of an Air Forec intrared device, has surrendered to a U.S. marshal. Crefap, 21, waived a hearing Tuesday before a U.S. commissioner on a charge of stealing Air Force property and was held in $5,000 bond.

The device, made to detect missiles by their heat output, was stolen from an engineer's car Oct. 26. Part of it was found by skin divers in the Ohio River.

The Cornell University Laboratory of Ornithology has more than 4,000 tape recordings of the calls of more than 600 species of birds.

Teenage Girl Seen Boss In Holdup Of Cincinnati Cafe

CINCINNATI (AP)—A girl with dirty blonde hair, apparently only a teen-ager, bossed two older male companions Tuesday night in a shot-marked holdup of an East End cafe, police reported.

Officers said the three escaped with $101 from Daly's Cafe after one of the bandits fired a 12-gauge shotgun into the cafe floor as a warning.

The blast slightly wounded a customer, Mrs. Edith Bader, 43, in the leg.

Officers quoted James Land, 66, the bartender, as saying the girl came in followed by the two others, including the husky shotgun carrier who shouted "I'll kill you, I'll kill you," to the bartender.

The girl shut him up, Land said, saying, "No, we'll have no killing."

Land said the husky one took his wallet containing $25, and the wallet of a customer, Collier Spencer, 53, holding $6, while the girl took $70 from the cash register.

Total Of Polio Cases In Ohio For '60 Reaches 104

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio's total of reported polio cases this year has reached 104, and a prediction made by state Health Department officials in November has come true.

Officials—who had been hopeful until that time—predicted at the end of last month that the polio toll would not be held to less than 100. If this had come about, it would have been the first time since 1938. Now, officials say the total probably will go higher, although it still is less than half of last year's toll.

Fifty-six men are 1960 victims, compared with 48 women, and there have been five deaths. Jar J. Papai of the department's co municable diseases division s 82 of the 104 cases involve pa ysis.

Papai said 24 of the victims cases involving paralysis had th or more polio shots.

Election Board Given Citation For Quick Report On Returns

The Columbiana County Election Board has received an "award of achievement" from Secretary of State Ted W. Brown, the state's chief election officer, for its prompt reporting of returns in the Nov. 8 general election.

The award, in the form of a printed proclamation signed by Brown, was one of 8 distributed at the annual meeting of the Ohio Association of Election Officials Monday and Tuesday at Columbus. The county board was represented by Atty. Charles Pike of Lisbon and Carl L. Stacey and Don R. Gosney, both of Columbiana.

Brown's proclamation reads:

"Whereas, the administration of elections in Ohio, serving the eligible voters of our state, is an important function of our society and the preservation of self-government, and whereas the efficiency and promptness of bringing to the attention of the public the result of these elections is essential and whereas the boards of elections are charged with this responsibility, working closely with the secretary of state and his staff, and wishing to give recognition to the several factors entering into a prompt, accurate and even flow of election reporting in the elections of 1960, we have determined that an award of achievement should be made to Columbiana County."

The citation added "special appreciation to all who assisted in this effort." Columbiana County was the first of the 8 counties to receive the award. In the action, Brown singled out 8 counties out of 88 for the award.

It is the second such award the county board has received. In addition, Brown has honored Frank R. O'Hanlon, veteran clerk of the board, in a citation for his long service.

The fourth member of the board is Atty. James L. McSweeney of Wellsville, who is vacationing in Florida. O'Hanlon is a patient in Cleveland Clinic, where he underwent surgery Friday.

Mother And Daughter Taken To Reformatory

LISBON — Mrs. Sylvia Knight Vaughn, 43, of Rogers R.D. and her daughter, Mrs. Helen Rummel, 25, of near Negley, were taken to the Women's Reformatory Tuesday by sheriff's deputies to begin 1-7-year sentences for larceny and receiving stolen property.

Mrs. Vaughn pleaded guilty of stealing $280 from the late Edison Snyder of Franklin Square Sept. 7 and Mrs. Vaughn gave her daughter half of the money.

Both were refused probation Wednesday before Common Pleas Judge Raymond S. Buzzard.

Appeal Seen In Car Assault

Defense attorneys for Donald Eugene Saunders, 31, of Wellsburg Tuesday afternoon filed notice of appeal to the West Virginia State Supreme Court of his conviction Nov. 16 of malicious assault of a Waterford Park guard.

Atty. Vito H. Catanero of Weirton said he will appeal to the higher court after Saunders was sentenced to 2-10 years in prison by Judge J. Harold Brennan yesterday in Hancock County Circuit Court in New Cumberland.

Saunders' $2,000 bond was raised to $5,000 which he posted for release.

A race track worker and father of four youngsters, Saunders was convicted last month of ramming his auto into Steve Yurka, 48, of New Cumberland after a hassle over a pass sticker issued by the track to its employes.

After he two argued over possession of the paper sticker normally applied to an auto windshield, Saunders drove his auto into Yurka and pinned him against a 4-foot high steel fence.

Yurka, owner of Club Daily Double at New Cumberland, was serving as sergeant of the guard at the track when the incident occurred in June. He was hospitalized with injuries.

Transcripts of the three-day trial are expected to be forwarded to the State Supreme Court in Charleston, which will then set a date for a hearing.

Judge Brennan earlier had overruled a motion for a new trial asked by Saunders' attorneys.

The defense claimed during the trial that Saunders was rendered senseless by blows from Yurka's nightstick and was unable to remember ramming his auto into Yurka.

Aerial Ladder 'Borrowed' In Robber Hunt

Police and firemen used an aerial ladder truck to ascend to the roof of a downtown building early today after a nearby apartment dweller reported hearing mysterious noises, but the hunt showed the fears of a prospective burglary apparently were groundless.

Police received a telephoned report at 12:39 from a resident of an apartment on E. 5th St., reporting he had heard mysterious noises from the direction of adjoining buildings occupied by the Burbick Hardware Store and Jerry's Auto Store.

The caller said he believed someone was on the roof of the buildings, which front on both Washington St. and Broadway, adjoining the Potters Savings & Loan Co.

Asked to co-operate, firemen took their aerial ladder truck to the Washington St. side of the buildings to allow both firemen and police to ascend to the roof for a search.

Meanwhile, police and firemen were stationed at strategic locations around the site to nab anyone who might flee the scene. Men were posted on Broadway, on Washington St. and on E. 5th St. at Broadway and Washington St.

A few years ago, the Burbick store was burglarized on at least two occasions by intruders who climbed the stairway in the Potters Savings & Loan building and then stepped out a window onto the roof of the store.

Election Board Given Citation For Quick Report On Returns

The Columbiana County Election Board has received an "award of achievement" from Secretary of State Ted W. Brown, the state's chief election officer, for its prompt reporting of returns in the Nov. 8 general election.

The award, in the form of a printed proclamation signed by Brown, was one of 8 distributed at the annual meeting of the Ohio Association of Election Officials Monday and Tuesday at Columbus. The county board was represented by Atty. Charles Pike of Lisbon and Carl L. Stacey and Don R. Gosney, both of Columbiana.

Brown's proclamation reads:

"Whereas, the administration of elections in Ohio, serving the eligible voters of our state, is an important function of our society and the preservation of self-government, and whereas the efficiency and promptness of bringing to the attention of the public the result of these elections is essential and whereas the boards of elections are charged with this responsibility, working closely with the secretary of state and his staff, and wishing to give recognition to the several factors entering into a prompt, accurate and even flow of election reporting in the elections of 1960, we have determined that an award of achievement should be made to Columbiana County."

The citation added "special appreciation to all who assisted in this effort." Columbiana County was the first of the 8 counties to receive the award. In the action, Brown singled out 8 counties out of 88 for the award.

It is the second such award the county board has received. In addition, Brown has honored Frank R. O'Hanlon, veteran clerk of the board, in a citation for his long service.

The fourth member of the board is Atty. James L. McSweeney of Wellsville, who is vacationing in Florida. O'Hanlon is a patient in Cleveland Clinic, where he underwent surgery Friday.

Appeal Seen In Car Assault

Defense attorneys for Donald Eugene Saunders, 31, of Wellsburg Tuesday afternoon filed notice of appeal to the West Virginia State Supreme Court of his conviction Nov. 16 of malicious assault of a Waterford Park guard.

Atty. Vito H. Catanero of Weirton said he will appeal to the higher court after Saunders was sentenced to 2-10 years in prison by Judge J. Harold Brennan yesterday in Hancock County Circuit Court in New Cumberland.

Saunders' $2,000 bond was raised to $5,000 which he posted for release.

A race track worker and father of four youngsters, Saunders was convicted last month of ramming his auto into Steve Yurka, 48, of New Cumberland after a hassle over a pass sticker issued by the track to its employes.

After he two argued over possession of the paper sticker normally applied to an auto windshield, Saunders drove his auto into Yurka and pinned him against a 4-foot high steel fence.

Yurka, owner of Club Daily Double at New Cumberland, was serving as sergeant of the guard at the track when the incident occurred in June. He was hospitalized with injuries.

Transcripts of the three-day trial are expected to be forwarded to the State Supreme Court in Charleston, which will then set a date for a hearing.

Judge Brennan earlier had overruled a motion for a new trial asked by Saunders' attorneys.

The defense claimed during the trial that Saunders was rendered senseless by blows from Yurka's nightstick and was unable to remember ramming his auto into Yurka.

Aerial Ladder 'Borrowed' In Robber Hunt

Police and firemen used an aerial ladder truck to ascend to the roof of a downtown building early today after a nearby apartment dweller reported hearing mysterious noises, but the hunt showed the fears of a prospective burglary apparently were groundless.

Police received a telephoned report at 12:39 from a resident of an apartment on E. 5th St., reporting he had heard mysterious noises from the direction of adjoining buildings occupied by the Burbick Hardware Store and Jerry's Auto Store.

The caller said he believed someone was on the roof of the buildings, which front on both Washington St. and Broadway, adjoining the Potters Savings & Loan Co.

Asked to co-operate, firemen took their aerial ladder truck to the Washington St. side of the buildings to allow both firemen and police to ascend to the roof for a search.

Meanwhile, police and firemen were stationed at strategic locations around the site to nab anyone who might flee the scene. Men were posted on Broadway, on Washington St. and on E. 5th St. at Broadway and Washington St.

A few years ago, the Burbick store was burglarized on at least two occasions by intruders who climbed the stairway in the Potters Savings & Loan building and then stepped out a window onto the roof of the store.

Pope Addresses 2,000

Human Thaw Occurs

Storm Melts Cold Heart

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—It takes a blizzard to melt the cold, cold heart of the world's greatest city.

So, if you want to see America's leading metropolis at its friendliest, be sure to come here during a blinding snowstorm.

On ordinary days a stranger seeing Manhattan for the first time gets the eerie impression he has been set down in a vast civic madhouse.

Everybody seems to be in a tremendous rush to get from where he is to where he isn't. Each person acts as if he were carrying an important message to Garcia. Each person appears to believe the other eight million citizens is trying to block his path.

It is a city where folks don't really seem to have time for each other. It is a city where you start mumbling "G'bye" before you finish saying "H'lo."

To many visitors, awed by the pace here, New York appears less a city than a huge traffic problem—an intricate maze endlessly threaded by two-legged ants hopped up by pep pills, ants endlessly bumping into each other, ricocheting, and then bumbling on, growling.

But let five or more inches of snow fall, and all this magically changes.

The daily scramble to gain an edge on the other fellow is forgotten. The subway stare—that self-protective look of indifference—disappears.

The city becomes a common white battleground on which the community forges a fresh unity.

Gallantry emerges. Men cheerfully break paths through the deepening snow, and old ladies follow in their footsteps. The bus driver no longer shuts his door in the face of a passenger. He even stops his bus in the middle of the block to pick up a red-faced, panting pilgrim of the drifts.

Ill-temper vanishes. Good nature reigns. An almost frolic atmosphere takes over. People share cabs who never shared cabs before. Strangers grin and speak to each other. Everybody suddenly has time to be helpful.

It might make the big city a better place to live in if it were hit with a real blizzard at least once a month throughout the year—just so it could show its real human heart more often.

Shoplifter Arrested

CINCINNATI (AP) — Police, called by a suspicious department store clerk, arrested Robert E. Paige, 26, Tuesday, and said he admitted working his way across country from Oakland, Calif., by shoplifting. Officers said he told them his usual plan was to take an item and return later for a refund. Paige said he was headed for Chattanooga, Tenn., to spend the holidays with relatives.

Defenses Against Virus On Week's Medical Notes

By The Associated Press

Defenses against virus diseases and a question on anemia are among the week's medical notes:

A daily bath in water containing a little oil reduced annoying dryness of skin in 90 per cent of patients, a physician reports.

Their skin became softer and smoother, and patients reported benefits in such problems as aged skin, burn scars, and skin inflammations. The bath is not a cure, and dryness reappears if the bathing is stopped. But Dr. Gustav Weissberg thinks it was more beneficial in relieving skin troubles than ointments, creams and lotions.

Researchers have found three types of chemicals which prevent viruses from multiplying without hurting normal cells.

Future studies will show whether these or related substances can be useful in preventing or treating human virus diseases, which include the common cold, 'flu, polio, and smallpox, says Dr. Igor Tamm of the Rockefeller Institute.

The three virus inhibitors are a synthetic chemical nicknamed HBB, a mold product known as helenine, and substances produced by virus action and known as interferons. Each protects cells in test tubes against viral damage and shows some protective activity in experimental virus infections in animals, he adds.

Wrong, very wrong, says Dr. Richard W. Vilter of the University of Cincinnati.

Most Americans get enough vitamins in their daily food, and not more than four per cent of anemia in this country is due to vitamin deficiency, he reports. Some 18 per cent of cases are due to iron deficiency from chronic loss of blood and the rest to causes not connected with the diet.

Anxiety is a common cause of insomnia. Tranquilizers can relieve anxiety.

Reasoning that a combination of a tranquilizer and a barbiturate sleeping pill might make it easier to get to sleep, Dr. Wesley W. Bare of Philadelphia tested such a combination on a group of elderly patients.

The combination permitted using less customary amounts of the barbiturate, he said, and worked better than the sleeping pill alone. And patients reported fewer hangovers the next morning from the sleeping drug.

Condemned Would Be Given Choice Of Death Under Plan

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A legislative committee studying capital punishment in Ohio is considering a proposal to allow condemned prisoners to choose between Ohio's electric chair or death by anesthesia.

The proposal was submitted Tuesday by a Michigan pathologist who said death by anesthesia would permit medical experiments before life ends.

Dr. Jack Kevorkian of Pontiac, Mich., asked the committee to recommend such a proposal to the General Assembly convening Jan. 2. The committee took the proposal under consideration.

The last legislature refused to abolish Ohio's death penalty despite urging by Gov. Michael V. DiSalle and others.

Kevorkian, who appeared before the committee at his own request, said he represented no organization and paid his own expenses. He said death by anesthesia would be painless and that medical experiments possibly could be conducted for several days before death actually occurred.

Kevorkian stressed that subjects would remain unconscious and that death would be made certain. The pathologist described death by anesthesia as more humane than other forms of execution and asserted "the medical gains we could get really stagger the imagination."

Kevorkian emphasized that condemned prisoners who voluntarily chose death by anesthesia should be allowed to change their minds at virtually the last minute.

He explained that only by working on humans could surgeons be sure of successfully applying some of the things learned through animal operations about such organs as the heart, liver and inner ear.

The chairman of the legislative committee, Sen. William Baker, D-Montgomery, and Sen. C. Stanley Mechem, R-Athens, said Kevorkian's proposal appeared to warrant consideration. His testimony concluded a dozen hearings by the committee on the capital punishment issue.

Human Thaw Occurs

Storm Melts Cold Heart

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—It takes a blizzard to melt the cold, cold heart of the world's greatest city.

So, if you want to see America's leading metropolis at its friendliest, be sure to come here during a blinding snowstorm.

A human thaw occurs that turns sprawling Gotham into a small town of some eight million neighbors.

On ordinary days a stranger seeing Manhattan for the first time gets the eerie impression he has been set down in a vast civic madhouse.

Everybody seems to be in a tremendous rush to get from where he is to where he isn't. Each person acts as if he were carrying an important message to Garcia. Each person appears to believe the other eight million citizens is trying to block his path.

It is a city where folks don't really seem to have time for each other. It is a city where you start mumbling "G'bye" before you finish saying "H'lo."

To many visitors, awed by the pace here, New York appears less a city than a huge traffic problem—an intricate maze endlessly threaded by two-legged ants hopped up by pep pills, ants endlessly bumping into each other, ricocheting, and then bumbling on, growling.

But let five or more inches of snow fall, and all this magically changes.

The daily scramble to gain an edge on the other fellow is forgotten. The subway stare—that self-protective look of indifference—disappears.

The city becomes a common white battleground on which the community forges a fresh unity.

Gallantry emerges. Men cheerfully break paths through the deepening snow, and old ladies follow in their footsteps. The bus driver no longer shuts his door in the face of a passenger. He even stops his bus in the middle of the block to pick up a red-faced, panting pilgrim of the drifts.

Ill-temper vanishes. Good nature reigns. An almost frolic atmosphere takes over. People share cabs who never shared cabs before. Strangers grin and speak to each other. Everybody suddenly has time to be helpful.

It might make the big city a better place to live in if it were hit with a real blizzard at least once a month throughout the year—just so it could show its real human heart more often.

Chester Five Bows, 53-34, To Raiders

By BOB DUFFY

A fast-moving New Cumberland outfit completed a clean sweep of northern Hancock County competion by upending Chester, 53-34, Tuesday night before some 600 fans at the Chester court.

Coach John Kuzio's Raiders caught fire in the second half and rolled over a smaller and inexperienced Panther five for their fourth straight victory of the season. The loss was Chester's first in two starts.

Only last Friday, New Cumberland defeated Newell to stamp itself as the power to watch in the Class "A" ranks on the eastern side of the Ohio River.

The Raiders, boasting one of their finest outfits in over a decade of basketball at the county seat, pulled away from a 2-15 margin at halftime to a 40-26 lead at the end of three quarters.

Both squads got off to a slow start and the first half was marked by poor passing by both sides and a host of violations. The first period ended with New Cumberland on top, 10-7.

Three New Cumberland starters kept the Raiders' attack pretty well balanced. Tom Hale, a 5-foot-8 whiz, dropped in 15 points to top the scoring while John Kiger, another small man around the courts, finished with 13 and Gary Nardo, Cumberland's 6-foot-4 pivot man, tallied 11.

Charlie Miller, the Raiders' leading scorer who has been averaging 16 points a game, was held to six last night. On several occasions, Chester's fine defensive center, Blaine Pinney, a 6-foot-3 cager, blocked his share of opponent's shots.

Nardo and Miller were the two main rebounding cogs for the visitors.

The big difference came in the number of shots taken by both sides. New Cumberland actually shot poorly but fired 72 times, making 21 for a 29 per cent mark. The Panthers received only 44 tries at the ring.

Pinney and sophomore Jim Tridico accounted for half of their team's points. Pinney checked out with nine points while Tridico added eight, all in the second half.

Chester kept New Cumberland on the ropes for over two quarters but the Raiders struck the deciding blow about midway through the third quarter.

After Pinney had scored, Tridico dropped in two straight jump shots which chopped New Cumberland's lead to 23-21.

At his point, it got close enough for the Raiders who went on to score the next 10 points, zooming in front 33-21 with less than three minutes remaining in the period.

In that point spree, Kiger accounted for two buckets while Joe Haynes, Miller and Hale had one each.

Both teams will mark time now until next week. Chester travels to South Side on Dec. 22 for a Thursday night game while New Cumberland awaits the invasion of Brilliant next Tuesday night.

In the reserve contest, Chester held New Cumberland to only four points in the second half to come out on top, 36-18.

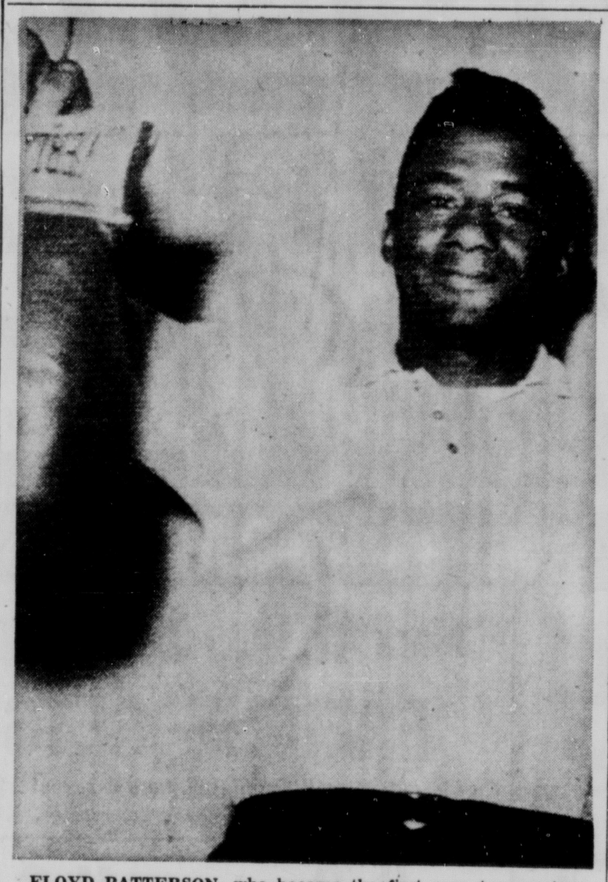
New Player For Tribe Cited In Paternity Suit

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Outfielder Willie Kirkland, San Francisco Giant traded recently to Cleveland, was named Tuesday in a paternity suit.

He was accused by Margaret L. Edwards, 31, a divorcee, with fathering her fourth child which she said she expects in May. She asked that Kirkland be ordered to pay her medical expenses and support herself and the child.



FLOYD PATTERSON, who became the first man to recapture the heavyweight crown, was named "Fighter of the Year" Tuesday by the Boxing Writers' Association for the second time. Largely because of his knockout over Ingemar Johansson, the writers again voted him the Edward Neil Memorial Plaque—an honor that had gone twice previously only to Carmen Basilio. (UPI Telephoto)

South Siders In Fourth Straight Setback, 70-55

The Rams locked horns Tuesday night at South Side but the Hookstown club continued its losing streak by dropping a 70-55 decision, its fourth straight reversal, to Rochester.

Coach Dave Nichol's team grabbed off a 20-19 edge at the end of the first quarter and was breathing down Rochester's back at halftime trailing only 33-31.

In the third period, the Rochester Rams went on a wild 28-point scoring spree while South Side was getting only eight points and this put the game on ice for the visitors.

Art Coleman, Rochester's 6-foot-4 pivot star, fired in 17 while Jim Peel added 16.

Durocher Feels Conspiracy On To Keep Him From Game

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Leo Durocher says he never was offered a job as manager of Los Angeles' new American League club and that he believes there may be a conspiracy among owners to keep him out of baseball.

"I'm not too much concerned with losing the Los Angeles job as with the general pattern," Durocher told Melvin Durslag of the Examiner Tuesday. "Somebody has put in a knock for me and I don't seem to be wanted.

"They may think I'm too controversial. I have never weighed by words. A guy like me makes a lot of enemies. When things were going good with me, I probably stepped on a lot of toes without even knowing it. These birds may be the ones now giving me the knock.

Durocher, 55, said that reports he and the Angels negotiated for the managerial job are untrue.

"They were just saying that to spare me the embarrassment, in print, of turning me down cold," said Leo. "They knew I wanted to come back to baseball. The Los Angeles team could have offered me any decent deal and I would have taken it."

'Wilt', Mills Supply 1-2 Point Punch

By CHUCK CRONIN
Review Sports Writer

Stanton Local of Irondale, tough only when it had to be, jumped to an early lead and turned back a fourth-quarter rally by Springfield to bag a 47-35 triumph Tuesday night.

Sharpshooting Bob Mills returned to form and lanky Don (Wilt) Spires, 6-foot, 6-inch pivot performer, continued to pour in the points as the Irons won their third straight of the season before a handful of fans at the Irondale gymnasium.

The Irons held command throughout but were forced to come through in the clutch as the previously unbeaten Flying Tigers closed the gap late in the game.

Guard Curt Rose, 6-foot, 1-inch senior, came to the rescue in the waning moments with some fine defensive rebounding to enable Coach Harry Diehl's Irons to meet the challenge.

Mills, a standout as a sophomore, flashed his old form in teaming up with the skyscraping Spires to arm Stanton Local with a strong one-two scoring punch.

A nine-point outburst by Mills in the first period pushed the Irons to a lead they held throughout although the score got dangerously close several times in the second half.

Big Spires pushed 19 points through the nets and speared 13 rebounds. Mills hit for 15 on seven goals and a free throw.

Rose contributed only six points to the Irondale attack but picked off 21 rebounds in an outstanding performance. Diehl went all the way with his five regulars, the other two including Jim Leedy, 6-foot, 1-inch forward, and John Lutton, 6-foot senior.

Neither squad gave the fans much to cheer about in field goal shooting or classy teamwork. The Irons goaled 17 of 55 for 31 per cent. Coach Tony Golas' Tigers connected on 11 of 51 for 22 per cent.

Springfield, however, cashed in heavily at the foul stripe to help make up some of the difference in field goals. The team sank 13 of 15 for the night.

The Irons confronted Springfield with a fast-moving zone defense that forced the losers to shoot from far in the backcourt throughout the game.

Springfield used a man-to-man which the Irons managed to solve without too much trouble. Poor shooting reflected in the low scores of both teams.

Featheringham topped the Springfield shooters with 13 points on four goals and five of six free throws. Sivets had a hot night at the charity line, sinking six of six, and adding two field goals for 10 points.

Springfield, playing in the Class A ranks for the first time in about eight years, now has a record of 3-1. The Tigers formerly were rated a double-A school.

Anderson's 20 Sets Pace For Leopard Five

ELLWOOD CITY — Midland's first test on a foreign court resulted in a 49-40 win over Ellwood City here Tuesday night.

The victory was Midland's third in four games as the Leopards continued their march through the exhibition schedule prior to opening WPIAL Section 8 play on Jan. 3.

The steady play of Carl Anderson and spurts in the second half by Al Aloi and Jim Perkins led to the Midland success.

Anderson pocketed 20 points, spreading his scoring evenly over the four quarters. The lone Midland veteran also pulled down 14 rebounds.

Perkins scored seven markers and Aloi added six, all in the second half when Midland pulled to a comfortable margin.

The first quarter ended with Ellwood City on top 10-9, but Midland has been a second half team all season and Tuesday night was no different.

The Leopards held a 23-19 edge at halftime, then came out in the third quarter to build a 41-34 lead.

Midland took 56 shots and hooped 20 for a 35 per cent mark, but out rebounded Ellwood City, 43-20.

Heavy Champ, Writer Cited

NEW YORK (AP) — World heavyweight boxing champion Floyd Patterson and veteran sports writer Ned Brown are the winners of two of boxing's most important rewards.

Patterson, first man to regain the heavyweight title when he knocked out Ingemar Johansson last June 20, was awarded the Edward J. Neil Memorial Plaque as Fighter of the Year by the Boxing Writers Association.

Patterson became the second two-time winner of the Neil award, named in memory of the former Associated Press sports writer who was killed in 1938 while covering the Spanish Civil War. Patterson won it first in 1956, the year he won the title the first time at the age of 21.

Brown, about 78, is employed by the North American News Alliance. He was boxing writer for the New York World from 1903 to 1931. A former president of the Writers' Association, he handled publicity for some recent important title fights and did public relations work for Jack Dempsey. Brown won the James J. Walker award for "long and meritorious service to boxing."

Over $4 Million Will Change Hands In Player Draws

BOSTON (AP)—Officials of the Washington and Los Angeles teams go behind closed doors today to pick the players who will stock their new American League teams.

Each newcomer will select 28 players from a pool of 120 provided by the eight existing teams. The price tag on each player is $75,000. It amounts to the biggest player transaction in baseball history. At least $4.2 million will change hands before the meeting breaks up.

Both general managers, Fred Haney of Los Angeles and Eddie Doherty of Washington, were generally optimistic.

"Once we get our squad picked, we'll be able to do some manipulating," Haney said. "The players in the pool are not so inferior as many feel."

"At least we'll get a start," Doherty agreed.

Each team must select 10 pitchers, six infielders, four outfielders, and two catchers. The other six players can be for any position. First choice will be determined by a flip of a coin.

Each of the eight present teams made 15 players from its roster available for the pool, but no more than seven from any team may be selected by the newcomers.

The list of players up for grabs has not been announced.

Salem Not Impressive In Victory Over Girard

SALEM — The Salem Quakers were none to impressive in their first victory of the season which came in a 47-38 decision over Girard here Tuesday night.

Poor shooting found the Quakers in trouble throughout the contest. Final charts showed Salem taking 51 shots with only 17 going through the nets.

Girard climbed in front, 12-10, at the end of the first period but Salem managed to push ahead, 25-22, at halftime, then moved out to a 38-29 lead after three periods.

While pivotman Don Davison was being held to only five points, Bob Eskay picked up some of the slack by netting 17 points.

Ron Mamrick paced Girard with 12.

Celtics Drop Tilt To Knicks

By The Associated Press

The Boston Celtics, who have been a power in the National Basketball Association Since 1956-57, may not be coming apart at the seams.

But the world champions lost their second straight game to the lowly New York Knickerbockers Tuesday night 117-115, their fifth defeat in the last seven games.

Boston now is in second place in the NBA's Eastern Division, 1½ games behind Philadelphia.

It was the second game of a Madison Square Garden doubleheader, with the Syracuse Nationals hanging on to whip the Cincinnati Royals 107-105 in the opener.

Syracuse now has won eight of its last 10 games, and remains in third place 5½ games behind the Philadelphia Warriors, who also put on a fast finish at College Park, Md., to beat the Detroit Pistons 110-108.

New Cumberland Pushes Unbeaten String To Four Straight

Springfield No Match, Stanton Rolls To Third Win, 47-35

Chester Five Bows, 53-34, To Raiders

By BOB DUFFY
Review Sports Editor

A fast-moving New Cumberland outfit completed a clean sweep of northern Hancock County competition by upending Chester, 53-34, Tuesday night before some 600 fans at the Chester court.

Coach John Kuzio's Raiders caught fire in the second half and rolled over a smaller and inexperienced Panther five for their fourth straight victory of the season. The loss was Chester's first in two starts.

Only last Friday, New Cumberland defeated Newell to stamp itself as the power to watch in the Class "A" ranks on the eastern side of the Ohio River.

The Raiders, boasting one of their finest outfits in over a decade of basketball at the county seat, pulled away from a 2-15 margin at halftime to a 40-26 lead at the end of three quarters.

Both squads got off to a slow start and the first half was marked by poor passing by both sides and a host of violations. The first period ended with New Cumberland on top, 10-7.

Three New Cumberland starters kept the Raiders' attack pretty well balanced. Tom Hale, a 5-foot-8 whiz, dropped in 15 points to top the scoring while John Kiger, another small man around the courts, finished with 13 and Gary Nardo, Cumberland's 6-foot-4 pivot man, tallied 11.

Charlie Miller, the Raiders' leading scorer who has been averaging 16 points a game, was held to six last night. On several occasions, Chester's fine defensive center, Blaine Pinney, a 6-foot-3 cager, blocked his share of opponent's shots.

Nardo and Miller were the two main rebounding cogs for the visitors.

The big difference came in the number of shots taken by both sides. New Cumberland actually shot poorly but fired 72 times, making 21 for a 29 per cent mark. The Panthers received only 44 tries at the ring.

Pinney and sophomore Jim Tridico accounted for half of their team's points. Pinney checked out with nine points while Tridico added eight, all in the second half.

Chester kept New Cumberland on the ropes for over two quarters but the Raiders struck the deciding blow about midway through the third quarter.

After Pinney had scored, Tridico dropped in two straight jump shots which chopped New Cumberland's lead to 23-21.

At his point, it got close enough for the Raiders who went on to score the next 10 points, zooming in front 33-21 with less than three minutes remaining in the period.

In that point spree, Kiger accounted for two buckets while Joe Haynes, Miller and Hale had one each.

Both teams will mark time now until next week. Chester travels to South Side on Dec. 22 for a Thursday night game while New Cumberland awaits the invasion of Brilliant next Tuesday night.

In the reserve contest, Chester held New Cumberland to only four points in the second half to come out on top, 36-18.

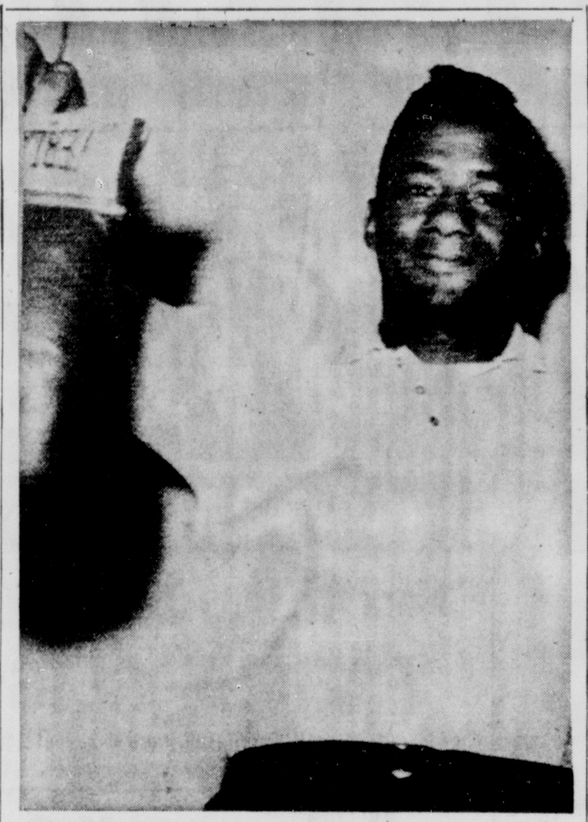
New Player For Tribe Cited In Paternity Suit

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Outfielder Willie Kirkland, San Francisco Giant traded recently to Cleveland, was named Tuesday in a paternity suit.

He was accused by Margaret L. Edwards, 31, a divorcee, with fathering her fourth child which she said she expects in May. She asked that Kirkland be ordered to pay her medical expenses and support herself and the child.



FLOYD PATTERSON, who became the first man to recapture the heavyweight crown, was named "Fighter of the Year" Tuesday by the Boxing Writers' Association for the second time. Largely because of his knockout over Ingemar Johansson, the writers again voted him the Edward Neil Memorial Plaque—an honor that had gone twice previously only to Carmen Basilio. (UPI Telephoto)

South Siders In Fourth Straight Setback, 70-55

The Rams locked horns Tuesday night at South Side but the Hookstown club continued its losing streak by dropping a 70-55 decision, its fourth straight reversal, to Rochester.

Coach Dave Nichol's team grabbed off a 20-19 edge at the end of the first quarter and was breathing down Rochester's back at halftime trailing only 33-31.

In the third period, the Rochester Rams went on a wild 28-point scoring spree while South Side was getting only eight points and this put the game on ice for the visitors.

Art Coleman, Rochester's 6-foot-4 pivot star, fired in 17 while Jim Peel added 16.

Dale Ashcroft was South Side's pacesetter with 13 but the attack showed balance with Don Floyd's 12, Chuck Schmidt's 11 and Cecil Frazier's 10.

The reserve game went to Rochester, 44-30.

Durocher Feels Conspiracy On To Keep Him From Game

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Leo Durocher says he never was offered a job as manager of Los Angeles' new American League club and that he believes there may be a conspiracy among owners to keep him out of baseball.

"I'm not too much concerned with losing the Los Angeles job as with the general pattern," Durocher told Melvin Durslag of the Examiner Tuesday. "Somebody has put in a knock for me and I don't seem to be wanted.

"They may think I'm too controversial. I have never weighed by words. A guy like me makes a lot of enemies. When things were going good with me, I probably stepped on a lot of toes without even knowing it. These birds may be the ones now giving me the knock.

Durocher, 55, said that reports he and the Angels negotiated for the managerial job are untrue.

"They were just saying that to spare me the embarrassment, in print, of turning me down cold," said Leo. "They knew I wanted to come back to baseball. The Los Angeles team could have offered me any decent deal and I would have taken it."

'Wilt', Mills Supply 1-2 Point Punch

By CHUCK CRONIN
Review Sports Writer

Stanton Local of Irondale, tough only when it had to be, jumped to an early lead and turned back a fourth-quarter rally by Springfield to bag a 47-35 triumph Tuesday night.

Sharpshooting Bob Mills returned to form and lanky Don (Wilt) Spires, 6-foot, 6-inch pivot performer, continued to pour in the points as the Irons won their third straight of the season before a handful of fans at the Irondale gymnasium.

The Irons held command throughout but were forced to come through in the clutch as the previously unbeaten Flying Tigers closed the gap late in the game.

Guard Curt Rose, 6-foot, 1-inch senior, came to the rescue in the waning moments with some fine defensive rebounding to enable Coach Harry Diehl's Irons to meet the challenge.

Mills, a standout as a sophomore, flashed his old form in teaming up with the skyscraping Spires to arm Stanton Local with a strong one-two scoring punch.

A nine-point outburst by Mills in the first period pushed the Irons to a lead they held throughout although the score got dangerously close several times in the second half.

Big Spires pushed 19 points through the nets and speared 13 rebounds. Mills hit for 15 on seven goals and a free throw.

Rose contributed only six points to the Irondale attack but picked off 21 rebounds in an outstanding performance. Diehl went all the way with his five regulars, the other two including Jim Leedy, 6-foot, 1-inch forward, and John Lutton, 6-foot senior.

Neither squad gave the fans much to cheer about in field goal shooting or classy teamwork. The Irons goaled 17 of 55 for 31 per cent. Coach Tony Golas' Tigers connected on 11 of 51 for 22 per cent.

Springfield, however, cashed in heavily at the foul stripe to help make up some of the difference in field goals. The team sank 13 of 15 for the night.

The Irons confronted Springfield with a fast-moving zone defense that forced the losers to shoot from far in the backcourt throughout the game.

Springfield used a man-to-man which the Irons managed to solve without too much trouble. Poor shooting reflected in the low scores of both teams.

Featheringham topped the Springfield shooters with 13 points on four goals and five of six free throws. Sivets had a hot night at the charity line, sinking six of six, and adding two field goals for 10 points.

Springfield, playing in the Class A ranks for the first time in about eight years, now has a record of 3-1. The Tigers formerly were rated a double-A school.

Moritz said he wants more time to spend with his family and in graduate study. "I plan to work towards my doctorate along with doing my vocational work," Moritz said. "I need about 15 hours credit towards that degree."

In his three seasons as head coach Moritz's teams have won 21, lost 5 and tied 3. The 1959 team was co-city champs with Benedictine, and this year's squad beat the Bengals 6-0 in the city title contest.

Midland Tops Ellwood City, 49-40; Salineville Gains Winner's Circle

Anderson's 20 Sets Pace For Leopard Five

ELLWOOD CITY — Midland's first test on a foreign court resulted in a 49-40 win over Ellwood City here Tuesday night.

The victory was Midland's third in four games as the Leopards continued their march through the exhibition schedule prior to opening WPIAL Section 8 play on Jan. 3.

The steady play of Carl Anderson and spurts in the second half by Al Aloi and Jim Perkins led to the Midland success.

Anderson pocketed 20 points, spreading his scoring evenly over the four quarters. The lone Midland veteran also pulled down 14 rebounds.

Perkins scored seven markers and Aloi added six, all in the second half when Midland pulled to a comfortable margin.

The first quarter ended with Ellwood City on top 10-9, but Midland has been a second half team all season and Tuesday night was no different.

The Leopards held a 23-19 edge at halftime, then came out in the third quarter to build a 41-34 lead.

Midland took 56 shots and hooped 20 for a 35 per cent mark, but out rebounded Ellwood City, 43-20.

Heavy Champ, Writer Cited

NEW YORK (AP) — World heavyweight boxing champion Floyd Patterson and veteran sports writer Ned Brown are the winners of two of boxing's most important rewards.

Patterson, first man to regain the heavyweight title when he knocked out Ingemar Johansson last June 20, was awarded the Edward J. Neil Memorial Plaque as Fighter of the Year by the Boxing Writers Association.

Patterson became the second two-time winner of the Neil award, named in memory of the former Associated Press sports writer who was killed in 1938 while covering the Spanish Civil War. Patterson won it first in 1956, the year he won the title the first time at the age of 21.

Brown, about 78, is employed by the North American News Alliance. He was boxing writer for the New York World from 1903 to 1931. A former president of the Writers' Association, he handled publicity for some recent important title fights and did public relations work for Jack Dempsey. Brown won the James J. Walker award for "long and meritorious service to boxing."

Over $4 Million Will Change Hands In Player Draws

BOSTON (AP)—Officials of the Washington and Los Angeles teams go behind closed doors today to pick the players who will stock their new American League teams.

Each newcomer will select 28 players from a pool of 120 provided by the eight existing teams. The price tag on each player is $75,000. It amounts to the biggest player transaction in baseball history. At least $4.2 million will change hands before the meeting breaks up.

Both general managers, Fred Haney of Los Angeles and Eddie Doherty of Washington, were generally optimistic.

"Once we get our squad picked, we'll be able to do some manipulating," Haney said. "The players in the pool are not so inferior as many feel."

"At least we'll get a start," Doherty agreed.

Each team must select 10 pitchers, six infielders, four outfielders, and two catchers. The other six players can be for any position. First choice will be determined by a flip of a coin.

Each of the eight present teams made 15 players from its roster available for the pool, but no more than seven from any team may be selected by the newcomers.

The list of players up for grabs has not been announced.

Salem Not Impressive In Victory Over Girard

SALEM — The Salem Quakers were none to impressive in their first victory of the season which came in a 47-38 decision over Girard here Tuesday night.

Poor shooting found the Quakers in trouble throughout the contest. Final charts showed Salem taking 51 shots with only 17 going through the nets.

Girard climbed in front, 12-10, at the end of the first period but Salem managed to push ahead, 25-22, at halftime, then moved out to a 38-29 lead after three periods.

While pivotman Don Davison was being held to only five points, Bob Eskay picked up some of the slack by netting 17 points.

Ron Mamrick paced Girard with 12.

Celtics Drop Tilt To Knicks

By The Associated Press

The Boston Celtics, who have been a power in the National Basketball Association Since 1956-57, may not be coming apart at the seams.

But the world champions lost their second straight game to the lowly New York Knickerbockers Tuesday night 117-115, their fifth defeat in the last seven games.

Boston now is in second place in the NBA's Eastern Division, 1½ games behind Philadelphia.

It was the second game of a Madison Square Garden doubleheader, with the Syracuse Nationals hanging on to whip the Cincinnati Royals 107-105 in the opener.

Syracuse now has won eight of its last 10 games, and remains in third place 5½ games behind the Philadelphia Warriors, who also put on a fast finish at College Park, Md., to beat the Detroit Pistons 110-108.

Indians Stop Jewett Five In 59-56 Tilt

SALINEVILLE — Coach Dick Jones' Salineville five stepped into the winner's circle for the first time this season but had to stave off a late bid by a pesky Jewett club in a 59-56 victory.

The game was headed towards a rout at halftime with Salineville enjoying a 39-25 margin but Jewett whipped 19 points through the hoop in the third period while the Indians were scoring only eight. Salineville showed a narrow 47-44 edge going into the fourth quarter.

Carbo 'Leaves' Prison For Questioning In Boxing Probe

Ex-Gangster Called After Being Linked

By G. MILTON KELLY

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate boxing probers called mobster Frankie Carbo from his prison cell for questioning today about his role as an underworld czar of professional boxing.

Carbo, a survivor of old gang wars, is serving a two-year sentence in New York on state charges of illegal undercover manipulations in bigtime prizefights.

The Senate Antitrust and Monopoly subcommittee reversed itself and decided to call him, after hearing testimony that Carbo for years seemingly held vast power to make or break a boxer or manager through his influence.

He was named as close to the top officials of International Boxing Clubs, which were broken up by the courts as a monopolistic group controlling the staging of championship bouts.

Carbo, known to the underworld as "Mr. Gray" and as "The Southern Salesman," was involved in gang wars in which onetime beer baron Waxey Gordon and West Coast gangster Bugsy Siegel were figures.

This is the last scheduled day of this phase of hearings in which the subcommittee is exploring the extent of gangster influence in boxing.

In testimony Tuesday, Charles (Sonny) Liston, the top contender for Floyd Patterson's crown, swore that if underworld figures are cutting in on his ring earnings, he never knew it. He said he'd get rid of them if he ever finds they do.

Liston, who has a spectacular 30 wins, one loss boxing record and a long record of arrests in St. Louis, insisted he was unaware that either Frank (Blinky) Palermo of Philadelphia or John J. Vitale, a St. Louis hoodlum, have acted as his undercover managers.

Liston said his first information that they might have cut themselves in on his earnings came from testimony in the hearings.

By BEN OLAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Kentucky is no longer the college basketball power it was in the good old days, but the Wildcats can still pull one out of the bag once in a while.

They did Tuesday night, turning back favored, previously unbeaten and fifth-ranked North Carolina 70-65. Trailing 27-26 at halftime, the Wildcats roared back in the second half behind the slick shooting of Ned Jennings and Bill Lickert.

It had to be a good night for at least one other Kentucky school because Louisville and Western Kentucky were matched in the finals of the Bluegrass Tournament, the first major tourney of the season. Ninth-ranked Louisville won 86-71 to lift its record to 7-0. Utah State settled for third place by downing Georgia Tech 67-62.

Cincinnati showed it can win without Oscar Robertson, while West Virginia did the same without Jerry West. Both All-Americas were lost through graduation. The Bearcats beat Loyola of Los Angeles 74-53, and West Virginia nipped Richmond 75-72. Cincinnati has won four games and lost one, while the Mountaineers are 3-2.

Kentucky's fine free-throw shooting was the difference against North Carolina. The Wildcats hit 28 of 34 and had a stretch of 18 straight in the second half until they missed one. Jennings scored 19 points. Larry Pursiful had 17, including 11 of 11 from the free-throw line, while Lickert had 16, including a second half basket that sent Ketucky in front to stay.

In other games, VMI's Keydets, led by Norm Halberstadt's 27 points, whipped Virginia for the first time since 1943. The score was 75-63. Marquette overcame an early 17-point deficit to turn back Wichita's Shockers 83-79.

Oklahoma City posted its fifth triumph in a row, 68-54 over Baylor. Tulsa downed Arkansas 64-59 and Jerry Graves had 28 points to lead Mississippi State to a 98-75 triumph over Spring Hill of Mobile, Ala.

Packer Win Would Save All Confusion

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Green Bay Packers have one of the soundest ground games in the National Football League, but the Los Angeles Rams hope to upset them here Saturday and scramble the Western Conference race.

If the Packers win they are divisional champions and face the Philadelphia Eagles in the NFL playoff. If they lose there will have to be a playoff among the Baltimore Colts, San Francisco 49ers, Detroit Lions and Green Bay.

Green Bay leads the parade now with a 7-4 record but Baltimore, San Francisco and Detroit all are 6-5. Baltimore faces San Francisco Sunday and Chicago is at Detroit.

Green Bay was better in the mud than San Francisco last Sunday, but the Rams upset Baltimore, playing superlative defensive football.

"We're getting our defense set for the Packers," said Line Coach Don Paul. "Jim Davis and I figure on using somewhat the same defense we employed against Baltimore — lots of hard tackling and a hard charge."

Head Coach Bob Waterfield is pessimistic about the Green Bay game. He says quarterback Frank Ryan, ends Del Shofner and Gene Brito and tackle Lou Michaels are injured and that the physical condition of the team is the "worst it has been all year."

Bucher Re-Applies For Football Post

LISBON — The application of Edwin (Bud) Bucher to return as head football coach for the 1961 season was received by the Lisbon Board of Education Tuesday night.

Bucher had resigned this fall following a game with East Palestine but the resignation was not to go into effect until the end of the football season.

His resignation was accepted by the board at its November meeting.

Bucher, a highly-successful grid mentor at Lisbon for many years, announced his resignation this fall in an apparent argument with the school administration.

No action will be taken on the application until the February meeting when most of the teachers will be hired for the 1961-1962 school term.

Shorts, Rademacher Win In Cleveland Fight Card

CLEVELAND (AP) — At 22, Cecil Shorts is a young man in a hurry to reach two objectives he sets for himself: the world welterweight boxing crown and the big money purses available only at the top.

The Cleveland youth took a long stride toward those objectives Tuesday night by stopping Vince Martinez, Miami Beach, Fla., at 2:46 of the fourth round in their scheduled 10. He knocked the 31-year-old Martinez, a 6-5 favorite, down four times in that fourth round before the referee ended it.

"Shorts is ready for any of them," exulted the Cleveland scrapper's manager, Frank Ruskay, in the dressing room. "Don't forget he's already beaten Benny Paret, the champion." That was two bouts before Paret won the title.

Ohio Bell Puts New System Into Operation

CLEVELAND (AP)—Ohio Bell Telephone Co. puts into use today its new $900,000 microwave system for carrying long distance telephone calls between Cleveland and Columbus. The system, under construction nearly a year, will have capacity for 72 circuits.

Parseghian Confers With Club In NFL

"I regret that Mr. Parseghian is put on the spot because he is under contract to Northwestern University," said Vikings' General Manager Bert Rose.

"It surely is no reflection on that school or Mr. Parseghian that we have conducted talks. We are seeking the best man available and will leave no stone unturned."

Parseghian, Northwestern coach since 1956, came into town unannounced Tuesday and met with Rose at a suburban country club.

News of the meeting got out, however.

Rose described his talk with Parseghian as exploratory.

Parseghian could not be reached for comment.

I would like again to remind Beaver trappers that during the open season — Jan. 16-Jan. 21— not to set traps where landowners do not want beavers trapped.

—:—

SOME PEOPLE have sentimental attachments to beavers on their property, for example on the Vodrey property in Fredericktown. The late Judge William H. Vodrey purchased a pair of mated beavers from a game farm in the 1930's. And no doubt this is the origin of the many beaver colonies now firmly established in Beaver Creek. The landowner's request should be respected in this case. The penalty for trapping without permission is $10 to $15, plus court costs.

I am also advised that the Sandy and Beaver Canal which ran from Glascow, Pa., to Bolivar, Ohio, was privately owned.

In general, its former right-of-way, long ago, became the property of adjoining and other land owners. From the laymans standpoint, I can only say that it stands to reason that the owner paying the taxes on this property must be the legal owner.

However, I cannot feature any person claiming lands as legally theirs unless it is on their tax duplicate with clear deeds to same. Someone else can take it from here on in.

"No Trapping" signs should be observed since landowners who want the beavers are within their rights. In this case, I would advise trappers to "Keep Off" and "Keep Out" of trouble.

AT THE SAME time, it is only fair play that the local township trustees and clerks who have been breathing down my neck along with other landowners, should encourage trappers to remove the beavers while it is legal to do so. Only two beavers are allowed per person.

Not only have they been breathing down my neck, but have gone so far as to write Columbus headquarters for the Division of Wildlife to remove the nuisance beavers which are plugging drain tiles, building dams that flood pastures, etc.

The Division of Wildlife has sent in expert trappers and many beavers have been live-trapped and removed to points in southern Ohio where they were wanted. This costs the state money. It is taken from the funds received from trappers' hunting and trapping license.

One other thing that will interest the beaver trappers. You can legally trap beavers from their hut or "beaver house" as long as you do not set a trap in the house or tear up the hut to get at them.

It is illegal to destroy the den of any wild animal. In case of muskrat trapping, no trap can be legally set within 5 feet of any muskrat house or structure. But this does not apply to a beaver house.

Mother Nature might step in and prevent many beavers being taken if everything freezes solid, wait and see.

Carbo 'Leaves' Prison For Questioning In Boxing Probe

Ex-Gangster Called After Being Linked

By G. MILTON KELLY

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate boxing probers called mobster Frankie Carbo from his prison cell for questioning today about his role as an underworld czar of professonal boxing.

Carbo, a survivor of old gang wars, is serving a two-year sentence in New York on state charges of illegal undercover manipulations in bigtime prizefights.

The Senate Antitrust and Monopoly subcommittee reversed itself and decided to call him, after hearing testimony that Carbo for years seemingly held vast power to make or break a boxer or manager through his influence.

He was named as close to the top officials of International Boxing Clubs, which were broken up by the courts as a monopolistic group controlling the staging of championship bouts.

Carbo, known to the underworld as "Mr. Gray" and as "The Southern Salesman," was involved in gang wars in which onetime beer baron Waxey Gordon and West Coast gangster Bugsy Siegel were figures.

This is the last scheduled day of this phase of hearings in which the subcommittee is exploring the extent of gangster influence in boxing.

In testimony Tuesday, Charles (Sonny) Liston, the top contender for Floyd Patterson's crown, swore that if underworld figures are cutting in on his ring earnings, he never knew it. He said he'd get rid of them if he ever finds they do.

Liston, who has a spectacular 30 wins, one loss boxing record and a long record of arrests in St. Louis, insisted he was unaware that either Frank (Blinky) Palermo of Philadelphia or John J. Vitale, a St. Louis hoodlum, have acted as his undercover managers.

Liston said his first information that they might have cut themselves in on his earnings came from testimony in the hearings.

By BEN OLAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Kentucky is no longer the college basketball power it was in the good old days, but the Wildcats can still pull one out of the bag once in a while.

They did Tuesday night, turning back favored, previously unbeaten and fifth-ranked North Carolina 70-65. Trailing 27-26 at halftime, the Wildcats roared back in the second half behind the slick shooting of Ned Jennings and Bill Lickert.

It had to be a good night for at least one other Kentucky school because Louisville and Western Kentucky were matched in the finals of the Bluegrass Tournament, the first major tourney of the season. Ninth-ranked Louisville won 86-71 to lift its record to 7-0. Utah State settled for third place by downing Georgia Tech 67-62.

Cincinnati showed it can win without Oscar Robertson, while West Virginia did the same without Jerry West. Both All-Americas were lost through graduation. The Bearcats beat Loyola of Los Angeles 74-53, and West Virginia nipped Richmond 75-72. Cincinnati has won four games and lost one, while the Mountaineers are 3-2.

Kentucky's fine free-throw shooting was the difference against North Carolina. The Wildcats hit 28 of 34 and had a stretch of 18 straight in the second half until they missed one. Jennings scored 19 points. Larry Pursiful had 17, including 11 of 11 from the free-throw line, while Lickert had 16, including a second half basket that sent Ketucky in front to stay.

In other games, VMI's Keydets, led by Norm Halberstadt's 27 points, whipped Virginia for the first time since 1943. The score was 75-63. Marquette overcame an early 17-point deficit to turn back Wichita's Shockers 83-79.

Oklahoma City posted its fifth triumph in a row, 68-54 over Baylor. Tulsa downed Arkansas 64-59 and Jerry Graves had 28 points to lead Mississippi State to a 98-75 triumph over Spring Hill of Mobile, Ala.

Packer Win Would Save All Confusion

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Green Bay Packers have one of the soundest ground games in the National Football League, but the Los Angeles Rams hope to upset them here Saturday and scramble the Western Conference race.

If the Packers win they are divisional champions and face the Philadelphia Eagles in the NFL playoff. If they lose there will have to be a playoff among the Baltimore Colts, San Francisco 49ers, Detroit Lions and Green Bay.

Green Bay leads the parade now with a 7-4 record but Baltimore, San Francisco and Detroit all are 6-5. Baltimore faces San Francisco Sunday and Chicago is at Detroit.

Green Bay was better in the mud than San Francisco last Sunday, but the Rams upset Baltimore, playing superlative defensive football.

"We're getting our defense set for the Packers," said Line Coach Don Paul. "Jim Davis and I figure on using somewhat the same defense we employed against Baltimore — lots of hard tackling and a hard charge."

Head Coach Bob Waterfield is pessimistic about the Green Bay game. He says quarterback Frank Ryan, ends Del Shofner and Gene Brito and tackle Lou Michaels are injured and that the physical condition of the team is the "worst it has been all year."

Lisbon Board Names Firm For Bond Deal

LISBON — The Board of Education Tuesday night authorized the firm of Squire, Sanders and Dempsey of Cleveland to handle the legal phases and possible sale of the proposed $300,000 bond issue on the May 2 ballot for a school addition.

The contract calls for a fee of $200 if the issue is defeated and $675 if it passes. The sale of the bonds, in case they are approved, will account for the higher charge.

The board, which will request a ballot place at the primary, will use proceeds for a 14-room addition at the rear of the McKinley School.

In other business, the board authorized the annual Gettysburg trip May 19-21 for the high school American History Classes of approximately 91 students. Edwin Bucher is the teacher and will head the trip.

A new gas heater was ordered purchased for the Industrial Arts Class at an estimated cost of $200 as the old one is beyond repair.

Mrs. Rex. Rumer will be given $1.25 per day to bring her child to school as the bus is unable to get into the road to their home.

A checker will be assigned to the Lincoln school cafeteria instead of having each teacher take care of their rooms each day.

Supt. Russell Armitage recommended that this two-hour duty could be given to a commercial office education student and the pay will be taken out of the cafeteria fund.

Drapes for Supt. Armitage's office were ordered at a cost of $35.

Disbursements of $72,247 authorized included $25,000 for bond retirement, $9,000 for the teachers' retirement fund for 3 months, $31,300 payroll and over $4,000 for supplies.

Supt. Armitage reported on the Joint Boards of Education meeting to be held Jan. 25 at Heck's Restaurant in Columbiana, which will include members, clerks and superintendents of East Palestine, Leetonia, Lisbon and Columbiana schools.

An all-county board meeting, including city, exempted village and county school boards, has been set for the Lisbon Lincoln School Feb. 2 at 7:30 p.m.

Armitage also reported on the Lincoln Parent-Teacher Association meeting set Jan. 9 when the board will discuss the new building program at McKinley.

The next meeting is Jan. 10 at 7:30 p.m.

U.S. 19 Western Nations Sign In Economics Pact

PARIS (AP)—The United States and 19 Western nations today signed a treaty closely linking their economies within the new Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development.

It was the first time that the United States had joined an international economic cooperative of such magnitude.

OECD is designed to harmonize the trading policies of the Western world in the face of increasing economic threats from Eastern Communist nations.

Member governments now must ratify the new organization, expected to be operational sometime after Sept. 30, 1961.

OECD has three main goals: 1. Achieve highest possible economic growth and standard of living in member countries while maintaining financial stability. 2. Contribute to sound economic expansion in member and nonmember nations. 3. Contribute to expansion of world trade on a multilateral, nondiscriminate basis.

Generally, the organization's aim is that all countries should harmonize their economic efforts.

Keep In Trim

By IDA JEAN KAIN

Teen-Ager Trims Sweets, Loses 30 Pounds

Teens and pre-teens, you don't have to put up with fat padding, nor go on a diet in order to lose the excess pounds. The trick is to leave off the extra calories — the sodas and the sundaes. You probably won't believe you can reduce on three good meals a day, so read this report from a happy loser.

By Ida Jean Kain

"I'm writing this letter in the hopes it will encourage young girls with weight problems to take action.

"I am 16 years old, and this time last year my weight was 160 pounds. Now I weigh 130 pounds. I changed from a size 18 dress and slacks to a size 14. My aim is to be a shapely size 12. I am 5 feet 5 tall. Here are my measurement changes: Bust 36 to 34; waist 30 to 25; hips 42 to 37.

"A WEIGHT problem can ruin a girl's life. I know! This time last year no boy would ever look at me. This year I actually had two bids to a recent school dance. When I was fat I missed out on so much of the fun. . .didn't go to the week-end dances or football games. Now I look forward to them.

"The way I lost the weight was to stop eating sweets. I laid off the sodas, sundaes and cokes. I know now that all a girl needs to do to reduce is to eat three good meals a day. . .and use a little, or should I say a lot, of will power.

"I want to weigh 125 pounds and slim one more inch off the hips and two off the waist. I know I can do it." She signed herself "A Happy Loser"

Teens, here is the calorie score on those sweets: An ice cream soda, 260 to 350 calories; a sundae between 300 and 500 calories depending on the extras, a large chocolate bar with nuts, 630 calories.

If you will regard those between meal extras as standing smack in your way of getting bids to school parties. . .suddenly they won't seem so tempting. Eat a big, crisp, juicy apple after school. Drink a glass of water. . .or a non-nutritive soft drink. While studying in the evening eat another apple. Wonderful for your complexion!

Teeners, eat three good meals a day, but don't stuff. One chubby girl while setting the table, on the spur of the moment put a saucer at her place.

IT WORKED! Average servings appeared ample. At the finish of an adequate meal, draw your belt a notch tighter. While clearing off the table, tie something over your mouth!

How Can I?

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q. How can I make a candle fit firmly into a too-large holder?

A. Burn down an old candle stub — or a half-inch from the bottom of the new one — in the holder. Next, press the heat-softened bottom of the new candle firmly down on the still-burning stub. The candle will then adhere to its new holder-fitting base.

Q. How can I make some of the locks in our house work less sluggishly?

A. A shot of graphite powder into your locks about once a year will keep them in smooth operating condition. If you don't have any graphite handy, blow some pencil-point shavings into the lock — this works fine, too.

Q. How can I insure knit woolens' keeping their shape when laundering?

A. You can do this if you'll dry them by blocking back to shape on special dryers. Never put knit woolens into an automatic dryer!

$200 Still Required For Children's Gifts

LISBON—The Columbiana County Welfare Department's children's Christmas fund still is $200 short of its goal of $1,600, according to Robert Bycroft, welfare director.

Over 100 wards on the county's care have asked for different gifts they most desire this Christmas and over the past several years they have received them, Bycroft said.

He had hoped that the goal would have been reached by this time so that purchasing of the items could be completed. Anyone wishing to donate is urged to do so at once so that each child will get his wish again this Christmas, he said.

Keep In Trim

By IDA JEAN KAIN

Teen-Ager Trims Sweets, Loses 30 Pounds

Teens and pre-teens, you don't have to put up with fat padding, nor go on a diet in order to lose the excess pounds. The trick is to leave off the extra calories — the sodas and the sundaes. You probably won't believe you can reduce on three good meals a day, so read this report from a happy loser.

By Ida Jean Kain

"I'm writing this letter in the hopes it will encourage young girls with weight problems to take action.

"I am 16 years old, and this time last year my weight was 160 pounds. Now I weigh 130 pounds. I changed from a size 18 dress and slacks to a size 14. My aim is to be a shapely size 12. I am 5 feet 5 tall. Here are my measurement changes: Bust 36 to 34; waist 30 to 25; hips 42 to 37.

Out Of The Air

By HAL HUMPHREY

Miss Brent Still Is 'Live'

In the opening paragraph of a diatribe on Hollywood written recently for Playboy magazine by Ben Hecht, the dyspeptic author referred to the first movie he ever wrote. He reported that all of the people in it (except himself) are now dead, including its stars — George Bancroft, Clive Brook and Evelyn Brent.

Hal Humphrey

"I'm surprised at Ben," says Evelyn Brent. "He always was known as a good newspaperman. Wouldn't you think he might have done a little checking? Clive Brook is rather upset, too. He wrote me from England.

"A few months ago I couldn't have cared less whether Ben buried me or not, but now I am a partner in a business, and I think it's important that people know I am alive."

BEFORE joining long-time friend and veteran actress Thelma White in Miss White's talent agency, Miss Brent had not made a movie since 1941. Her Hollywood movie career began in 1923.

The late Wilson Mizner (promoter, author, raconteur) once said of Miss Brent that she was the first woman to play a gangster moll on the screen and make it convincing.

After burying her invalid husband, Harry Fox, the old vaudevillian, a year and a half ago, Miss Brent was convinced by a friend that she should return to acting.

"I did two TV shows, a 'Wagon Train' and one of those Elfego Baca things of Walt Disney's, but these experiences cured me. The whole thing is too fast and frantic now," says the former star of silent and talkie pictures.

THE PEOPLE have changed, too. There is no more courtesy or consideration for one another. I didn't expect a red carpet, but neither did I expect to stand while three of these big lunks in Western clothes sat on the only chairs around the set.

"It doesn't take any longer to be courteous, does it? The electricians and grips remembered me and said hello, but everyone else just sat around and glared. This can make an actor shaky all morning and affect his performance."

Miss Brent was surprised, too, when she found that learning her lines the night before for the next day's shooting was generally useless labor. Everything would be changed, and she had to un-learn what she had memorized.

-:-

"ANOTHER THING," recalled Miss Brent. "We used to have parties for an actor when he got a part instead of sitting around gripping that we didn't get the part."

When her agent called with more TV work, Miss Brent told him that after watching the results on her TV set she had decided that it wasn't worth all of the effort.

Actually, Miss Brent and author Ben Hecht have no disagreements except over his insistence that she has passed on. Hecht says, too, that Hollywood's show people worked harder and produced more worthwhile things 25 and 30 years ago and that they had more compassion for one another.

"You can still walk on a set where Pat O'Brien is working and find courtesy and fun," says Miss Brent, "but that's because it's Pat, and he wouldn't have it any other way."

THERE NO DOUBT are many reasons why the people in the business of entertaining the rest of us aren't having fun doing what they are doing.

Psychiatrists, I suppose, would say that today's show pepple are suffering from insecurity. But why shouldn't they? A show isn't considered good or bad until the rating services tell how many people watched it, and then the sponsor isn't heard from until he chedks his sales charts.

In Miss Brent's starring days, all one had to do was give a good performance.

DiSalle Studies Nurses Program For Ohio U.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Gov. Michael V. DiSalle is considering a nurses training program for Ohio University at Athens. The governor told newsmen Tuesday after a visit to Athens State Hospital that he discussed the idea with Dr. John Baker, university president, and Dr. Hubert H. Fockler, Athens hospital superintendent.

The governor said no decision was reached but that the program is under consideration. He said the hospital now has a program for therapists with 176 in training.

GOP Sees Few Top Problems For Assembly

By ART PARKS

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — There will be a mountain of bills in the 104th General Assembly, as usual, but mighty few will bear any bona-fide policy tags.

Republicans who will control both houses of the legislature profess to see only a few really major problems confronting the state which require new or changed laws.

Democratic Gov. Michael V. DiSalle has said before — and now reiterates — that his basic program for the state was substantially adopted by the Democratic-dominated 1959 legislature.

These seem to be the major issues which will be occupying the thoughts of legislators for the next few months:

Higher education: The problem of providing opportunities to the growing flood of secondary school graduates for education beyond the high school.

Medical care: The revision of Ohio laws to permit more Ohioans to benefit from the federal program for medical aid to the needy aged.

There will be other issues worthy of serious study, but that appears to be the top handful.

Senate Majority Leader C. Stanley Mechem (R-Athens) and House Speaker Roger Cloud (R-Logan) have held some preliminary discussions and doubtless will do a lot more talking before the Republican legislative program even approaches a firmed - up state.

DiSalle still has sticking in his craw a few ideas which the 1959 legislature failed to accept. He still would like to see new laws which would:

Limit expenditures by campaign committees.

Revise the utility rate- base formula.

Sharpen prohibitions against activities of public officials which represent a conflict of interest.

He also promises major recommendations in the field of youth and several proposals on the legal phases of the mental health program, particularly in the commitment of patients for long - time care.

Both Mechem and Cloud agree congressional redistricting will be tackled by the legislature. DiSalle has suggested a bipartisan committee to study the problem of balancing up the size of the districts and working in a new district. Ohio will have 24 instead of 23 congressmen in the next decade because of its population jump.

Whatever the fate of the study committee, the final redistricting decision will be made by the legislature.

Her complaint was filed Tuesday.

The couple were married in Budapest June 4, 1927.

Out Of The Air

By HAL HUMPHREY

Miss Brent Still Is 'Live'

In the opening paragraph of a diatribe on Hollywood written recently for Playboy magazine by Ben Hecht, the dyspeptic author referred to the first movie he ever wrote. He reported that all of the people in it (except himself) are now dead, including its stars — George Bancroft, Clive Brook and Evelyn Brent.

Hal Humphrey

"I'm surprised at Ben," says Evelyn Brent. "He always was known as a good newspaperman. Wouldn't you think he might have done a little checking? Clive Brook is rather upset, too. He wrote me from England.

"A few months ago I couldn't have cared less whether Ben buried me or not, but now I am a partner in a business, and I think it's important that people know I am alive."

BEFORE joining long-time friend and veteran actress Thelma White in Miss White's talent agency, Miss Brent had not made a movie since 1941. Her Hollywood movie career began in 1923.

The late Wilson Mizner (promoter, author, raconteur) once said of Miss Brent that she was the first woman to play a gangster moll on the screen and make it convincing.

After burying her invalid husband, Harry Fox, the old vaudevillian, a year and a half ago, Miss Brent was convinced by a friend that she should return to acting.

"I did two TV shows, a 'Wagon Train' and one of those Elfego Baca things of Walt Disney's, but these experiences cured me. The whole thing is too fast and frantic now," says the former star of silent and talkie pictures.

"THE PEOPLE have changed, too. There is no more courtesy or consideration for one another. I didn't expect a red carpet, but neither did I expect to stand while three of these big lunks in Western clothes sat on the only chairs around the set.

"It doesn't take any longer to be courteous, does it? The electricians and grips remembered me and said hello, but everyone else just sat around and glared. This can make an actor shaky all morning and affect his performance."

Miss Brent was surprised, too, when she found that learning her lines the night before for the next day's shooting was generally useless labor. Everything would be changed, and she had to un-learn what she had memorized.

-:-

"ANOTHER THING," recalled Miss Brent. "We used to have parties for an actor when he got a part instead of sitting around griping that we didn't get the part."

When her agent called with more TV work, Miss Brent told him that after watching the results on her TV set she had decided that it wasn't worth all of the effort.

Actually, Miss Brent and author Ben Hecht have no disagreements except over his insistence that she has passed on. Hecht says, too, that Hollywood's show people worked harder and produced more worthwhile things 25 and 30 years ago and that they had more compassion for one another.

"You can still walk on a set where Pat O'Brien is working and find courtesy and fun," says Miss Brent, "but that's because it's Pat, and he wouldn't have it any other way."

THERE NO DOUBT are many reasons why the people in the business of entertaining the rest of us aren't having fun doing what they are doing.

Psychiatrists, I suppose, would say that today's show pepple are suffering from insecurity. But why shouldn't they? A show isn't considered good or bad until the rating services tell how many people watched it, and then the sponsor isn't heard from until he chedks his sales charts.

In Miss Brent's starring days, all one had to do was give a good performance.

DiSalle Studies Nurses Program For Ohio U.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Gov. Michael V. DiSalle is considering a nurses training program for Ohio University at Athens. The governor told newsmen Tuesday after a visit to Athens State Hospital that he discussed the idea with Dr. John Baker, university president, and Dr. Hubert H. Fockler, Athens hospital superintendent.

The governor said no decision was reached but that the program is under consideration. He said the hospital now has a program for therapists with 176 in training.

GOP Sees Few Top Problems For Assembly

By ART PARKS

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — There will be a mountain of bills in the 104th General Assembly, as usual, but mighty few will bear any bona-fide policy tags.

Republicans who will control both houses of the legislature profess to see only a few really major problems confronting the state which require new or changed laws.

Democratic Gov. Michael V. DiSalle has said before — and now reiterates — that his basic program for the state was substantially adopted by the Democratic-dominated 1959 legislature.

These seem to be the major issues which will be occupying the thoughts of legislators for the next few months:

Higher education: The problem of providing opportunities to the growing flood of secondary school graduates for education beyond the high school.

Medical care: The revision of Ohio laws to permit more Ohioans to benefit from the federal program for medical aid to the needy aged.

Unemployment: Some type of at least semi-permanent solution to the need for extension of jobless benefits during periods of excessive unemployment.

There will be other issues worthy of serious study, but that appears to be the top handful.

Senate Majority Leader C. Stanley Mechem (R-Athens) and House Speaker Roger Cloud (R-Logan) have held some preliminary discussions and doubtless will do a lot more talking before the Republican legislative program even approaches a firmed - up state.

DiSalle still has sticking in his craw a few ideas which the 1959 legislature failed to accept. He still would like to see new laws which would:

Limit expenditures by campaign committees.

Revise the utility rate- base formula.

Invoke severe penalties for criminal conspiracy.

Sharpen prohibitions against activities of public officials which represent a conflict of interest.

He also promises major recommendations in the field of youth and several proposals on the legal phases of the mental health program, particularly in the commitment of patients for long - time care.

Both Mechem and Cloud agree congressional redistricting will be tackled by the legislature. DiSalle has suggested a bipartisan committee to study the problem of balancing up the size of the districts and working in a new district. Ohio will have 24 instead of 23 congressmen in the next decade because of its population jump.

Whatever the fate of the study committee, the final redistricting decision will be made by the legislature.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: A word of advice for "Beat" whose fiancee has insomnia.

If you think you're "Beat" now, just wait till you're married to the girl. She's not an insomniac, she's a nocturnal. Webster defines nocturnal as "one whose energy peak is reached at night — the opposite of diurnal."

I'm a diurnal who tried living with a nocturnal. It won't work. He came home at all hours, wanted to eat when they do in Madrid (11 p.m.). He insisted on seeing the late shows and encouraged people to drop in after the theater, after meetings and after parties. He was fresh as a daisy at 3 a.m. I was propping my eyes open with toothpicks.

At 7:30 in the morning he might just as well have been on the moon. The alarm clock didn't phase him. I had the job of pulling him out of bed and getting him off to work.

After 15 years of it I called it quits. Now I'm married to a diurnal like myself. He starts the arguments early and winds them up at a reasonable hour so we both get plenty of rest. — HAPPY NOW.

Dear Happy: Mother Nature agrees. She does not mate a hoot owl with a lark. During courtship it's wise to learn whether or not the beloved is a morning whistler or a night crawler. Later is too late.

Mother's Rights

Dear Ann: My mother-in-law is causing me great embarrassment. She hates TV and will not have a set in her home. When her husband was living he enjoyed TV so she put up with it for his sake. He died last year and the first thing she did was give away the set.

My husband and his brothers would do anything for their mother but she's very independent and won't let them do much. They want to buy her a new TV set just for appearances' sake — even if she never turns it on — just so the neighbors can see the antenna.

They feel it's a reflection on the whole family if their mother is the only one on the block who doesn't have TV. What do you think? — DAUGHTER-IN-LAW.

Dear D.I.L.: I say your husband and his brothers should save their money and quit being foolish. If their mother doesn't want a TV set that should settle it.

The absence of an antenna does not always indicate that the family can't afford a TV. Sometimes it means a family just doesn't care for one.

The Best Course

Dear Ann: I'm 16 and having a big argument with my mother. She said to write to you and whatever you say will be it.

When a boy I don't want to go with calls for a date I say, "I'm sorry but I already have a date for that night."

My reasoning is that if someone else calls, and I DO want to go, I'm protected. The boy's feelings are not hurt and I can go with fellows I like.

Mom says this is lying and I should come right out and say, "I don't have a date but I don't care to go with you."

In my opinion this is cruel. Mom says it's better than lying. What do you say? — MARY M.

Buried In Sand Up To Chin, Man Eyes Opening 16 Feet Up

HOLLY SPRINGS, Miss. (AP) —Buried in wet, red sand Tuesday when a cistern collapsed, Harry Miller remained today covered to the chin, his eyes on an opening 16 feet above him.

The Negro, 44, father of five children, was caught apparently in a kneeling position with one leg twisted in a ladder. That was at noon Tuesday.

A tube in his mouth provided oxygen from above, where men with shovels worked cautiously in an effort to free him. Late Tuesday night they mercifully placed a barrel over his head to keep the sand from spraying his face.

At the top, Miller's five children kept vigil. One of them, Levan, about 17, fainted but was revived. He remained at the scene.

Hundreds of persons stood silently in the field in a remote area five miles south of here. Highway 7, which runs nearby, was lined with automobiles. A Negro woman in the crowd was heard to say: "It's the Lord's will he ought to live, the way these white folks are helping."

Rescue workers were almost helpless. They, too, risked their lives in the countless sad falls that thwarted rescue efforts by men and machines.

Miller amazed workers with his calmness. Sometimes he directed them. Only a few times did he complain.

"It's mashing my back, he said, apparently in reference to the wet earth in which he was trapped. Another time he complained of the cold.

His ordeal worsened at nightfall Tuesday. Temperatures dropped into the 20s as three big bonfires lit the night. A spotlight illuminated the hole.

Architect Addresses Rotary On Buildings Seen In Europe

Slides of two European structures which impressed him most during a tour of the continent last summer featured a program presented by J. Nessly Porter at the Rotary Club's noon luncheon meeting Tuesday in the Travelers Hotel.

Porter, an East Liverpool architect and associate professor at Carnegie Institute of Technology, also screened slides illustrating a brief survey of contemporary European architecture.

In narrating the program, Porter declared the two buildings which impressed him most on the tour were the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural (UNESCO) headquarters in Paris, and the Notre Dame Duhaute, a noted chapel in Eastern France.

The Y-shaped UNESCO building was designed by three architects —Brever (American), Zehrufuss (French) and Nervi (Italian.) It is supported by massive concrete pylons. The slides snapped by Porter showed both inside and outside views, plus a striking night shot taken from the Eiffel tower.

The awe-inspiring chapel, a tourist attraction located high on the summit of a hill, was designed by LeCorbusier, a French architect who is considered one of the three most important designers today, Porter commented. LeCorbusier also designed the United Nations Building in New York.

Other slides screened were taken in Denmark, Berlin, and London and other cities of Germany. Porter was introduced by Winston Porter, program chairman.

Guests included Lt. (J.g.) Dan Cooper, son of Rotarian Atty. and Mrs. William B. Cooper, home on leave from the Navy. George Hargraves, president, presided.

Forces Backing Integration In New Orleans Held Stronger

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The forces backing integration of public schools here appeared stronger today as 100 New Orleans civic leaders called for support of the Orleans Parish School Board.

The school board itself ended a meeting with legislative leaders in Baton Rouge with President Louis G. Riecke Sr. saying he was "very much encouraged" school financial problems may soon be eased.

No immediate break appeared likely in the white boycott that has limited attendance to a handful of whites and one Negro at one integrated city school and just three Negroes at the other.

The legislature continued in its fourth attempt to replace the Orleans School Board. The House passed the measure 86-4, and the Senate gave it a first reading and sent it to the Judiciary B committee. Approval was considered certain.

Two previous legislative attempts to toss out the board have been blocked by the federal courts. A third attempt, passed 10 days ago, has been restrained by U. S. Dist. Judge J. Skelly Wright. The law is also being tested in the State Supreme Court.

The statement by the civic leaders was considered significant since this segment of the community had remained silent thus far.

In its statement, which also appeared as an ad in The New Orleans Times-Picayune, the group called for "an immediate end to threats, defamation and resistance to those who administer our laws."

Smith & Phillips Buys Dresden Ave. Building

The Smith & Phillips Co. has purchased the Trotter building on Dresden Ave. for warehousing facilities, Ralph A. Finley, secretary, announced today.

Remodeling of the four-story brick structure has been started to adapt the building for easier handling of furniture and appliances. A new roof and gas furnace also are being installed.

A finishing shop also will be installed in the building, Finley said.

The structure was purchased from the First National Bank, trustee for the Trotter estate. The transaction was handled by Maurice L. Rapport, realtor, through the Peter Casper Agency.

The firm also operates stores in Steubenville, Canton and Marietta.

Killed In Barn Blaze

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP) — A prominent realtor trying to rescue the thoroughbred horses he owned and bred was killed Tuesday when his blazing barn at nearby Enon collapsed on him. Firefighters fought Doyt Schierenbeck under charred and ice-covered hay bales. He apparently rushed into the burning barn with a hand fire extinguisher. Several thoroughbred horses died in the blaze which destroyed the big Mound Valley barn; others survived.

$7 Million Cost Set In Modernizing Airport

CINCINNATI (AP) — The red carpet is all ready for the first commercial jet at Greater Cincinnati Airport. It cost $7 million.

That was the cost of the big new runway, the new landing lights and instrument landing system and other modernization over the past five years.

The main runway was extended to the jet length of 8,600 feet, a $3.5 million job alone.

The airport acquired about 1,000 acres over the past five years for expansion.

The Federal Aviation Agency has helped out in costs of modernization, to the tune of $500,000.

Execution Of Slayer Delayed In Plea Study

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The scheduled execution of Mansfield slayer H. B. Pendleton has beeen postponed to permit consideration of his apppeal.

The Ohio Supreme Court made the announcement Tuesday. Pendleton, sentenced for the first-degree murder of Chester A. Chalfant, a gasoline station operator in Lexington, was scheduled to die Jan. 10. The fatal shooting occurred June 13, 1959.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: A word of advice for "Beat" whose fiancee has insomnia.

If you think you're "Beat" now, just wait till you're married to the girl. She's not an insomniac, she's a nocturnal. Webster defines nocturnal as "one whose energy peak is reached at night — the opposite of diurnal."

I'm a diurnal who tried living with a nocturnal. It won't work. He came home at all hours, wanted to eat when they do in Madrid (11 p.m.). He insisted on seeing the late shows and encouraged people to drop in after the theater, after meetings and after parties. He was fresh as a daisy at 3 a.m. I was propping my eyes open with toothpicks.

At 7:30 in the morning he might just as well have been on the moon. The alarm clock didn't phase him. I had the job of pulling him out of bed and getting him off to work.

After 15 years of it I called it quits. Now I'm married to a diurnal like myself. He starts the arguments early and winds them up at a reasonable hour so we both get plenty of rest. — HAPPY NOW.

Dear Happy: Mother Nature agrees. She does not mate a hoot owl with a lark. During courtship it's wise to learn whether or not the beloved is a morning whistler or a night crawler. Later is too late.

Mother's Rights

Dear Ann: My mother-in-law is causing me great embarrassment. She hates TV and will not have a set in her home. When her husband was living he enjoyed TV so she put up with it for his sake. He died last year and the first thing she did was give away the set.

Killed In Barn Blaze

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP) — A prominent realtor trying to rescue the thoroughbred horses he owned and bred was killed Tuesday when his blazing barn at nearby Enon collapsed on him. Firefighters fought Doyt Schierenbeck under charred and ice-covered hay bales. He apparently rushed into the burning barn with a hand fire extinguisher. Several thoroughbred horses died in the blaze which destroyed the big Mound Valley barn; others survived.

$7 Million Cost Set In Modernizing Airport

CINCINNATI (AP) — The red carpet is all ready for the first commercial jet at Greater Cincinnati Airport. It cost $7 million.

That was the cost of the big new runway, the new landing lights and instrument landing system and other modernization over the past five years.

The main runway was extended to the jet length of 8,600 feet, a $3.5 million job alone.

The airport acquired about 1,000 acres over the past five years for expansion.

The Federal Aviation Agency has helped out in costs of modernization, to the tune of $500,000.

Bringing Up A Family

By GARRY C. MEYERS

True Spirit Stresses Joy Of Giving

For most children, typically under 12, Christmas - time is a period when they practice selfish urges and wishes. From now until Christmas, they are thinking far more about what they will get than about what they will give. How few of them will feel that is is more blessed to give than to receive! As a curb to these selfish urges and wishes, a few children are beginning now to save from their allowances, even to find ways to earn some extra money, in order to buy some Christmas gifts for their parents or other loved ones, or for some other person from whom they never expect to receive a gift. In doing so, these children choose to buy fewer things, like sweets, for themselves. To these good ways some children have been stimulated by their parents, teachers, Sunday school teachers or other persons they admire.

WHEN A PARENT tries to motivate the child in these directions, he or she should, of course, suggest that the child provide a gift for the other parent or some other person, never to suggest for self.

Then there are many teachers, especially in the elementary grades, who inspire children to make gifts for their parents or others, employing such measures to utilize and cultivate some creative and artistic skills developed at school.

Some of these children, having made many things at home for fun, may also work on these gifts in secret there. Naturally, they wish their gifts to be surprises.

Now and then one hears a tragic story about a child who has worked hard and long, entertaining thoughts and feelings of love the while, only to disvover that the parent receiving the gift does not express much appreciation of it. Imagine how disappointed and heartbroken the child is then.

LET ME ENTREAT every parent whose child makes a gift for him or her to express sincere gladness and appreciation over the gift, however crude it might seem to be. Just consider the warm, unselfish thoughts and feelings of the child who made it and thank God in your prayers for the child's loving kindness.

Let us parents and grandparents seek various means to help children cultivate unselfish ways, especially at Christmastime, and thus honor Him who, when on this earth, was, as most of us believe, the most unselfish person the world has ever known.

My bulletins, "The Very Selfsh Child" and my "Parent's Prayer", may be had by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope to me in care of this newspaper.

Sargus Reports $662 Spent In Senate Race

State Sen.-elect Edmund A. Sargus of St. Clairsville spent $662 in his successful campaign for a second seat in the General Assembly from the 20th-22nd District, it was shown today in a sworn statement of expenses filed with the Columbiana County Election Board.

Sargus, a Democrat, will serve in the 1961-62 biennium, representing Columbiana, Jefferson, Belmont and Harrison Counties. A second seat is open for the two-year term because of periodic reapportionment.
